

Homero Campos expands his voice to the world of music and records the song "Y"

Salvador Homero Campos has dedicated his whole life to the world of broadcasting, where he has consecrated his name and work; however, he decided to take his voice to the world of music and give his own version to the melody "Y."

With his seductive voice and his unique interpretation of the spoken word about music, Salvador Homero Campos, one of the most recognized programmers of radio, is embarking on a new adventure by impregnating his voice and feeling to the romantic bolero entitled "Y," which made success at the time, the renowned Javier Solís, to whom the broadcasting professional, admires his interpretation.

Raquela Mejía's idea for this production took more than 20 years to materialize. Her dream has always been to capture the voice of the renowned Salvador Homer in this way. She insisted on telling him this for years. No matter what happened, she made sure it happened: "We both adored Javier Solís, especially his rendition of 'Y'; that's why we decided to record it; it's always been one of our favorite songs."

But what also distinguishes the interpretation of this romantic bolero is the intervention of the beautiful voice of his daughter Briana Campos, achieving together a piece with new vigor, which makes this a truly extraordinary family affair. Not to mention the musical prowess of Bolero Soul and Pedro Iñiguez.

It should be remembered that Homero Campos is a nationally renowned professional in the broadcasting industry with 43 years of experience. His genuine velvety voice, ability to connect with his listeners through authentic connection and warm attitude earned him numerous national and international radio accolades, including twice the appointment of "Program Director of the Year" by the broadcast magazine "Radio Y Música." The 2010 Radio Monitor Latino Convention in Guadalajara, Jalisco, Mexico, also featured a powerful tribute to Homero Campos called "Homenaje A Homero Campos."

Undoubtedly, Homero Campos has crystallized his dream of making a name for himself on the radio. Field professionals recognize his talent and dedication.
