Our program is inclusive to meet all children's need. We believe that each child has a right to maximize their optimal learning at their own level.

We also try to run our program using minimal transition times for children. Transition times can be hard on children and having too many can also affect the depth of play children are able to acquire, we believe during play is in fact where optimal learning for young children occurs. A lot of our activities are offered but not forced. We find when given opportunities with choices children are more willing to try something new, and feel less anxiety as they can come join when they are ready too.
