About the Show

The careers of four eccentric Broadway stars are struggling and they desperately need a new stage upon which to shine bright once more. Seeking out a cause, they head straight to small-town Indiana. Through social media, they have heard of trouble brewing around a school prom.

Local girl, Emma Nolan, wants to take her girlfriend to prom but the homophobic PTA are on a mission to keep the high school dance on the straight and narrow. Determined to transform lives and put themselves back in the limelight, the Broadway celebrities muscle in to change the town and give Emma the prom she deserves.

Director's Note

I couldn't be more honored to be directing The Prom as my first musical here at Bethesda Chevy-Chase High School. When it comes down to it, this musical is really about a group of passionate people fighting for what is right. Fighting so that two young girls can be who they really want to be. Without fear and without shame.

There is a line in the show where one of the characters says, "It's hard to believe this kind of thing still happens." Despite being said for dramatic effect, the line rings true. People are still being treated unfairly and persecuted just for being who they want to be. The story you're going to see on stage may seem larger than life, but make no mistake: Emma's story is the story of young kids all across the world. Kids who don't have the love and acceptance that Emma finds along the way. This show tells an important story, one that paints a sad reality, but also one with so much room for hope and progress. I hope you take some of that hope home with you and spread it to others.

Putting on the musical here at B-CC has been a massive undertaking, and so many people made it possible. The music department, spearheaded by Mr. Marshall White & Ms. Lisa Itkin, have helped bring the show alive with each number the students perform on stage. Bill, Rebecca, and Deb have all been steadfast supporters of myself and the theater program. Ada and Nalia did such a brilliant job as student choreographers. And of course, Jen Lloyd and Kevin Koperski. Jen is our fearless choreographer. Her creative vision and passion for bringing the show to life through movement is unmatched. Kevin is not only the technical director, organizing all of crew and bringing all the technical aspects together, but has also been my constant source of guidance as I stepped into the director role this year. I owe a huge debt of gratitude to both of them for everything they've done.

This show would also not be possible without the countless hours of hard work and dedication of every student involved in this show. So to the cast and crew of The Prom, my final thanks is to you. Let's go show the world that tonight belongs to you!
