Melissa Endean was born into a family of professional country musicians, including a grandfather who once toured with the legendary Johnny Cash. She began performing professionally with her family band at the tender age of just 8 years old, however after years of grinding in the industry, Melissa took a five year hiatus to focus on raising her young children. In 2022, she re-entered the country music scene and since then she has taken the BC Country industry by storm. She received nominations in the second ballot for Music Video of the Year at the 46th Annual British Columbia Country Music Awards in 2023, and was a featured showcasing artist for the awards ceremony that same year. Last year alone she performed over 50 shows across BC, with plans to triple that this year in anticipation of her upcoming EP.

With unmistakable vocals, and songwriting that cuts through the hype, Melissa has a raw, authentic sound that'll hit you right in the gut.

"Country music is one of the last remaining collectives that desperately needs more inclusion and acceptance with inspirational role models. I proudly stand in support of Melissa Endean who is a very brave and inspiring storyteller with a beautiful and truly unique voice." -

Peter Cameron-Inglis, Director/Producer/CEO
Mastermind Studios

"...About time stories like this were represented in country music!!! Fantastic video and phenomenal voice to tell it. #representationmatters"- Shannon Loutitt, Founder International Indigenous Speakers Bureau
