

This is it . . . the workhorse that loves to play after a full day on the job . . . and when the weekend comes . . . look out!

What do you call a vehicle that takes you off the beaten path as far as you want to go? Through mud and water, up hills and down . . . right in the heart of the boondocks where the going is the toughest . . . the name has to be "boon-docker"! This is a vehicle that is truly unique in design. The Bottmobile "boon-docker" has the maneuverability of a mountain goat and the personality of a Patton tank. Every feature on the "boon-docker" was put there with the operator in mind. Comfort . . . ease of operation . . . and unlimited use potential. That's what you get with a "boon-docker".

For short hauls, the "boon-docker" trails like a puppy. A tow bar is all you need to go as far as the family car will go... then unhitch and let the "boon-docker" lead the way.

Better than a caddy... the "boon-docker" doesn't try to tell you what iron to use. The unique suspension pampers the turf and the easy in-easy out feature leaves you feeling fresh at the end of eighteen.

The "boon-docker" is a work-horse in every sense of the word with unlimited utility uses... like mowing. The big BMB mower attachment keeps the toughest grasses well groomed... effortlessly.

The two rear wheels and the front wheel make up the 3 point suspension for an easier ride, maneuverability and longer vehicle life. When the going gets tough, the remaining two wheels provide the extra traction to go anywhere.

A dual drive system provides an independent forward and reverse on both sides. This makes the "boon-docker" maneuverable enough to handle any job without loss of power or traction.

The "boon-docker" utilizes standard and proven components, which means replacement parts are no problem. Any infrequent adjustments needed on the vehicle can be taken care of by the operator.
