The arrangement was unusual and intriguing. The blend of beats and keyboard effects made the instrumental lively and gave the song layers. The production values were superb and made the song have a clear, crisp sound.

The repetitiveness of the background beat is a little too off for me. It's an alright song overall though, but could use a little bit more professional polish.

I enjoyed the production and the beat and felt like it is original and unique from all the current popular radio electronic music. Pretty and unique.

The main melody for this song is really smooth feeling. There is a random horn sound that happens in the song that does not mesh with the rest of it.

This is cute. I think I'd tire of it after hearing it twice. The breathy sound effect loses its novelty 30 seconds in. Good start, needs more oomph.
