

Adult Acting Classes!

WHY WOULD I DO THIS?

1. You did theatre in high school/college and you miss it!
2. You are a working actor looking for a new challenge
3. You wish you were just a little more creative/confident
4. You'd love to have a place you can let your guard down

WHAT HAPPENS DURING CLASS?

- scripted scene work to build confidence and connection
- improv to stretch neuroplasticity and uncertainty tolerance
- monologue work to develop empathy and focus
- opportunities for singing, dancing, and whatever else you need from this space

WHO IS THE TEACHER?

Jason Lemire is an award-winning theatre educator. He served as an artist-in-residence with Rutgers University and performed with regional theatre companies from NY to DC. His plays are regularly produced around the country.

"Hands down, a must! Jason brings compassion and acting talent to each session by leading us to discover ourselves, explore the realm we live and feel in, and stretch our minds." — Monica

"I love how Jason is able to challenge everyone in the class, regardless of experience level. As a working actor, this class is a place I can enjoy craft while really connecting with others." — Janessa

"I'm so glad I signed up, even though I was completely terrified. The class has helped me expand what I thought was possible for me and my life in general. And it was really surprisingly fun!" — Matt

WHEN: Tuesday evenings starting 1/9 or Thursday midday starting 1/11

WHERE: A private studio space at 1832 S Broadway, Denver, CO 80210

SLIDING SCALE COST: $345 - $495 for all ten sessions

RESERVE YOUR SPOT TODAY: text/call 310.867.0977 or you can visit:

