

2021 is Starting Out with a Thud

Our three branches of Government require they work in afforded trust of each other. It is that very unity that protects the American citizen and the soil they stand on. When one branch fails to use its check and balance authority upon another, our protection is lost. The situation is so bad now, that the House, Senate, Judges and Supreme Justices are all ignoring their pledge to protect the Constitution.

As a result of this abdication our political landscape has become more than just corrupt, but a malignant cancer. A disease so evil, it fosters outright cheating by the minions it reflects. Little different from Sodom and Gomorrah.

One must reflect to understand this outcome. The instinctive attitude of the American dream has changed before our eyes. Like sitting in water as its temperature slowly increases to a boil.

Gone are the days of American collectivism. Enlisting to war was honor. Saluting the flag was patriotic. Fearing god was a display of nationalism. Entire families sat down to eat at the same time. Respect and morality started at home and continued by neighbors. Sundays were more than a religious thought. It was a profession of faith, a true day of rest and letting go of the wheel. Politicians kissed babies without distain. Exceptionalism was more than a dream. It was an American goal.

While other parts of the world focused on survival, American children dreamt of becoming a doctor, a president or even flying to the moon. Neighbors also lent a hand but rarely interfered. I remember standing teary eyed, proud as hell, as everyone sang the nation anthem. Those tears still come but now for different reasons.

We have witnessed an event that I would have thought impossible – the election of a president by outright cheating. How do we teach our children that cheating does not pay? The socialists, let's not pretend they are democrats, leveraged the fact that their minions are uniformed, unconscious and unaware of the consequences of a becoming a socialist state. The socialist leaders know that their minions are easily manipulated by promises. The media were not only the propaganda arm of the socialists, but participated in their plan

We will have going forward not elected leaders, but rulers. The evidence of that is how cities ruled by socialists manage their cities. They allow terrorists to loot, pillage and burn their own cities. They provide a lawless environment conducive to murders and drug and sex trafficking. Governors and Mayors have locked down their states and cities during the Chinese Flu pandemic without scientific evidence. They acted vindictively toward citizens trying to survive in a time of crisis. This is the America of the future.

The Shining City on the Hill is being snuffed out. Freedom-loving people will wander in a desert of despair until there is a resurrection of another leader like President Trump.

May God have mercy on the United States of America.
