Lot of 1957 Chevrolet 150 U.S. Army staff cars

For 40 years, a small parking lot at Lindbergh Boulevard and Missouri Bottom Road was a popular destination for families, aviation enthusiasts – and teenaged lovers. The Public Viewing Area was located just across from the end of the main runway at Lambert Field and offered a spectacular view of sparkling runway lights at night. The parking and sparking spot was removed when Lindbergh was rerouted in 2002 for a new runway. (City of St. Louis)

Announcing the 1974 Datsun Pickup.

For the pursuit of happiness.
Or money.

The new 1974
Datsun Pickup. Refined
and updated to keep it America's no. 1 selling
small truck.

Li'l Hustler's ready-
when you are. There's a 6-foot all-steel load bed
for everything from antiques to cycles. A new smoother ride.

A powerful new 1800cc
overhead cam engine
supplies the performance and economy. Inside, a newly designed contoured
seat adds to creature
comfort.

Li'l
Hustler
earns its keep,
too. Its great gas mileage
alone can brighten up
your checking account.
Parts are inexpensive and quickly available. Before you choose a truck for fun or profit, drive a Datsun... then decide.

CAMARO UPDATE

The earliest version of the Camaro was produced in 1966, with multiple generations following. Camaros are known as "pony" cars, which are sporty commercial models.

The current sixth generation of Camaros was introduced in 2016.

The end of Camaro production comes as General Motors, Chevrolet's parent company, revealed plans to lay off 1,314 workers from two Michigan factories in a notice to Michigan's Labor Department

"Camaro is a passion product. It has developed a fan base around the world and has brought people into Chevrolet dealerships for generations," a GM spokesperson told The Drive.

The end of the Camaro line, for at least the time being, was announced in March, with the company saying at the time that production would cease in January.

"After nine strong model years in the market, with hundreds of thousands sold, the sixth generation Chevrolet Camaro will retire at the conclusion of the model year 2024. The final sixth generation will come off the assembly line at the Lansing Grand River Assembly Plant in Michigan in January 2024," Chevrolet said in a press release in March.

The company also suggested that further Camaro models would appear on the market at an undetermined time.

"While we are not announcing an immediate successor today, rest assured, this is not the end of Camaro's story," Global Chevrolet Vice President Scott Bell said.

Charging an electric AMC Gremlin. Seattle, USA, 1973.

In 1973 City Light modified an AMC Gremlin to be an electric vehicle prototype. The car was powered by 24 rechargeable six-volt batteries and could run for about 50 miles at highway speeds before needing to be recharged. SCL developed an "Electro Park" charging station for the vehicle, seen here in use by City Light Superintendent Gordon Vickery.
