

141 S.Ct. 2104
Supreme Court of the United States.

CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners

v.

TEXAS, et al.;

Texas, et al., Petitioners

v.

California, et al.

Nos. 19–840 and 19–1019

Argued November 10, 2020

Decided June 17, 2021<sup>1</sup>

Synopsis

Background: States and two private citizens brought action for declaratory and injunctive relief against United States, Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), its Secretary, Internal Revenue Service (IRS), and its Acting Commissioner, seeking declarations of unconstitutionality and inseparability concerning Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act's (ACA) individual mandate, which imposed minimum essential coverage requirement under which certain individuals were obligated to purchase and maintain health insurance coverage, as amended by Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA), which set at zero dollars the amount of the shared responsibility payment imposed as penalty on those who failed to ensure that they had minimum essential coverage. Other states and the District of Columbia intervened as defendants. The United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas, Reed O'Connor, J., 340 F.Supp.3d 579, granted partial summary judgment to plaintiffs as to declaratory relief, declared the individual mandate unconstitutional, declared the remaining provisions of the ACA inseparable and therefore invalid, and later, 352 F.Supp.3d 665, granted intervenors' motion for partial final judgment as to the grant of summary judgment and for stay of judgment pending appeal. Defendants and intervenors appealed, and additional States and the House of Representatives intervened on appeal, joining in defending the ACA. The United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, Elrod, Circuit Judge, 945 F.3d 355 (C.A.5-Tex. 2019), affirmed in part, vacated in part, and remanded, and rehearing en banc was denied, 949 F.3d 182. Certiorari was granted.

Holdings: The Supreme Court, Justice Breyer, held that:

[1] individuals' alleged pocketbook injuries were not fairly traceable to individual mandate, as would be required for Article III standing, because individual mandate was no longer enforceable;

[2] individuals did not satisfy redressability requirement for Article III standing; and

[3] States' alleged pocketbook injury, from costs of increased use of state-operated medical insurance programs, did not satisfy fair traceability requirement for Article III standing.

Court of Appeals reversed, judgment vacated, and remanded with instructions.

Justice Thomas filed a concurring opinion.

Justice Alito filed a dissenting opinion, in which Justice Gorsuch joined.

West Headnotes (15)

[1] Federal Civil Procedure 🔑 In general; injury or interest

Federal Courts 🔑 Nature of dispute; concreteness

170A Federal Civil Procedure

170AII Parties

170AII(A) In General

170Ak103.1 Standing in General

170Ak103.2 In general; injury or interest

170B Federal Courts

170BIII Case or Controversy Requirement

170BIII(A) In General

170Bk2103 Nature of dispute; concreteness

The Constitution gives federal courts the power to adjudicate only genuine “Cases” and “Controversies,” and that power includes the requirement that litigants have standing. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1.

5 Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Federal Civil Procedure ➡ In general; injury or interest

Federal Civil Procedure ➡ Causation; redressability

170A Federal Civil Procedure

170AII Parties

170AII(A) In General

170Ak103.1 Standing in General

170Ak103.2 In general; injury or interest

170A Federal Civil Procedure

170AII Parties

170AII(A) In General

170Ak103.1 Standing in General

170Ak103.3 Causation; redressability

A plaintiff has Article III standing only if he can allege personal injury fairly traceable to the defendant's allegedly unlawful conduct and likely to be redressed by the requested relief. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1.

10 Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Declaratory Judgment ➡ Subjects of relief in general

118A Declaratory Judgment

118AIII Proceedings

118AIII(C) Parties

118Ak299 Proper Parties

118Ak300 Subjects of relief in general

Assuming that individuals' alleged pocketbook injury, from payments they had made, and would make each month, pursuant to Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act's (ACA) individual mandate to carry minimum essential health insurance coverage, satisfied the injury element for Article III standing to seek declaratory judgment that individual mandate was unconstitutional, individuals failed to show their alleged injury was fairly traceable to government action, where there was no means for enforcing the mandate; Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA) had amended ACA by setting at zero dollars the amount of shared responsibility payment imposed as penalty for failing to maintain minimum essential coverage, and ACA gave enforcement power to Internal Revenue Service (IRS) only with respect to an individual's failure to pay the penalty. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1; 26 U.S.C.A. § 5000A(a, b, c, g).

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Constitutional Law ➡ Requirement that complainant be injured

92 Constitutional Law

92VI Enforcement of Constitutional Provisions

92VI(A) Persons Entitled to Raise Constitutional Questions; Standing

92VI(A)1 In General

92k672 Requirement that complainant be injured

For plaintiffs to satisfy the fair traceability requirement for Article III standing to challenge the constitutionality of a statute, they must assert an injury that is the result of the statute's actual or threatened enforcement, whether today or in the future, and in the absence of contemporary enforcement, plaintiffs must show that the likelihood of future enforcement is substantial. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1.

7 Cases that cite this headnote

[5] Declaratory Judgment ➡ Subjects of relief in general

118A Declaratory Judgment

118AIII Proceedings

118AIII(C) Parties

118Ak299 Proper Parties

118Ak300 Subjects of relief in general

Redressability element for Article III standing was not satisfied in individuals' action seeking declaratory and injunctive relief based on allegations of unconstitutionality of Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act's (ACA) individual mandate, which imposed minimum essential health insurance coverage requirement, as amended by Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA), which set at zero dollars the amount of shared responsibility payment imposed as penalty for failing to maintain minimum essential coverage; request for injunctive relief concerned ACA's other provisions that allegedly were inseverable from individual mandate, individual mandate was no longer enforceable and individuals therefore could not obtain injunctive relief, and claim for declaratory relief did not support federal jurisdiction under Article III, so for purposes of standing the claim was not a remedy for a specific party, which would redress individuals' putative pocketbook injury from payments they had made, and would make each month, pursuant to individual mandate. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1; 26 U.S.C.A. § 5000A(a, b, c, g); 28 U.S.C.A. § 2201.

[6] Federal Civil Procedure 🔑 Causation; redressability

170A Federal Civil Procedure

170AII Parties

170AII(A) In General

170Ak103.1 Standing in General

170Ak103.3 Causation; redressability

To determine whether a plaintiff's injury is redressable, as element for Article III standing, a court considers the relationship between the judicial relief requested and the injury suffered. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1.

7 Cases that cite this headnote

[7] Federal Civil Procedure 🔑 Causation; redressability

170A Federal Civil Procedure

170AII Parties

170AII(A) In General

170Ak103.1 Standing in General

170Ak103.3 Causation; redressability

For the redressability element for Article III standing, courts recognize that remedies ordinarily operate with respect to specific parties, and in the absence of any specific party, they do not simply operate on legal rules in the abstract. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1.

11 Cases that cite this headnote

[8] Declaratory Judgment 🔑 Jurisdiction not enlarged

Federal Courts 🔑 Nature of dispute; concreteness

Federal Courts 🔑 Declaratory relief in general

118A Declaratory Judgment

118AIII Proceedings

118AIII(B) Jurisdiction and Venue

118Ak272 Jurisdiction not enlarged

170B Federal Courts

170BIII Case or Controversy Requirement

170BIII(A) In General

170Bk2103 Nature of dispute; concreteness

170B Federal Courts

170BIV Cases "Arising Under" Federal Law; Federal-Question Jurisdiction

170BIV(B) Particular Cases, Contexts, and Questions

170Bk2232 Matters of Procedure in General

170Bk2234 Declaratory relief in general

The Declaratory Judgment Act, alone, does not provide a federal court with jurisdiction under Article III, and instead, just like suits for every other type of remedy, declaratory-judgment actions must satisfy Article III's case-or-controversy requirement, which at a minimum means that the dispute must be real and substantial and admit of specific relief through a decree of a conclusive character, as distinguished from an opinion advising what the law would be upon a hypothetical state of facts. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1; 28 U.S.C.A. § 2201.

8 Cases that cite this headnote

[9] Constitutional Law 🔑 Advisory Opinions
Federal Civil Procedure 🔑 Causation; redressability

92 Constitutional Law

92XX Separation of Powers

92XX(C) Judicial Powers and Functions

92XX(C)6 Advisory Opinions

92k2600 In general

170A Federal Civil Procedure

170AII Parties

170AII(A) In General

170Ak103.1 Standing in General

170Ak103.3 Causation; redressability

A finding of Article III standing to attack an unenforceable statutory provision would allow a federal court to issue what would amount to an advisory opinion without the possibility of any judicial relief, and would threaten to grant unelected judges a general authority to conduct oversight of decisions of the elected branches of Government. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[10] Federal Courts 🔑 Review of federal district courts

170B Federal Courts

170BXVI Supreme Court

170BXVI(D) Presentation of Questions Below or on Review; Record; Waiver

170Bk3182 Review of federal district courts

Supreme Court would decline to consider a novel theory of Article III standing which was presented by respondents for first time in their merits brief to Supreme Court, which theory had not been directly argued by respondents in the courts below, nor presented anywhere at certiorari stage. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[11] Declaratory Judgment 🔑 State or state officers

118A Declaratory Judgment

118AIII Proceedings

118AIII(C) Parties

118Ak302 Government or Officers as Parties

118Ak303 State or state officers

States' alleged pocketbook injury, from costs of increased use of state-operated medical insurance programs, did not satisfy the fair traceability requirement for Article III standing to seek declaratory judgment of unconstitutionality of Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act's (ACA) individual mandate, which imposed minimum essential health insurance coverage requirement, as amended by Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA), which set at zero dollars the amount of shared responsibility payment imposed as penalty for failing to maintain minimum essential coverage, in absence of a showing that individual mandate, without any prospect of enforcement, would lead more individuals to enroll in state-operated medical insurance programs. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1; 26 U.S.C.A. §§ 36B(c)(2)(C), 5000A(a, b, c, g); Social Security Act § 1916, 42 U.S.C.A. § 1396o(a, b, c).

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[12] Federal Civil Procedure 🔑 Causation; redressability

170A Federal Civil Procedure

170AII Parties

170AII(A) In General

170Ak103.1 Standing in General

170Ak103.3 Causation; redressability

Where a causal relation between injury and challenged action depends upon the decision of an independent third party, Article III standing is not precluded, but it is ordinarily substantially more difficult to establish. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[13] Federal Civil Procedure 🔑 Causation; redressability

170A Federal Civil Procedure

170AII Parties

170AII(A) In General

170Ak103.1 Standing in General

170Ak103.3 Causation; redressability

At the summary judgment stage, plaintiffs can no longer rest on mere allegations of a causal relation between injury and challenged action, as required for Article III standing, but must set forth specific facts that adequately support their contention. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[14] Declaratory Judgment 🔑 State or state officers

118A Declaratory Judgment

118AIII Proceedings

118AIII(C) Parties

118Ak302 Government or Officers as Parties

118Ak303 State or state officers

States' alleged pocketbook injuries, from costs of providing beneficiaries of state health plans with information about their health insurance coverage, and costs of furnishing Internal Revenue Service (IRS) with related information, did not satisfy the fair traceability requirement for Article III standing to seek declaratory judgment of unconstitutionality of Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act's (ACA) individual mandate, which imposed minimum essential health insurance coverage requirement, as amended by Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA), which set at zero dollars the amount of shared responsibility payment imposed as penalty for failing to maintain minimum essential coverage; other provisions of ACA, and not the individual mandate, imposed the costs on States, and nothing in statutory text suggested that other provisions would not operate without individual mandate. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1; 26 U.S.C.A. §§ 36B, 4980H, 5000A(a, b, c, f), 6055(b)(1)(B)(iii)(II), (c)(1), (e), 6056(b)(2)(B), (c)(1).

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[15] Declaratory Judgment 🔑 State or state officers

118A Declaratory Judgment

118AIII Proceedings

118AIII(C) Parties

118Ak302 Government or Officers as Parties

118Ak303 State or state officers

States' alleged pocketbook injuries, from costs of offering their full-time employees and qualified dependents minimum essential health care coverage under an eligible employer-sponsored plan, costs of expanded coverage for employees who worked 30–39 hours per week, and costs of expanded Medicaid eligibility, did not satisfy the fair traceability requirement for Article III standing to seek declaratory judgment of unconstitutionality of Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act's (ACA) individual mandate, which imposed minimum essential health insurance coverage requirement, as amended by Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA), which set at zero dollars the amount of shared responsibility payment imposed as penalty for failing to maintain minimum essential coverage; other provisions of ACA, which operated independently of individual mandate, imposed the costs. U.S. Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1; 26 U.S.C.A. §§ 4980H(a), (c)(4), 5000A(a, b, c); 42 U.S.C.A. § 1396a(a)(10)(A)(i)(IX).

West Codenotes

Negative Treatment Vacated

26 U.S.C.A. § 5000A(a)

*2108 Syllabus*

The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act as enacted in 2010 required most Americans to obtain minimum essential health insurance coverage and imposed a monetary penalty upon most individuals who failed to do so. Amendments to the Act in 2017 effectively nullified the penalty by setting its amount to $0. Subsequently, Texas (along with over a dozen States and two individuals) brought suit against federal officials, claiming that without the penalty the Act's minimum essential coverage provision, codified at 26 U.S.C. § 5000A(a), is unconstitutional. They sought a declaration that the provision is unconstitutional, a finding that the rest of the Act is not severable from § 5000A(a), and an injunction against enforcement of the rest of the Act. The District Court determined that the individual plaintiffs had standing. It also found § 5000A(a) both unconstitutional and not severable from the rest of the Act. The Fifth Circuit agreed as to the existence of standing and the unconstitutionality of § 5000A(a), but concluded that the District Court's severability analysis provided insufficient justification to strike down the entire Act. Petitioner California and other States intervened to defend the Act's constitutionality and to seek further review.

Held: Plaintiffs do not have standing to challenge § 5000A(a)'s minimum essential coverage provision because they have not shown a past or future injury fairly traceable to defendants' conduct enforcing the specific statutory provision they attack as unconstitutional. Pp. 2113 – 2120.

(a) The Constitution gives federal courts the power to adjudicate only genuine “Cases” and “Controversies.” Art. III, § 2. To have standing, a plaintiff must “allege personal injury fairly traceable to the defendant's allegedly unlawful conduct and likely to be redressed by the requested relief.” DaimlerChrysler Corp. v. Cuno, 547 U.S. 332, 342, 126 S.Ct. 1854, 164 L.Ed.2d 589. No plaintiff has shown such an injury “fairly traceable” to the “allegedly unlawful conduct” challenged here. Pp. 2113 – 2114.

(b) The two individual plaintiffs claim a particularized individual harm in the form of past and future payments necessary to carry the minimum essential coverage that §

5000A(a) requires. Assuming this pocketbook injury satisfies the injury element of Article III standing, it is not “fairly traceable” to any “allegedly unlawful conduct” of which the plaintiffs complain, Allen v. Wright, 468 U.S. 737, 751, 104 S.Ct. 3315, 82 L.Ed.2d 556. Without a penalty for noncompliance, § 5000A(a) is unenforceable. The individuals have not shown that any kind of Government action or conduct has caused or will cause the injury they attribute to § 5000A(a). The Court's cases have consistently spoken of the need to assert an injury that is the result of a statute's actual or threatened enforcement, whether today or in the future. See, e.g., Babbitt v. Farm Workers, 442 U.S. 289, 298, 99 S.Ct. 2301, 60 L.Ed.2d 895. Here, there is only the statute's textually unenforceable language.

Unenforceable statutory language alone is not sufficient to establish standing, as the redressability requirement makes clear. Whether an injury is redressable depends on the relationship between “the judicial relief requested” and the “injury” suffered. Allen, 468 U.S., at 753, n. 19, 104 S.Ct. 3315. The only relief sought regarding the minimum essential coverage provision is declaratory relief, namely, a judicial statement that the provision challenged is unconstitutional. But just like suits for every other type of remedy, declaratory-judgment actions must satisfy Article III's case-or-controversy requirement. See MedImmune, Inc. v. Genentech, Inc., 549 U.S. 118, 126–127, 127 S.Ct. 764, 166 L.Ed.2d 604. Article III standing requires identification of a remedy that will redress the individual plaintiffs' injuries. Id., at 127, 127 S.Ct. 764. No such remedy exists here. To find standing to attack an unenforceable statutory provision would allow a federal court to issue what would amount to an advisory opinion without the possibility of an Article III remedy. Article III guards against federal courts assuming this kind of jurisdiction. See Carney v. Adams, 592 U.S. —, 141 S.Ct. 493, —, 208 L.Ed.2d 305. The Court also declines to consider Federal respondents' novel alternative theory of standing first raised in its merits brief on behalf of the individuals, as well as the dissent's novel theory on behalf of the states, neither of which was directly argued by plaintiffs below nor presented at the certiorari stage. Pp. 2113 – 2117.

(c) Texas and the other state plaintiffs have similarly failed to show that the pocketbook injuries they allege are traceable to the Government's allegedly unlawful conduct. DaimlerChrysler Corp. v. Cuno, 547 U.S. 332, 342, 126 S.Ct. 1854, 164 L.Ed.2d 589. They allege two forms of injury: one indirect, one direct.

(1) The state plaintiffs allege indirect injury in the form of increased costs to run state-operated medical insurance programs. They say the minimum essential coverage provision has caused more state residents to enroll in the programs. The States, like the individual plaintiffs, have failed to show how that alleged harm is traceable to the Government's actual or possible action in enforcing § 5000A(a), so they lack Article III standing as a matter of law. But the States have also not shown that the challenged minimum essential coverage provision, without any prospect of penalty, will injure them by leading more individuals to enroll in these programs. Where a standing theory rests on speculation about the decision of an independent third party (here an individual's decision to enroll in a program like Medicaid), the plaintiff must show at the least “that third parties will likely react in predictable ways.” Department of Commerce v. New York, 588 U.S. —, —, 139 S.Ct. 2551, 2566, 204 L.Ed.2d 978. Neither logic nor evidence suggests that an unenforceable mandate will cause state residents to enroll in valuable benefits programs that they would otherwise forgo. It would require far stronger evidence than the States have offered here to support their counterintuitive theory of standing, which rests on a “highly attenuated chain of possibilities.” Clapper v. Amnesty Int'l USA, 568 U.S. 398, 410–411, 133 S.Ct. 1138, 185 L.Ed.2d 264. Pp. 2117 – 2119.

(2) The state plaintiffs also claim a direct injury resulting from a variety of increased administrative and related expenses allegedly required by § 5000A(a)'s minimum essential coverage provision. But other provisions of the Act, not the minimum essential coverage provision, impose these requirements. These provisions are enforced without reference to § 5000A(a). See 26 U.S.C. §§ 6055, 6056. A conclusion that the minimum essential coverage requirement is unconstitutional would not show that enforcement of these other provisions violates the Constitution. The other asserted pocketbook injuries related to the Act are similarly the result of enforcement of provisions of the Act that operate independently of § 5000A(a). No one claims these other provisions violate the Constitution. The Government's conduct in question is therefore not “fairly traceable” to enforcement of the “allegedly unlawful” provision of which the plaintiffs complain—§ 5000A(a). Allen, 468 U.S., at 751, 104 S.Ct. 3315. Pp. 2118 – 2120.

945 F.3d. 355, vacated and remanded.

BREYER, J., delivered the opinion of the Court, in which ROBERTS, C. J., and THOMAS, SOTOMAYOR, KAGAN, KAVANAUGH, and BARRETT, JJ., joined. THOMAS, J., filed a concurring opinion. ALITO, J., filed a dissenting opinion, in which GORSUCH, J., joined.

Attorneys and Law Firms

Ken Paxton, Attorney General of Texas, Jeffrey C. Mateer, First Assistant Attorney General, Ryan L. Bangert, Deputy First Assistant Attorney General, Kyle D. Hawkins, Solicitor General, Counsel of Record, Matthew H. Frederick, Deputy Solicitor General, Lanora C. Pettit, Judd E. Stone II, Assistant Solicitors General, Office of The Attorney General, Austin, Texas, for Cross-Petitioners Xavier Becerra, Attorney General of California, Kathleen Boergers, Supervising Deputy Attorney General, Nimrod Pitsker Elias, Neli N. Palma, Deputy Attorneys General. Michael J. Mongan, Solicitor General, Samuel P. Siegel, Counsel of Record, Deputy Solicitor General, Amari L. Hammonds, Associate Deputy Solicitor General. State of California, Department of Justice, Sacramento, CA, for Petitioners-Cross-Respondents.

William Tong, Attorney General of Connecticut, Joseph Rubin, Assistant Deputy Attorney General Counsel for the State of Connecticut.

Philip J. Weiser, Attorney General of Colorado, Eric R. Olson, Solicitor General, Counsel for the State of Colorado.

Kathleen Jennings, Attorney General of Delaware, Christian Douglas Wright, Director of Impact Litigation, Ilona Kirshon, Deputy State Solicitor, Jessica M. Willey, Deputy Attorney General, Counsel for the State of Delaware.

Clare E. Connors, Attorney General of Hawaii, Robert T. Nakatsuji, First Deputy Solicitor General, Counsel for the State of Hawaii.

Kwame Raoul, Attorney General of Illinois, Jane Elinor Notz, Solicitor General, David F. Buysse, Deputy Chief, Public Interest Division, Matthew V. Chimienti, Assistant Attorney General, Special Litigation Bureau Counsel for the State of Illinois.

Thomas J. Miller, Attorney General of Iowa, Nathan Blake, Deputy Attorney General Counsel for the State of Iowa.

Maura Healey, Attorney General of Massachusetts, Eric Gold, Chief, Health Care Division Counsel for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Dana Nessel, Attorney General of Michigan, Fadwa A. Hammoud, Solicitor General Counsel for the State of Michigan.

Keith Ellison, Attorney General of Minnesota, Scott Ikeda, Assistant Attorney General Counsel for the State of Minnesota, by and through its Department of Commerce.

Aaron D. Ford, Attorney General of Nevada, Heidi Parry Stern, Solicitor General Counsel for the State of Nevada.

Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, Matthew J. Berns, Assistant Attorney General, Marie Soueid, Deputy Attorney General Counsel for the State of New Jersey.

Letitia James, Attorney General of New York, Barbara D. Underwood, Solicitor General, Steven C. Wu Deputy Solicitor General, Lisa Landau, Bureau Chief, Health Care Bureau, Elizabeth Chesler, Assistant Attorney General, Health Care Bureau Counsel for the State of New York.

Joshua H. Stein, Attorney General of North Carolina, Ryan Y. Park, Solicitor General, Sripriya Narasimhan, Deputy General Counsel, Counsel for the State of North Carolina.

Ellen F. Rosenblum, Attorney General of Oregon, Benjamin Gutman, Solicitor General, Counsel for the State of Oregon.

Peter F. Neronha, Attorney General of Rhode Island, Michael W. Field, Maria R. Lenz, Assistant Attorneys General Counsel for the State of Rhode Island.

Thomas J. Donovan, JR., Attorney General of Vermont, Benjamin D. Battles, Solicitor General Counsel for the State of Vermont.

Mark R. Herring, Attorney General of Virginia, Toby J. Heytens, Solicitor General, Counsel for the Commonwealth of Virginia.

Robert W. Ferguson, Attorney General of Washington, Jeffrey G. Rupert, Chief, Complex Litigation Divisio, Jeffrey T. Sprung, Assistant Attorney General Counsel for the State of Washington.

La Tasha Buckner, General Counsel, S. Travis Mayo, Chief Deputy General Counsel, Taylor Payne, Deputy General Counsel, Counsel for Andy Beshear, Governor of Kentucky.

Karl A. Racine, Attorney General for the District of Columbia, Loren L. Alikhan, Solicitor General, Caroline S.

Van Zile, Principal Deputy Solicitor General Counsel for the District of Columbia.

Donald B. Verrilli, Jr., Elaine J. Goldenberg, Ginger D. Anders, Jonathan S. Meltzer, Jeremy S. Kreisberg, Rachel G. Miller-Ziegler, Jacobus P. van der Ven, Munger, Tolles & Olson LLP, Washington, D.C., Elizabeth B. Wydra, Brianne J. Gorod, Ashwin P. Phatak, Constitutional Accountability Center, Washington, D.C., Douglas N. Letter, General Counsel, Counsel of Record, Adam A. Grogg, Associate General Counsel, Jonathan B. Schwartz, Attorney Office of General Counsel, U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C., Counsel for Respondent United States House of Representatives.

Tyler R. Green, Bryan Weir, Consovoy McCarthy PLLC, Arlington, VA, Robert Henneke, Counsel of Record, Munera Al-Fuhaid, J. Aaron Barnes, Texas Public Policy Foundation, Austin, TX, Counsel for Respondents Neill Hurley and John Nantz.

Noel J. Francisco Solicitor General Counsel of Record, Joseph H. Hunt, Assistant Attorney General, Jeffrey B. Wall, Deputy Solicitor General, Nicole Frazer Reaves, Assistant to the Solicitor General, August E. Flentje, Special Counsel, Department of Justice, Washington, D.C., for Respondents.

Opinion

Justice BREYER delivered the opinion of the Court.

*2112 As originally enacted in 2010, the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act required most Americans to obtain minimum essential health insurance coverage. The Act also imposed a monetary penalty, scaled according to income, upon individuals who failed to do so. In 2017, Congress effectively nullified the penalty by setting its amount at $0. See Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017, Pub. L. 115–97, § 11081, 131 Stat. 2092 (codified in 26 U.S.C. § 5000A(c)).

Texas and 17 other States brought this lawsuit against the United States and federal officials. They were later joined by two individuals (Neill Hurley and John Nantz). The plaintiffs claim that without the penalty the Act's minimum essential coverage requirement is unconstitutional. Specifically, they say neither the Commerce Clause nor the Tax Clause (nor any other enumerated power) grants Congress the power to enact it. See U. S. Const., Art. I, § 8. They also argue that the minimum essential coverage requirement is not severable from the rest of the Act. Hence, they believe the Act as a whole is invalid. We do not reach these questions of the Act's validity, however, for Texas and the other plaintiffs in this suit lack the standing necessary to raise them.

I

A

We begin by describing the provision of the Act that the plaintiffs attack as unconstitutional. The Act says in relevant part:

“(a) Requirement to maintain minimum essential coverage

“An applicable individual shall ... ensure that the individual, and any dependent ... who is an applicable individual, is covered under minimum essential coverage ....

“(b) Shared responsibility payment

“(1) In general

“If a taxpayer who is an applicable individual ... fails to meet the requirement of subsection (a) ... there is hereby imposed on the taxpayer a penalty ... in the amount determined under subsection (c).

“(2) Inclusion with return

“Any penalty imposed by this section ... shall be included with a taxpayer's return ... for the taxable year ....” 26 U.S.C. § 5000A.

The Act defines “applicable individual” to include all taxpayers who do not fall within a set of exemptions. See § 5000A(d). As first enacted, the Act set forth a schedule of penalties applicable to those who failed to meet its minimum essential coverage requirement. See § 5000A(c) (2012). The penalties varied with a taxpayer's income and exempted, among others, persons whose annual incomes fell below the federal income tax filing threshold. See § 5000A(e) (2012). And the Act required that those subject to a penalty include it with their annual tax return. See § 5000A(b)(2) (2012). In 2017, Congress amended the Act by setting the amount of the penalty in each category in § 5000A(c) to “$0,” effective beginning tax year 2019. See § 11081, 131 Stat. 2092.

Before Congress amended the Act, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) had implemented § 5000A(b) by requiring individual taxpayers to report with their federal income tax return whether they carried minimum essential coverage (or could claim an exemption). After Congress amended the Act, the IRS made clear that the statute no longer requires taxpayers to report whether they do, or do not, maintain that coverage. See IRS, Publication 5187, Tax Year 2019, p. 5 (“Form 1040 ... will not *2113 have the ‘full-year health care coverage or exempt’ box and Form 8965, Health Coverage Exemptions, will no longer be used as the shared responsibility payment is reduced to zero”).

B

In 2018, Texas and more than a dozen other States (state plaintiffs) brought this lawsuit against the Secretary of Health and Human Services and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, among others. App. 12, 34. They sought a declaration that § 5000A(a)’s minimum essential coverage provision is unconstitutional, a finding that the rest of the Act is not severable from § 5000A(a), and an injunction against the rest of the Act’s enforcement. Id., at 61–63. Hurley and Nantz (individual plaintiffs) soon joined them. Although nominally defendants to the suit, the United States took the side of the plaintiffs. See Brief for Federal Respondents 12–13 (arguing that the Act is unconstitutional). Therefore California, along with 15 other States and the District of Columbia (state intervenors), intervened in order to defend the Act’s constitutionality, see App. 12–13, as did the U. S. House of Representatives at the appellate stage, see id., at 3.

After taking evidence, the District Court found that the individual plaintiffs had standing to challenge the constitutionality of the minimum essential coverage provision, § 5000A(a). See Texas v. United States, 340 F.Supp.3d 579, 593–595 (ND Tex. 2018). The court held that the minimum essential coverage provision is unconstitutional and not severable from the rest of the Act. It granted relief in the form of a declaration stating just that. Id., at 595–619. It then stayed its judgment pending appeal. See Texas v. United States, 352 F.Supp.3d 665 (ND Tex. 2018).

On appeal, a panel majority agreed with the District Court that the plaintiffs had standing and that the minimum essential coverage provision was unconstitutional. See Texas v. United States, 945 F.3d 355, 377–393 (C.A.5 2019). It found that the District Court’s severability analysis, however, was “incomplete.” Id., at 400. It wrote that “[m]ore [wa]s needed to justify” the District Court’s order striking down the entire Act. Id., at 401. And it remanded the case for further proceedings. Id., at 402–403.

The state intervenors, defending the Act, asked us to review the lower court decision. We granted their petition for certiorari.

II

[1] [2] We proceed no further than standing. The Constitution gives federal courts the power to adjudicate only genuine “Cases” and “Controversies.” Art. III, § 2. That power includes the requirement that litigants have standing. A plaintiff has standing only if he can “allege personal injury fairly traceable to the defendant’s allegedly unlawful conduct and likely to be redressed by the requested relief.” DaimlerChrysler Corp. v. Cuno, 547 U.S. 332, 342, 126 S.Ct. 1854, 164 L.Ed.2d 589 (2006) (internal quotation marks omitted); see also Lujan v. Defenders of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 560–561, 112 S.Ct. 2130, 119 L.Ed.2d 351 (1992). Neither the individual nor the state plaintiffs have shown that the injury they will suffer or have suffered is “fairly traceable” to the “allegedly unlawful conduct” of which they complain.

A

[3] We begin with the two individual plaintiffs. They claim a particularized individual harm in the form of payments they have made and will make each month to carry the minimum essential coverage that § 5000A(a) requires. The individual plaintiffs point to the statutory language, which, *2114 they say, commands them to buy health insurance. Brief for Respondent-Cross Petitioner Hurley et al. 19–20. But even if we assume that this pocketbook injury satisfies the injury element of Article III standing, see Whitmore v. Arkansas, 495 U.S. 149, 155, 110 S.Ct. 1717, 109 L.Ed.2d 135 (1990), the plaintiffs nevertheless fail to satisfy the traceability requirement.

Their problem lies in the fact that the statutory provision, while it tells them to obtain that coverage, has no means of enforcement. With the penalty zeroed out, the IRS can no longer seek a penalty from those who fail to comply. See 26 U.S.C. § 5000A(g) (setting out IRS enforcement only of the taxpayer’s failure to pay the penalty, not of the taxpayer’s failure to maintain minimum essential coverage). Because of this, there is no possible Government action that is causally connected to the plaintiffs' injury—the costs of purchasing health insurance. Or to put the matter conversely, that injury is not “fairly traceable” to any “allegedly unlawful conduct” of which the plaintiffs complain. Allen v. Wright, 468 U.S. 737, 751, 104 S.Ct. 3315, 82 L.Ed.2d 556 (1984). They have not pointed to any way in which the defendants, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and the Secretary of Health and Human Services, will act to enforce § 5000A(a). They have not shown how any other federal employees could do so either. In a word, they have not shown that any kind of Government action or conduct has caused or will cause the injury they attribute to § 5000A(a).

The plaintiffs point to cases concerning the Act that they believe support their standing. But all of those cases concerned the Act when the provision was indisputably enforceable, because the penalty provision was still in effect. See Brief for Respondent-Cross Petitioner Hurley et al. 22 (citing Florida ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. United States Dept. of Health and Human Servs., 648 F.3d 1235, 1243 (C.A.11 2011); Thomas More Law Center v. Obama, 651 F.3d 529, 535 (C.A.6 2011); Virginia ex rel. Cuccinelli v. Sebelius, 656 F.3d 253, 266–268 (C.A.4 2011)); cf. National Federation of Independent Business v. Sebelius, 567 U.S. 519, 132 S.Ct. 2566, 183 L.Ed.2d 450 (2012) (assessing the constitutionality of the Act with the penalty provision). These cases therefore tell us nothing about how the statute is enforced, or could be enforced, today.

[4] It is consequently not surprising that the plaintiffs cannot point to cases that support them. To the contrary, our cases have consistently spoken of the need to assert an injury that is the result of a statute's actual or threatened enforcement, whether today or in the future. See, e.g., Babbitt v. Farm Workers, 442 U.S. 289, 298, 99 S.Ct. 2301, 60 L.Ed.2d 895 (1979) (“A plaintiff who challenges a statute must demonstrate a realistic danger of sustaining a direct injury as a result of the statute's operation or enforcement” (emphasis added)); Virginia v. American Booksellers Assn., Inc., 484 U.S. 383, 392, 108 S.Ct. 636, 98 L.Ed.2d 782 (1988) (requiring “threatened or actual injury resulting from the putatively illegal action” (internal quotation marks omitted)). In the absence of contemporary enforcement, we have said that a plaintiff claiming standing must show that the likelihood of future enforcement is “substantial.” Susan B. Anthony List v. Driehaus, 573 U.S. 149, 164, 134 S.Ct. 2334, 189 L.Ed.2d 246 (2014); see also Massachusetts v. Mellon, 262 U.S. 447, 488, 43 S.Ct. 597, 67 L.Ed. 1078 (1923) (“The party who invokes the power [of Article III courts] must be able to show, not only that the statute is invalid, but that he has sustained or is immediately in danger of sustaining some direct injury as the result of its enforcement”).

*2115 The plaintiffs point out that these and other precedents concern injuries anticipated in the future from a statute's later enforcement. Here, the plaintiffs say, they have already suffered a pocketbook injury, for they have already bought health insurance. They also emphasize the Court's statement in Lujan that, when a plaintiff is the “ ‘object’ ” of a challenged Government action, “ ‘there is ordinarily little question that the action ... has caused him injury, and that a judgment preventing ... the action will redress it.’ ” Brief for Respondent-Cross Petitioner Hurley et al. 18 (quoting Lujan, 504 U.S., at 561–562, 112 S.Ct. 2130). But critically, unlike Lujan, here no unlawful Government action “fairly traceable” to § 5000A(a) caused the plaintiffs' pocketbook harm. Here, there is no action—actual or threatened—whatsoever. There is only the statute's textually unenforceable language.

[5] [6] To consider the matter from the point of view of another standing requirement, namely, redressability, makes clear that the statutory language alone is not sufficient. To determine whether an injury is redressable, a court will consider the relationship between “the judicial relief requested” and the “injury” suffered. Allen, 468 U.S., at 753, n. 19, 104 S.Ct. 3315. The plaintiffs here sought injunctive relief and a declaratory judgment. The injunctive relief, however, concerned the Act's other provisions that they say are inseparable from the minimum essential coverage requirement. The relief they sought in respect to the only provision they attack as unconstitutional—the minimum essential coverage provision—is declaratory relief, namely, a judicial statement that the provision they attacked is unconstitutional. See App. 61–63 (“Count One: Declaratory Judgment That the Individual Mandate of the ACA Exceeds Congress's Article I Constitutional Enumerated Powers” (boldface deleted)); 340 F.Supp.3d at 619 (granting declaratory judgment on count I as to § 5000A(a)); 352 F.Supp.3d at 690 (severing and entering partial final judgment on count I).

[7] Remedies, however, ordinarily “operate with respect to specific parties.” Murphy v. National Collegiate Athletic Assn., 584 U. S. —, —, 138 S.Ct. 1461 1486, 200 L.Ed.2d 854 (2018) (THOMAS, J., concurring) (internal quotation marks omitted). In the absence of any specific party, they do not simply operate “on legal rules in the abstract.” Ibid. (internal quotation marks omitted); see also Mellon, 262 U.S. at 488, 43 S.Ct. 597 (“If a case for preventive relief be presented, the court enjoins, in effect, not the execution of the statute, but the acts of the official, the statute notwithstanding”).

[8] This suit makes clear why that is so. The Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2201, alone does not provide a court with jurisdiction. See Skelly Oil Co. v. Phillips Petroleum Co., 339 U.S. 667, 671–672, 70 S.Ct. 876, 94 L.Ed. 1194 (1950); R. Fallon, J. Manning, D. Meltzer, & D. Shapiro, Hart and Wechsler’s The Federal Courts and the Federal System 841 (7th ed. 2015) (that Act does “not confere[r] jurisdiction over declaratory actions when the underlying dispute could not otherwise be heard in federal court”); see also Poe v. Ullman, 367 U.S. 497, 506, 81 S.Ct. 1752, 6 L.Ed.2d 989 (1961) (“[T]he declaratory judgment device does not ... permit litigants to invoke the power of this Court to obtain constitutional rulings in advance of necessity”). Instead, just like suits for every other type of remedy, declaratory-judgment actions must satisfy Article III’s case-or-controversy requirement. See MedImmune, Inc. v. Genentech, Inc., 549 U.S. 118, 126–127, 127 S.Ct. 764, 166 L.Ed.2d 604 (2007). At a minimum, this means that the dispute must “be ‘real *2116 and substantial’ and ‘admit of specific relief through a decree of a conclusive character, as distinguished from an opinion advising what the law would be upon a hypothetical state of facts.’ ” Id., at 127, 127 S.Ct. 764 (alteration omitted). Thus, to satisfy Article III standing, we must look elsewhere to find a remedy that will redress the individual plaintiffs’ injuries.

What is that relief? The plaintiffs did not obtain damages. Nor, as we just said, did the plaintiffs obtain an injunction in respect to the provision they attack as unconstitutional. But, more than that: How could they have sought any such injunction? The provision is unenforceable. There is no one, and nothing, to enjoin. They cannot enjoin the Secretary of Health and Human Services, because he has no power to enforce § 5000A(a) against them. And they do not claim that they might enjoin Congress. In these circumstances, injunctive relief could amount to no more than a declaration that the statutory provision they attack is unconstitutional, i.e., a declaratory judgment. But once again, that is the very kind of relief that cannot alone supply jurisdiction otherwise absent. See Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Wallace, 288 U.S. 249, 262, 53 S.Ct. 345, 77 L.Ed. 730 (1933) (inquiring whether a suit for declaratory relief “would be justiciable in this Court if presented in a suit for injunction”); Medtronic, Inc. v. Mirowski Family Ventures, LLC, 571 U.S. 191, 197, 134 S.Ct. 843, 187 L.Ed.2d 703 (2014) (noting that a court looks to “the nature of the threatened action in the absence of the declaratory judgment suit” to determine whether jurisdiction exists).

[9] The matter is not simply technical. To find standing here to attack an unenforceable statutory provision would allow a federal court to issue what would amount to “an advisory opinion without the possibility of any judicial relief.” Los Angeles v. Lyons, 461 U.S. 95, 129, 103 S.Ct. 1660, 75 L.Ed.2d 675 (1983) (Marshall, J., dissenting); see also Steel Co. v. Citizens for Better Environment, 523 U.S. 83, 107, 118 S.Ct. 1003, 140 L.Ed.2d 210 (1998) (to have standing, a plaintiff must seek “an acceptable Article III remedy” that will “redress a cognizable Article III injury”). It would threaten to grant unelected judges a general authority to conduct oversight of decisions of the elected branches of Government. See United States v. Richardson, 418 U.S. 166, 188, 94 S.Ct. 2940, 41 L.Ed.2d 678 (1974) (Powell, J., concurring). Article III guards against federal courts assuming this kind of jurisdiction. See Carney v. Adams, 592 U.S. —, —, 141 S.Ct. 493, 498, 208 L.Ed.2d 305 (2020).

[10] Last, the federal respondents raised for the first time a novel alternative theory of standing on behalf of the individual plaintiffs in their merits brief. (The dissent, alone, puts forward a similar novel theory on behalf of the state plaintiffs.) That theory was not directly argued by the plaintiffs in the courts below, see 945 F.3d at 385–386, and n. 29, and was nowhere presented at the certiorari stage. We accordingly decline to consider it. Cf. Adarand Constructors, Inc. v. Mineta, 534 U.S. 103, 109–110, 122 S.Ct. 511, 151 L.Ed.2d 489 (2001) (per curiam); see also Cutter v. Wilkinson, 544 U.S. 709, 718, n. 7, 125 S.Ct. 2113, 161 L.Ed.2d 1020 (2005).

B

Next, we turn to the state plaintiffs. We conclude that Texas and the other state plaintiffs have similarly failed to show that they have alleged an “injury fairly traceable to the defendant’s allegedly unlawful conduct.” Cuno, 547 U.S. at 342, 126 S.Ct. 1854 (internal quotation marks omitted; emphasis added). They claim two kinds of pocketbook injuries. First, they allege an indirect injury in the form of the increased *2117 use of (and therefore cost to) state-operated medical insurance programs. Second, they claim a direct injury resulting from a variety of increased administrative and related expenses required, they say, by the minimum essential coverage provision, along with other provisions of the Act that, they add, are inextricably “interwoven” with it. Brief for Respondent-Cross Petitioner States 39.

1

[11] First, the state plaintiffs claim that the minimum essential coverage provision has led state residents subject to it to enroll in state-operated or state-sponsored insurance programs such as Medicaid, see 42 U.S.C. §§ 1396–1396w, the Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP), see § 1397aa, and health insurance programs for state employees. The state plaintiffs say they must pay a share of the costs of serving those new enrollees. As with the individual plaintiffs, the States also have failed to show how this injury is directly traceable to any actual or possible unlawful Government conduct in enforcing § 5000A(a). Cf. Clapper v. Amnesty Int’l USA, 568 U.S. 398, 414, n. 5, 133 S.Ct. 1138, 185 L.Ed.2d 264 (2013) (“plaintiffs bear the burden of ... showing that the defendant’s actual action has caused the substantial risk of harm” (emphasis added)). That alone is enough to show that they, like the individual plaintiffs, lack Article III standing.

But setting aside that pure issue of law, we need only examine the initial factual premise of their claim to uncover another fatal weakness: The state plaintiffs have failed to show that the challenged minimum essential coverage provision, without any prospect of penalty, will harm them by leading more individuals to enroll in these programs.

[12] [13] We have said that, where a causal relation between injury and challenged action depends upon the decision of an independent third party (here an individual’s decision to enroll in, say, Medicaid), “standing is not precluded, but it is ordinarily ‘substantially more difficult’ to establish” Lujan, 504 U.S., at 562, 112 S.Ct. 2130 (quoting Allen, 468 U.S., at 758, 104 S.Ct. 3315); see also Clapper, 568 U.S., at 414, 133 S.Ct. 1138 (expressing “reluctance to endorse standing theories that rest on speculation about the decisions of independent actors”). To satisfy that burden, the plaintiff must show at the least “that third parties will likely react in predictable ways.” Department of Commerce v. New York, 588 U. S. —, —, 139 S.Ct. 2551, 2566, 204 L.Ed.2d 978 (2019). And, “at the summary judgment stage, such a party can no longer rest on ... mere allegations, but must set forth ... specific facts” that adequately support their contention. Clapper, 568 U.S., at 411–412, 133 S.Ct. 1138

(internal quotation marks omitted). The state plaintiffs have not done so.

The programs to which the state plaintiffs point offer their recipients many benefits that have nothing to do with the minimum essential coverage provision of § 5000A(a). See, e.g., 42 U.S.C. §§ 1396o(a)–(b) (providing for no-cost Medicaid services furnished to children and pregnant women, and for emergency services, hospice care, and COVID–19 testing related services, among others, as well as “nominal” charges for other individuals and services); § 1396o(c) (prohibiting Medicaid premiums for certain individuals with family income below 150 percent of the poverty line and capping the premium at 10 percent of an eligible individual’s family income above that line); 26 U.S.C. § 36B(c)(2)(C) (providing premium tax credits to make health insurance plans, including employer-sponsored plans, more *2118 affordable). Given these benefits, neither logic nor intuition suggests that the presence of the minimum essential coverage requirement would lead an individual to enroll in one of those programs that its absence would lead them to ignore. A penalty might have led some inertia-bound individuals to enroll. But without a penalty, what incentive could the provision provide?

The evidence that the state plaintiffs introduced in the District Court does not show the contrary. That evidence consists of 21 statements (from state officials) about how new enrollees will increase the costs of state health insurance programs, see App. 79–191, 339–363, along with one statement taken from a 2017 Congressional Budget Office (CBO) Report, see id., at 306–311.

Of the 21 statements, we have found only 4 that allege that added state costs are attributable to the minimum essential coverage requirement. And all four refer to that provision as it existed before Congress removed the penalty effective beginning tax year 2019, i.e., while a penalty still existed to be enforced. See id., at 147–148 (decl. of Drew L. Snyder) (noting “[e]fforts to avoid imposition of the fine likely prompted more individuals to seek Medicaid from [Mississippi]”); id., at 154 (decl. of Jennifer R. Tidball) (noting that “Missouri residents were required to seek health care coverage or pay a penalty to the federal government,” and while “it is difficult to quantify the exact number of Medicaid enrollees that can be attributed to the [Act], during the time period the [Act] was implemented the Medicaid caseload increased”); id., at 341–342 (decl. of Blake Fulenwider) (observing that “Georgia residents were necessarily required to secure health care coverage or pay a fine to the federal government” and stating that “I believe that the individual mandate played a substantial role in the increase in the number of Medicaid recipients since 2011”); id., at 139 (decl. of Mike Michael) (describing costs associated with “[p]lan changes to cover individual mandate” spread “over the years of 2013 to 2018”).

One other declaration refers to increased costs to the States as employers, but it is vague as to the time period at issue. See id., at 347–348 (decl. of Teresa MacCartney) (“After the implementation of the [Act]’s individual mandate, [Georgia’s Department of Community Health] experienced a substantial increase in employee elections to obtain health insurance”).

The state plaintiffs emphasize one further piece of evidence, a CBO Report released in 2017. See id., at 306–311. At that time, Congress was considering whether to repeal the minimum essential coverage provision or, instead, simply set the penalty for failure to obtain coverage to $0 for all taxpayers. The state plaintiffs focus on the paragraph of the CBO Report that says that either way, the result would be “very similar,” for “only a small number of people” would continue to enroll in health insurance solely out of a “willingness to comply with the law.” Id., at 307. And they argue that a “small number” is sufficient (by raising costs in furnishing Medicaid and CHIP) to provide them with standing.

In our view, however, this predictive sentence without more cannot show that the minimum essential coverage provision was the cause of added enrollment to state health plans. It does not explain, for example, who would buy insurance that they would not otherwise have bought. (For example, individuals who purchase insurance on individual exchanges—like individual plaintiffs Hurley and Nantz—do not increase the relevant costs to the States of furnishing coverage.) Nor does it explain why they might do so. The CBO statement does not adequately trace the necessary *2119 connection between the provision without a penalty and new enrollment in Medicaid and CHIP. We have found no other significant evidence that might keep the CBO statement company.

Unsurprisingly, the States have not demonstrated that an unenforceable mandate will cause their residents to enroll in valuable benefits programs that they would otherwise forgo. It would require far stronger evidence than the States have offered here to support their counterintuitive theory of standing, which rests on a “highly attenuated chain of possibilities.” Clapper, 568 U.S., at 410–411, 133 S.Ct. 1138; cf. Department of Commerce, 588 U. S., at — — —, 139 S.Ct., at 2565–2566 (District Court did not clearly err in finding that plaintiffs had standing where plaintiffs relied not only on “the predictable effect of Government action on the decisions of third parties” but also on comprehensive studies, rather than mere “speculation” (emphasis added)).

2

[14] The state plaintiffs add that § 5000A(a)’s minimum essential coverage provision also causes them to incur additional costs directly. They point to the costs of providing beneficiaries of state health plans with information about their health insurance coverage, as well as the cost of furnishing the IRS with that related information. See Brief for Respondent/Cross-Petitioner States 20–22 (citing 26 U.S.C. §§ 6055, 6056).

The problem with these claims, however, is that other provisions of Act, not the minimum essential coverage provision, impose these other requirements. Nothing in the text of these form provisions suggests that they would not operate without § 5000A(a). See §§ 6055(b)(1)(B)(iii)(II), (c)(1) (requiring certification as to whether the beneficiary’s plan qualifies for cost-sharing or premium tax credits under § 36B); §§ 6056(b)(2)(B), (c)(1) (requiring certification as to whether the plan qualifies as an “eligible employer-sponsored plan” that satisfies § 4980H’s employer mandate). These provisions refer to § 5000A only to pick up a different subsection’s definition of “minimum essential coverage.” See 26 U.S.C. §§ 6055(e), 6056(b)(2)(B) (incorporating § 5000A(f)’s definition of “minimum essential coverage”). To show that the minimum essential coverage requirement is unconstitutional would not show that enforcement of any of these other provisions violates the Constitution. The state plaintiffs do not claim the contrary. The Government’s conduct in question is therefore not “fairly traceable” to enforcement of the “allegedly unlawful” provision of which the plaintiffs complain—§ 5000A(a). Allen, 468 U.S., at 751, 104 S.Ct. 3315.

[15] The state plaintiffs complain of other pocketbook injuries. They say, for example, that, in order to avoid a “substantial tax penalty,” they will have to “offer their full-time employees (and qualified dependents) minimum essential coverage under an eligible employer-sponsored plan.” Brief for Respondent/Cross-Petitioner States 23 (internal quotation marks omitted). They say that the Act’s insistence that they “expand Medicaid eligibility” has led to “increas[ed] ... Medicaid expenditures.” Ibid. And they argue that “the [Act]’s vast and complex rules and regulations” will require additional expenditures. Id., at 22–23 (citing App. 152–153, 174, 190–191). They seem to argue that they will have to pay more to expand coverage for employees who work 30–39 hours per week, see App. 174, and for those who become too old to remain in foster care, see id., at 152–153.

Again, the problem for the state plaintiffs is that these other provisions also *2120 operate independently of § 5000A(a). See 26 U.S.C. § 4980H(a) (establishing an employer mandate); § 4980H(c)(4) (establishing employee eligibility for employer health plans for employees working 30–39 hours per week); 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(10)(A)(i)(IX) (providing continuing Medicaid coverage for those aged out of foster care). At most, those provisions pick up only § 5000A(f)’s definition of minimum essential coverage in related subsections. No one claims these other provisions violate the Constitution. Rather, the state plaintiffs attack the constitutionality of only the minimum essential coverage provision. They have not alleged that they have suffered an “injury fairly traceable to the defendant’s allegedly unlawful conduct.” Cuno, 547 U.S., at 342, 126 S.Ct. 1854 (quoting Allen, 468 U.S., at 751, 104 S.Ct. 3315).

* * *

For these reasons, we conclude that the plaintiffs in this suit failed to show a concrete, particularized injury fairly traceable to the defendants’ conduct in enforcing the specific statutory provision they attack as unconstitutional. They have failed to show that they have standing to attack as unconstitutional the Act’s minimum essential coverage provision. Therefore, we reverse the Fifth Circuit’s judgment in respect to standing, vacate the judgment, and remand the cases with instructions to dismiss.

It is so ordered.

Justice THOMAS, concurring.

There is much to commend Justice ALITO’s account of “our epic Affordable Care Act trilogy.” Post, at 2123 (dissenting opinion). This Court has gone to great lengths to rescue the Act from its own text. Post, at 2123. So have the Act’s defenders, who argued in first instance that the individual coverage mandate is the Act’s linchpin, yet now, in an about-face, contend that it is just a throwaway sentence.

But, whatever the Act’s dubious history in this Court, we must assess the current suit on its own terms. And, here, there is a fundamental problem with the arguments advanced by the plaintiffs in attacking the Act—they have not identified any unlawful action that has injured them. Ante, at 2125, 2128–2129, 2130–2131. Today’s result is thus not the consequence of the Court once again rescuing the Act, but rather of us adjudicating the particular claims the plaintiffs chose to bring.

I

This Court first encountered the Act in 2011. That case involved the constitutionality of the Act’s individual coverage mandate. National Federation of Independent Business v. Sebelius, 567 U.S. 519, 530, 132 S.Ct. 2566, 183 L.Ed.2d 450 (2012). Despite correctly recognizing that Congress’ enumerated powers did not allow it to impose such a mandate, the Court nonetheless upheld it by characterizing the “financial penalty” imposed on those who failed to comply with the mandate as a “tax.” Id., at 574, 132 S.Ct. 2566.

That curious approach left us with no need to address a subsidiary question on which we had also granted review: whether the Act was inseverable from the mandate and thus would need to fall if the mandate were unconstitutional. The parties challenging the law argued “yes.” And the Government agreed in part. It stressed that the mandate could not be severed from two other important features of the Act: the “guaranteed-issue” provision—which bars insurers from denying coverage based on medical conditions or history—and the “community-rating” provision—which bars insurers from charging individuals higher premiums for similar reasons. Brief for Respondents in *2121 National Federation of Independent Business v. Sebelius, O. T. 2011, No. 11–393, pp. 44–54; see 42 U.S.C. §§ 300gg–1, 300gg–3, 300gg–4(a), 300gg(a)(1), 300gg–4(b).

According to the Government, the mandate was “necessary to make those [other] reforms effective.” Brief for Respondents in No. 11–393, at 44. It noted that “Congress’s findings expressly state that enforcement of those provisions without a minimum coverage provision would restrict the availability of health insurance and make it less affordable—the opposite of Congress’s goals in enacting the Affordable Care Act.” Id., at 44–45; see §§ 18091(2)(H)–(J). And as Justice ALITO discusses in more detail, at the time we decided NFIB, “it was widely thought that without the mandate much of the Act—and perhaps even the whole scheme—would collapse.” Post, at 2123, 2137 – 2139.

This Court also embraced that view when we reencountered the Act in 2015. King v. Burwell, 576 U.S. 473, 135 S.Ct. 2480, 192 L.Ed.2d 483. Saving the Act again through a feat of linguistic ingenuity—this time by redefining “State” to mean “ ‘State or the Federal Government,’ ” id., at 498, 135 S.Ct. 2480 (Scalia, J., dissenting)—the Court explained that “Congress [had] found that the guaranteed issue and community rating requirements would not work without the [mandate],” id., at 482, 135 S.Ct. 2480; see also post, at 2125 (ALITO, J., dissenting).

But times have changed. In this suit, the plaintiffs assert that the mandate is unconstitutional because it no longer imposes financial consequences and thus cannot be justified as a tax. And given that the mandate is unconstitutional, other portions of the Act that actually harm the plaintiffs must fall with it. In response to this theory, the current administration contends that the mandate can be severed from the rest of the Act. Letter from E. Kneidler, Deputy Solicitor General, to S. Harris, Clerk of Court (Feb. 10, 2021) (notifying the Court of the Federal Government's change in position). The Act's other defenders agree. Brief for Petitioners 35–49. In other words, those who would preserve the Act must reverse course and argue that the mandate has transformed from the cornerstone of the law into a standalone provision.

II

On all of this Justice ALITO and I agree. Where we part ways is on the relief to which the plaintiffs are entitled. The Constitution gives this Court only the power to resolve “Cases” or “Controversies.” Art. III, § 2. As everyone agrees, we have interpreted this language to require a plaintiff to present an injury that is traceable to a particular “unlawful” action. Ante, at 2113 – 2114, 2117, 2118 – 2120; post, at 2127 – 2128 (ALITO, J., dissenting). And in light of the specific theories and arguments advanced in this suit, I do not believe that the plaintiffs have carried this burden. As the majority explains in detail, the individual plaintiffs allege only harm caused by the bare existence of an unlawful statute that does not impose any obligations or consequences. Ante, at 2113 – 2117. That is not enough. The state plaintiffs’ arguments fail for similar reasons. Although they claim harms flowing from enforcement of certain parts of the Act, they attack only the lawfulness of a different provision. None of these theories trace a clear connection between an injury and unlawful conduct.

Justice ALITO does not contest that analysis. Rather, he argues that the state plaintiffs can establish standing another way: through “inseverability.” Post, at 2131 (“First, [the States] contend that the individual mandate is unconstitutional .... Second, they argue that costly obligations *2122 imposed on them by other provisions of the ACA cannot be severed from the mandate. If both steps of the States’ argument that the challenged enforcement actions are unlawful are correct, it follows that the Government cannot lawfully enforce those obligations against the States”). This theory offers a connection between harm and unlawful conduct. And, it might well support standing in some circumstances, as it has some support in history and our case law. See post, at 2131 – 2134; Lea, Situational Severability, 103 Va. L. Rev. 735, 764–776 (2017).

But, I do not think we should address this standing-through-inseverability argument for several reasons. First, the plaintiffs did not raise it below, and the lower courts did not address it in any detail.<sup>945</sup> F.3d 355, 386, n. 29 (C.A.5 2019). That omission is reason enough not to address this theory because “ ‘we are a court of review, not of first view.’ ” Brownback v. King, 592 U. S. —, —, n. 4, 141 S.Ct. 740, 747, n. 4, 209 L.Ed.2d 33 (2021). Second, the state plaintiffs did not raise this theory in their opening brief before this Court, see Brief for Respondent/Cross-Petitioner States 18–30,<sup>1</sup> and they did not even clearly raise it in reply.<sup>2</sup> Third, this Court has not addressed standing-through-inseverability in any detail, largely relying on it through implication. See post, at 2131 – 2134; Steel Co. v. Citizens for Better Environment, 523 U.S. 83, 91, 118 S.Ct. 1003, 140 L.Ed.2d 210 (1998) (“We have often said that drive-by jurisdictional rulings ... have no precedential effect”). And fourth, this Court has been inconsistent in describing whether inseverability is a remedy or merits question. To the extent the parties seek inseverability as a remedy, the Court is powerless to grant that relief. See Murphy v. National Collegiate Athletic Assn., 584 U. S. —, — – —, 138 S.Ct. 1461, 1469-1470, 200 L.Ed.2d 854 (2018) (THOMAS, J., concurring); see also Barr v. American Assn. of Political Consultants, 591 U. S. —, —, n. 8, 140 S.Ct. 2335, 2351 n. 8, 207 L.Ed.2d 784 (2020) (plurality opinion). Thus, standing-through-inseverability could only be a valid theory of standing to the extent it treats inseverability as a merits exercise of statutory interpretation. See post, at 2130–2131 (ALITO, J., dissenting); Lea, supra, at 764–776. But petitioners have proposed no such theory.

*2123

* * *

The plaintiffs failed to demonstrate that the harm they suffered is traceable to unlawful conduct. Although this Court has erred twice before in cases involving the Affordable Care Act, it does not err today.

Justice ALITO, with whom Justice GORSUCH joins, dissenting.

Today's decision is the third installment in our epic Affordable Care Act trilogy, and it follows the same pattern as installments one and two. In all three episodes, with the Affordable Care Act facing a serious threat, the Court has pulled off an improbable rescue.

In the opening installment, National Federation of Independent Business v. Sebelius, 567 U.S. 519, 132 S.Ct. 2566, 183 L.Ed.2d 450 (2012) (NFIB), the Court saved the so-called “individual mandate,” the same critical provision at issue in today's suit. At that time, the individual mandate imposed a “penalty” on most Americans who refused to purchase health insurance or enroll in Medicaid, see 26 U.S.C. § 5000A (2012 ed.), and it was widely thought that without the mandate much of the Act—and perhaps even the whole scheme—would collapse. The Government's principal defense of the mandate was that it represented a lawful exercise of Congress's power to regulate interstate commerce, see U. S. Const., Art. I, § 8, cl. 3, but the Court rejected that unprecedented argument, see 567 U.S., at 572, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (opinion of the Court); id., at 561, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (opinion of ROBERTS, C. J.); id., at 648, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (joint dissent of Scalia, Kennedy, THOMAS, and ALITO, JJ.). That might have foretold doom, but then, in a stunning turn of events, the threat to the ACA was defused when the “penalty” for failing to comply with the mandate was found to be a “tax” and thus to be justified as an exercise of Congress's taxing power. Id., at 575, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (opinion of ROBERTS, C. J.); see also id., at 574, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (opinion of the Court); see U. S. Const., Art. I, § 8, cl. 1. By a vote of 5 to 4, the individual mandate—and with it the rest of the ACA—lived on.

In the next installment, King v. Burwell, 576 U.S. 473, 135 S.Ct. 2480, 192 L.Ed.2d 483 (2015), the Court carried out an equally impressive rescue. One of the Act's key provisions provided subsidies to persons purchasing insurance through exchanges established by a “State.” 26 U.S.C. §§ 36B(b)–(c) (2012 ed.). When many States refused to establish such exchanges, the Federal Government did so instead. But the critical subsidies were seemingly unavailable on those exchanges, which had not been established by a “State” in any conventional sense of the term. Once again, some feared that the Act was in mortal danger, but the Court came to the rescue by finding that the Federal Government is a “State.” 576 U.S., at 484–498, 135 S.Ct. 2480.

Now, in the trilogy's third episode, the Court is presented with the daunting problem of a “tax” that does not tax. Can the taxing power, which saved the day in the first episode, sustain such a curious creature? In 2017, Congress reduced the “tax” imposed on Americans who failed to abide by the individual mandate to $0. With that move, the slender reed that supported the decision in NFIB was seemingly cut down, but once again the Court has found a way to protect the ACA. Instead of defending the constitutionality of the individual mandate, the Court simply ducks the issue and holds that none of the Act's challengers, including the 18 States that think the Act saddles them with huge financial costs, is entitled to sue.

*2124 Can this be correct? The ACA imposes many burdensome obligations on States in their capacity as employers, and the 18 States in question collectively have more than a million employees.<sup>1</sup> Even $1 in harm is enough to support standing. Yet no State has standing?

In prior cases, the Court has been selectively generous in allowing States to sue. Just recently, New York and certain other States were permitted to challenge the inclusion of a citizenship question in the 2020 census even though any effect on them depended on a speculative chain of events. See Department of Commerce v. New York, 588 U. S. —, —, —, 139 S.Ct. 2551, 2565–2566, 204 L.Ed.2d 978 (2019). The States' theory was that the citizenship question might cause some residents to violate their obligation to complete a census questionnaire and that this, in turn, might decrease the States' allocation of House seats and their share of federal funds. Id., at —, 139 S.Ct., at 2565.

Last Term, Pennsylvania and New Jersey were permitted to contest a rule exempting the Little Sisters of the Poor and other religious employers from the ACA's contraceptive mandate. Little Sisters of the Poor Saints Peter and Paul Home v. Pennsylvania, 591 U. S. —, 140 S.Ct. 2367, 207 L.Ed.2d 819 (2020). There, the theory was that some affected employees might not be able to afford contraceptives and might therefore turn to state-funded sources to pay for their contraceptives or the expenses of an unwanted pregnancy.<sup>2</sup> Some years ago, Massachusetts was allowed to sue (and force the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to regulate greenhouse gases) on the theory that failure to do so would cause the ocean to rise and reduce the size of the Commonwealth. See Massachusetts v. EPA, 549 U.S. 497, 521–526, 127 S.Ct. 1438, 167 L.Ed.2d 248 (2007). On the other hand, when Texas recently tried to sue to press different legal issues in an original action, the Court would not even allow it to file its complaint. See Texas v. California, post, p. — (ALITO, J., dissenting).

In this suit, as I will explain, Texas and the other state plaintiffs have standing, and now that the “tax” imposed by the individual mandate is set at $0, the mandate cannot be sustained under the taxing power. As a result, it is clearly unconstitutional, and to the extent that the provisions of the ACA that burden the States are inextricably linked to the individual mandate, they too are unenforceable.

I

A

The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (ACA), 124 Stat. 119, comprehensively reengineered our country's healthcare laws. The Act itself totals 906 pages, and thousands of pages of regulations have been issued to implement it. At its core, the ACA includes a series of “closely interrelated” provisions, NFIB, 567 U.S., at 691, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (joint dissent), that impose a bevy of new legal obligations on individuals, insurers, employers, and States.

*2125 A critical component of the Act's design was the individual mandate, which provides that each “applicable individual shall ... ensure that the individual ... is covered under minimum essential coverage.” 26 U.S.C. § 5000A(a). Originally, most individuals who were subject to but disobeyed this command were liable for what the Act called a “[s]hared responsibility payment” or “penalty.” § 5000A(b). The individual mandate was “closely intertwined” with other critical provisions, King, 576 U.S., at 482, 135 S.Ct. 2480, including the critical “guaranteed issue” and “community rating” provisions, which ensured that individuals with preexisting medical conditions would not be denied coverage or pay unusually high premiums. See, e.g., 42 U.S.C. §§ 300gg, 300gg–1(a). Put simply, “Congress found that the guaranteed issue and community rating requirements would not work without the” individual mandate. King, 576 U.S., at 482, 135 S.Ct. 2480.

Several additional features of the ACA are important in this suit. First, certain employers, including the state plaintiffs, must offer employees the opportunity to enroll in costly “minimum essential [healthcare] coverage,” and the Act demands that such plans cover an employee's dependent children until they turn 26. 26 U.S.C. § 4980H; 42 U.S.C. § 300gg–14. Most employers that fail to offer this coverage are subject to a hefty penalty of thousands of dollars per employee. 26 U.S.C. §§ 4980H(a), (b), (c)(1).

The ACA also imposes burdensome reporting requirements on certain employers like the state plaintiffs. See §§ 6055, 6056. Under § 6055 of the Internal Revenue Code, employers that “provid[e] minimum essential coverage” must submit documentation every year to both the Internal Revenue Service and the covered individuals. §§ 6055(a)–(c). Section 6056 imposes similar reporting obligations on “[e]very applicable large employer” subject to the employer mandate. See §§ 6056(a)–(c). Failure to satisfy these reporting requirements can result in substantial monetary penalties. See §§ 6721, 6722.

B

Although the ACA survived this Court's decisions in NFIB and King, it remained controversial, and in 2017, a major effort was made to repeal much of it. A bill to do just that passed the House of Representatives in May, but soon after failed in the Senate. See American Health Care Act of 2017, H. R. 1628, 115th Cong., 1st Sess. (2017). Later that year, the two Chambers compromised in the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA), Pub. L. 115–97, 131 Stat. 2054, which set the amount of the “tax” imposed for noncompliance with the individual mandate at “[z]ero percent” and “$0.” § 11081, 131 Stat. 2092 (amending 26 U.S.C. § 5000A). What the NFIB Court had salvaged as a “tax” could now raise no revenue.

C

After the enactment of the TCJA, Texas and 17 other States brought suit against the United States, the Commissioner of the IRS, the Secretary of Health and Human Services, and the Department of Health and Human Services to challenge the ACA.<sup>3</sup> The state plaintiffs identified many expenses imposed on them by the ACA, and they sought declaratory and injunctive relief. In their view, the individual mandate could no longer be sustained as a “tax,” and the remainder of the ACA was unenforceable because it was inseparable from that unconstitutional provision. Soon thereafter, two individuals joined the States as plaintiffs. California, 15 other States, and the District of Columbia intervened to defend the ACA.<sup>4</sup> For its part, the Federal Government agreed that the individual mandate was unconstitutional but argued that it was severable from almost all other portions of the ACA.

Ruling on what it construed as a plaintiffs’ motion for partial summary judgment, the District Court declared the entire ACA unlawful. Texas v. United States, 340 F.Supp.3d 579, 619 (ND Tex. 2018). It held that the individual plaintiffs had standing, that the individual mandate could no longer be sustained as a lawful exercise of Congress’s taxing power, and that the mandate was inseparable from the remainder of the ACA, including the provisions that impose financial burdens on the state plaintiffs. Id., at 592–619.

On appeal, the Fifth Circuit affirmed in part and vacated in part. Texas v. United States, 945 F.3d 355 (CA5 2019). It found that both the state plaintiffs and the individual plaintiffs had standing, and it agreed with the District Court that the individual mandate could no longer be sustained under the taxing power. But the Court of Appeals remanded the case and directed the District Court to reassess the broad relief it had ordered.

The state intervenors then filed a petition for a writ of certiorari seeking review of the Court of Appeals’ interlocutory decision. The plaintiffs opposed interlocutory review, but filed a conditional cross-petition asking us to review the Court of Appeals’ remand decision in the event that the Court granted the state intervenors’ petition. This Court granted both petitions. 589 U. S. —, 140 S.Ct. 1262, 206 L.Ed.2d 253 (2020).

II

We may consider the merits of this appeal if even one plaintiff has standing, Little Sisters of the Poor, 591 U. S., at —, n. 6, 140 S.Ct., at 2402, n. 6; Rumsfeld v. Forum for Academic and Institutional Rights, Inc., 547 U.S. 47, 52, n. 2, 126 S.Ct. 1297, 164 L.Ed.2d 156 (2006), but the majority concludes that no plaintiff—neither the States that originally brought suit nor the individual plaintiffs who later joined them—has standing under Article III of the Constitution. That is a remarkable holding. While the individual plaintiffs’ claim to standing raises a novel question, the States have standing for reasons that are straightforward and meritorious. The Court’s contrary holding is based on a fundamental distortion of our standing jurisprudence.

A

The governing rules are well-settled. To establish Article III standing, a plaintiff must show: (1) “an injury in fact”; (2) that this injury “is fairly traceable to the challenged conduct of the defendant”; and (3) that the injury “is likely to be redressed by a favorable judicial decision.” Spokeo, Inc. v. Robins, 578 U. S. 330, 338, 136 S.Ct. 1540, 194 L.Ed.2d 635 (2016); see also, e.g., Carney v. Adams, 592 U. S. —, —, 141 S.Ct. 493, 498, 208 L.Ed.2d 305 (2020); *2127 Hollingsworth v. Perry, 570 U.S. 693, 704, 133 S.Ct. 2652, 186 L.Ed.2d 768 (2013); Lujan v. Defenders of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 560–561, 112 S.Ct. 2130, 119 L.Ed.2d 351 (1992).

In the present suit, there is no material dispute that the States have satisfied two of these requirements. First, there is no question that the States have demonstrated an injury in fact. An injury in fact is “an invasion of a legally protected interest that is concrete and particularized and actual or imminent, not conjectural or hypothetical.” Spokeo, 578 U. S., at 339, 136 S.Ct. 1540 (internal quotation marks omitted). A financial or so-called “pocketbook” injury constitutes injury in fact, and even a small pocketbook injury—like the loss of $1—is enough. See Czyzewski v. Jevic Holding Corp., 580 U. S. —, —, 137 S.Ct. 973, 983, 197 L.Ed.2d 398 (2017) (“For standing purposes, a loss of even a small amount of money is ordinarily an ‘injury’ ”). Here, the States have offered plenty of evidence that they incur substantial expenses in order to comply with obligations imposed by the ACA.

There is likewise no material dispute that these financial injuries could be redressed by a favorable judgment. The District Court declared the entire ACA unenforceable, and that judgment, if sustained, would spare the States from the costs of complying with the ACA’s provisions. So too would a more modest judgment limited to only those ACA provisions that directly burden the States.

The standing dispute in this suit thus turns on traceability. See ante, at 2118 – 2120. But once this requirement is properly understood, it is apparent that it too is met.

Our cases explain that traceability requires “a causal connection between the injury and the conduct complained of.” Lujan, 504 U.S., at 560, 112 S.Ct. 2130 (emphasis added). In other words, the injury has to be “ ‘fairly ... trace[able] to the challenged action of the defendant.’ ” Ibid. (quoting Simon v. Eastern Ky. Welfare Rights Organization, 426 U.S. 26, 41, 96 S.Ct. 1917, 48 L.Ed.2d 450 (1976); emphasis added). We have repeatedly and consistently described the traceability inquiry this way. See Spokeo, 578 U.S., at 338, 136 S.Ct. 1540 (“The plaintiff must have (1) suffered an injury in fact, (2) that is fairly traceable to the challenged conduct of the defendant”); Hein v. Freedom From Religion Foundation, Inc., 551 U.S. 587, 598, 127 S.Ct. 2553, 168 L.Ed.2d 424 (2007) (plurality opinion) (“A plaintiff must allege personal injury fairly traceable to the defendant’s allegedly unlawful conduct” (internal quotation marks omitted)); DaimlerChrysler Corp. v. Cuno, 547 U.S. 332, 342, 126 S.Ct. 1854, 164 L.Ed.2d 589 (2006) (“A plaintiff must allege personal injury fairly traceable to the defendant’s allegedly unlawful conduct” (internal quotation marks omitted)); Bennett v. Spear, 520 U.S. 154, 162, 117 S.Ct. 1154, 137 L.Ed.2d 281 (1997) (requiring “that the injury is fairly traceable to the actions of the defendant” (internal quotation marks omitted)); Lujan, 504 U.S., at 560, 112 S.Ct. 2130 (requiring an injury “fairly traceable to the challenged action of the defendant” (internal quotation marks and alterations omitted)); Allen v. Wright, 468 U.S. 737, 757, 104 S.Ct. 3315, 82 L.Ed.2d 556 (1984) (requiring an injury “fairly traceable to the Government conduct respondents challenge as unlawful”).<sup>5</sup> *2128 Tracing injuries to particular conduct ensures that the properly adverse parties are before the court and reinforces the traditional understanding of legal judgments. See Massachusetts v. Mellon, 262 U.S. 447, 488, 43 S.Ct. 597, 67 L.Ed. 1078 (1923) (“If a case for preventive relief be presented,” what the court enjoins are “the acts of the official” charged with the law’s enforcement).

The States have clearly shown that they suffer concrete and particularized financial injuries that are traceable to conduct of the Federal Government. The ACA saddles them with expensive and burdensome obligations, and those obligations are enforced by the Federal Government. That is sufficient to establish standing. As the Court observed in Lujan, when a party is “an object of the action ... at issue,” “there is ordinarily little question that the action ... has caused [that party] injury”—i.e., that the injury is traceable to that action —“and that a judgment preventing ... the action will redress it.” 504 U.S., at 561–562, 112 S.Ct. 2130. That is precisely the situation here. The state plaintiffs have shown that they are the object of potential federal enforcement actions if they do not comply with costly and burdensome obligations that the ACA imposes.

Consider what the state plaintiffs have shown with respect to the ACA reporting requirements codified at 26 U.S.C. §§ 6055 and 6056. These sections provide the basis for the familiar 1094 and 1095 IRS tax forms. Section 6055 applies to those who “provid[e] minimum essential coverage to an individual during a calendar year.” Subsection (a) of that provision requires that returns be filed with the IRS, and subsection (c) requires that similar forms be provided to covered individuals. Section 6056 similarly requires certain large employers to report to both the IRS and employees about whether they offer health insurance coverage. The States plainly have demonstrated standing to seek relief from these burdensome reporting obligations.

Start with injury in fact. The States have offered undisputed evidence documenting the ongoing financial costs of complying with these reporting requirements. Missouri, for example, offered a declaration attesting to spending $185,061 in fiscal year 2016 on Forms 1094 and 1095. App. 163. That declaration also attested to costs or projected costs of more than $45,000 for each fiscal year from 2017 through 2021. Ibid. South Dakota provided evidence of “ongoing” reporting costs totaling $100,000. Id., at 187. Kansas offered evidence of more than $100,000 in reporting costs. Id., at 142. These are just a few examples. See also, e.g., id., at 103 (Texas); id., at 350–351 (Georgia). There is no question that these undisputed, ongoing financial costs qualify as injuries in fact. See Jevic Holding Corp., 580 U.S., at —, 137 S.Ct., at 983.

Now turn to traceability. Are these financial injuries “fairly traceable to the challenged conduct”? Hollingsworth, 570 U.S., at 704, 133 S.Ct. 2652. The answer is clearly yes. The reporting requirements in §§ 6055 and 6056 are enforceable by the Federal Government, and noncompliance may result in heavy penalties. Section 6721(a)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code, for example, provides “a penalty” for the *2129 failure to complete an “information return,” which includes reports required by §§ 6055(a) and 6056(a). See 26 U.S.C. §§ 6724(d)(1)(B)(xxiv), (xxv). And § 6722(a)(1) provides “a penalty” for the failure to issue a “payee statement,” which includes the reports required by §§ 6055(c) and 6056(c). See §§ 6724(d)(2)(GG), (HH). These penalties can amount to at least $280 per infraction, and they can quickly run up into the millions of dollars. See §§ 6721, 6722.<sup>6</sup>

That leaves redressability, which asks whether the requested relief is likely to redress the party's injury. Steel Co. v. Citizens for Better Environment, 523 U.S. 83, 103, 118 S.Ct. 1003, 140 L.Ed.2d 210 (1998). Looking to the relief the District Court in fact granted makes it obvious that the States' injuries in the form of ongoing reporting expenses are redressable. The District Court entered a judgment that, among other things, declared the reporting requirements in §§ 6055 and 6056 unenforceable. See 340 F.Supp.3d at 619. With that judgment in hand, the States would be freed from the obligation to expend funds to comply with those requirements—redressing their financial injury prospectively.

The state plaintiffs have similarly demonstrated standing to seek relief from ACA provisions requiring them to offer expensive health insurance coverage for their employees. Consider the ACA's requirement that group health plans and health insurance offerings extend coverage to adult children until they reach the age of 26. See 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-14(a). Texas has spent more than $80 million complying with that rule. App. 81. Missouri has spent more than $10 million. Id., at 159; id., at 157 (“The Missouri Consolidated Health Care Plan is a non-federal governmental health plan which provides insurance coverage for most state employees”); id., at 159 (Missouri will “indefinitely continue paying these additional costs”).

These obligations, too, are backed by substantial enforcement mechanisms. For instance, the state plaintiffs generally must offer employees coverage that complies with § 300gg-14 to avoid violating the employer mandate, see 26 U.S.C. § 4980H, and the failure to comply would expose the States to penalties of thousands of dollars per employee each year, see §§ 4980H(a), (b), (c)(1). Similarly, the failure to cover adult children would expose many state health plans to penalties under 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-22(b)(2), and those penalties can amount to $100 per day for each person offered noncompliant coverage. Ibid. Thus, the States are presented with the choice of spending millions to cover adult children or risking untold sums for failing to do so.

In this way, the States' financial injuries from offering health coverage to adult children are traceable to the looming threat of enforcement actions. And those financial injuries can be prospectively redressed by a declaratory judgment making clear that the States are not, in fact, obligated to offer health coverage to children up to age 26.

While I have outlined two examples of concrete, traceable, and redressable injuries demonstrated by the state plaintiffs, these examples are not exhaustive. The ACA is an enormously complex statute, and the States have offered evidence of ongoing financial injuries relating to compliance with many other different (and enforceable) ACA provisions. See, e.g., App. 81–86 (Texas's compliance costs); id., at 139 (Kansas); id., at 158–162, 165–170 (Missouri); id., at 182–184 (South Carolina); *2130 id., at 186–190 (South Dakota); id., at 345–350 (Georgia).

B

The Court largely ignores the theory of standing outlined above. It devotes most of its attention to two other theories, see ante, at 2113–2119, and when it does address the relevant injuries, its arguments are deeply flawed.

The Court's primary argument rests on a patent distortion of the traceability prong of our established test for standing. Partially quoting a line in Allen, the Court demands a showing that the “Government's conduct in question is ... ‘fairly traceable’ to enforcement of the ‘allegedly unlawful’ provision of which the plaintiffs complain—§ 5000A(a).” Ante, at 2119 (quoting 468 U.S., at 751, 104 S.Ct. 3315; emphasis added). This is a flat-out misstatement of the law and what the Court wrote in Allen. What Allen actually requires is a “personal injury fairly traceable to the defendant's allegedly unlawful conduct,” id., at 751, 104 S.Ct. 3315 (emphasis added). And what this statement means is that the plaintiff's “injury” must be traceable to the defendant's conduct, and that conduct must be “allegedly unlawful.”<sup>7</sup> “Allegedly unlawful” means that the plaintiff must allege that the conduct is unlawful. (The States allege that the challenged enforcement actions are unlawful using a traditional legal argument, see infra, at 2130–2134.) But a plaintiff's standing (and thus the court's Article III jurisdiction) does not require a demonstration that the defendant's conduct is in fact unlawful. That is a merits issue.

If Article III standing required a showing that the plaintiff's alleged injury is traceable to (i.e., in some way caused by) an unconstitutional provision, then whenever a claim of unconstitutionality was ultimately held to lack legal merit

—even after a full trial—the consequence would be that the court lacked jurisdiction to entertain the suit in the first place. That would be absurd, and this Court has long resisted efforts to transform ordinary merits questions into threshold jurisdictional questions by jamming them into the standing inquiry. See, e.g., Arizona State Legislature v. Arizona Independent Redistricting Comm'n, 576 U.S. 787, 800, 135 S.Ct. 2652, 192 L.Ed.2d 704 (2015); Whitmore v. Arkansas, 495 U.S. 149, 155, 110 S.Ct. 1717, 109 L.Ed.2d 135 (1990); ASARCO Inc. v. Kadish, 490 U.S. 605, 624, 109 S.Ct. 2037, 104 L.Ed.2d 696 (1989). “[S]tanding does not depend on the merits of a claim.” Davis v. United States, 564 U.S. 229, 249, n. 10, 131 S.Ct. 2419, 180 L.Ed.2d 285 (2011) (internal quotation marks and alterations omitted). And “ ‘jurisdiction is not defeated by the possibility that the averments [in a complaint] might fail to state a cause of action on which petitioners could actually recover.’ ” Steel Co., 523 U.S., at 89, 118 S.Ct. 1003 (quoting Bell v. Hood, 327 U.S. 678, 682, 66 S.Ct. 773, 90 L.Ed. 939 (1946); alterations omitted). Rather, if the challenged action is “allegedly unlawful,” that suffices for standing purposes. Allen, 468 U.S., at 751, 104 S.Ct. 3315; see also Whitmore, 495 U.S., at 155, 110 S.Ct. 1717 (“Our threshold inquiry into standing in no way depends on the merits of the petitioner’s contention that particular conduct is illegal” (internal quotation marks and alterations omitted)).

C

The Court’s distortion of the traceability requirement is bad enough in itself, but *2131 there is more. After imposing an obstacle that the States should not have to surmount to establish standing, the Court turns around and refuses to consider whether the States have cleared that obstacle. It’s as if the Court told the States: “In order to bring your case in federal court, you have to pay a filing fee of $100,000, but we will not give you a chance to pay that money.”

The Court says that the States cannot establish standing unless they show that their injuries are traceable to the individual mandate, and the States claim that their injuries are indeed traceable to the mandate. Their argument proceeds in two steps. First, they contend that the individual mandate is unconstitutional because it does not fall within any power granted to Congress by the Constitution. Second, they argue that costly obligations imposed on them by other provisions of the ACA cannot be severed from the mandate. If both steps of the States’ argument that the challenged enforcement actions are unlawful are correct, it follows that the Government cannot lawfully enforce those obligations against the States.

There can be no question that this argument is conceptually sound. Imagine Statute ABC. Provision A imposes enforceable legal obligations on the plaintiff. Provision B imposes a legal obligation on a different party. And provision C provides that a party is not obligated to comply with provision A if provision B is held to be unconstitutional. Based on the plain text of this law, a party subject to provision A should be able to obtain relief from the enforcement of provision A if it can show that provision B is unconstitutional. To hold otherwise would be directly contrary to the statutory text. But the Court’s reasoning would make such a claim impossible. The plaintiff would be thrown out of court at the outset of the case for lack of standing.

That cannot be right. And if the Court really means to foreclose all such claims from now on, that is a big change because we have repeatedly heard such arguments and evaluated them on the merits. See Lea, Situational Severability, 103 Va. L. Rev. 735, 769 (2017) (explaining that similar “claims are a longstanding feature of American jurisprudence”).

In Seila Law LLC v. Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, 591 U.S. —, 140 S.Ct. 2183, 207 L.Ed.2d 494 (2020), a law firm resisted the CFPB’s efforts to enforce a civil investigative demand. The firm argued that (A) it was harmed by actions taken under statutory provisions authorizing the Bureau to issue civil investigative demands; (B) the Bureau’s Director, under whose authority the demands had been issued, was protected by an unlawful removal restriction; and (C) the removal restriction was inseverable from the investigative provisions. The Court did not decide the severability issue at the standing stage. Instead, it properly treated severability as a merits issue, held that the removal restriction was unlawful, and considered whether relief could be granted because the investigative provisions were inseverable from the removal restriction. Id., at — – —, 140 S.Ct., at 2196-2208 (opinion of the Court); id., at — – —, 140 S.Ct., 2183, 2207-2211 (plurality opinion).

Indeed, the Seila Law Court had little trouble dismissing the same misguided approach to traceability that the majority adopts today. The court-appointed amicus suggested that there was lack of traceability because there was no proof that the injury was caused by the removal restriction. “Our precedents say otherwise,” we explained, as a “plaintiff’s injury must be fairly traceable to the challenged action of the defendant,” and it is “sufficient that the challenger sustains injury from an executive *2132 act that allegedly exceeds the official's authority.” Id., at ———, 140 S.Ct. 2183, 2195-2196 (opinion of the Court) (internal quotation marks and alterations omitted). Not a single Justice disputed that conclusion.

In Free Enterprise Fund v. Public Company Accounting Oversight Bd., 561 U.S. 477, 130 S.Ct. 3138, 177 L.Ed.2d 706 (2010), an accounting firm challenged the power of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board to regulate the accounting industry and investigate its activities. The firm argued that (A) it was harmed by the actions taken under statutory provisions that gave the Board regulatory and investigatory authority; (B) other provisions unlawfully insulated Board members with dual-layer for-cause removal restrictions; and (C) the removal provisions were inseverable from provisions authorizing the pertinent regulatory activities. The Court entertained this argument on the merits, concluding that the removal restriction was unlawful, id., at 492–508, 130 S.Ct. 3138, but rejecting the argument that the removal provision was inseverable from the provisions authorizing the actions that directly harmed the firm, id., at 508–510, 130 S.Ct. 3138. While the Court's severability determination meant that the accounting firm was “not entitled to broad injunctive relief against the Board's continued operations,” id., at 513, 130 S.Ct. 3138, no one questioned the firm's standing to seek that relief in the first place.

In Minnesota v. Mille Lacs Band of Chippewa Indians, 526 U.S. 172, 119 S.Ct. 1187, 143 L.Ed.2d 270 (1999), several Bands of Chippewa Indians sought a declaratory judgment that an 1837 Treaty gave their members a right to hunt on historic Chippewa lands. An 1850 Executive Order had purported to revoke those hunting rights, but the Bands argued that (A) one portion of the Executive Order purported to extinguish their hunting rights; (B) a different portion of the Executive Order—the “removal order,” which had nothing to do with hunting rights—was unlawful; and (C) the hunting rights revocation was inseverable from the removal order and thus ineffective. The Court entertained this argument on the merits and granted relief. It first assumed “that the severability standard for statutes also applies to Executive Orders.” Id., at 191, 119 S.Ct. 1187. Then it determined that there was “no statutory or constitutional authority” for the removal order and that the “Executive Order was insufficient to [revoke hunting rights] because it was not severable from the invalid removal order.” Id., at 193, 195, 119 S.Ct. 1187. In other words, the Bands obtained relief with the same type of argument the state plaintiffs press here.

In New York v. United States, 505 U.S. 144, 186, 112 S.Ct. 2408, 120 L.Ed.2d 120 (1992), the State of New York challenged three provisions of the Low-Level Radioactive Waste Policy Amendments Act of 1985, 99 Stat. 1842, 42 U.S.C. § 2021b et seq. Significant for present purposes, the Court accepted New York's challenge to one of those provisions, 505 U.S. at 174–177, 112 S.Ct. 2408, and rejected its challenges to two others, id., at 171–174, 183–186, 112 S.Ct. 2408. But the Court did not stop there. Instead, it went on to consider whether New York nonetheless could obtain relief from the other two provisions on the ground that those provisions were inseverable from the unlawful provision and thus unenforceable. Id., at 186–187, 112 S.Ct. 2408; see Printz v. United States, 521 U.S. 898, 935, 117 S.Ct. 2365, 138 L.Ed.2d 914 (1997) (explaining that New York “address[ed] severability where remaining provisions at issue affected the plaintiffs”). In other words, the Court considered whether New York could obtain relief from the enforcement of independently constitutional *2133 provisions where a statute contained (A) two independently constitutional provisions; (B) an unconstitutional provision; and (C) the constitutional provisions were arguably inseverable from the unconstitutional provision.

In Alaska Airlines, Inc. v. Brock, 480 U.S. 678, 107 S.Ct. 1476, 94 L.Ed.2d 661 (1987), a group of airlines challenged provisions of the Airline Deregulation Act of 1978, 92 Stat. 1705, that benefited airline employees. The airlines argued that (A) enforcement of and regulations under those provisions injured them; (B) the Airline Deregulation Act also contained an unlawful legislative veto; and (C) the employee-benefit provisions were “ineffective” because they were inseverable from the legislative veto provision, 480 U.S., at 680, 107 S.Ct. 1476. This Court considered and unanimously rejected the airlines' argument on the merits of the severability question, id., at 687–697, 107 S.Ct. 1476, but no one questioned the airlines' standing to seek relief.

The Court's treatment of these arguments in the cases just discussed is not a modern innovation. In El Paso & Northeastern R. Co. v. Gutierrez, 215 U.S. 87, 30 S.Ct. 21, 54 L.Ed. 106 (1909), for example, a railway company challenged a portion of the Employers' Liability Act of 1906, 34 Stat. 232, that preempted territorial law more favorable to the railway. The company argued that (A) a portion of the Act governing U. S. Territories exposed it to liability in the suit; (B) other portions affecting intrastate commerce exceeded Congress's Commerce Clause power; and (C) the first portion could not be applied because it was inseverable from the unconstitutional portions. The Court agreed that the interstate commerce aspects of the Act were unlawful, but held that they were severable from the territorial provision. 215 U.S., at 93–98, 30 S.Ct. 21.

In Marshall Field & Co. v. Clark, 143 U.S. 649, 12 S.Ct. 495, 36 L.Ed. 294 (1892), three importers challenged the collection of tariffs under the McKinley Tariff Act. See Act of Oct. 1, 1890, 26 Stat. 567. They argued that (A) several provisions of the Act imposed tariffs on goods they imported; (B) § 3 of the Act unlawfully delegated legislative powers to the President by permitting him to suspend the free importation of other types of goods; and (C) § 3 was inseverable from the provisions imposing tariffs on the goods they imported. The Court heard the argument on the merits and, after extensive analysis, rejected the non-delegation challenge to § 3. Id., at 680–694, 12 S.Ct. 495. Because § 3 was lawful, the Court did not “enter upon the consideration” of whether “other parts of the act, those which directly imposed duties upon articles imported, would be inoperative” if § 3 were unlawful. Id., at 694, 12 S.Ct. 495.

Similarly, in the Trade-Mark Cases, 100 U.S. 82, 25 L.Ed. 550 (1879), this Court reviewed a series of criminal prosecutions for alleged violations of an 1876 criminal law prohibiting the “fraudulent use, sale, and counterfeiting of trade-marks,” id., at 92. The Court held that (A) the prosecutions under the 1876 Act could not proceed because (B) an 1870 Act creating the underlying trademark rights exceeded Congress's powers under the Commerce Clause, id., at 95–98, and (C) the 1876 Act underlying the prosecutions was inseverable from the 1870 Act and thus “falls with it,” id., at 99.

There is nothing novel about the state plaintiffs’ claims. What is new and revolutionary is the rule the Court has concocted to sink those claims.

D

The Court has no real response to the arguments set out above, so it falls back on *2134 the claim that the States forfeited those arguments because they (1) did not “directly” argue them in the courts below, (2) did not present them at the certiorari stage, and (3) did not raise them in this Court. See ante, at 2116 – 2117. Justice THOMAS makes a forfeiture argument expressly. See ante, at 2121 – 2122, and nn. 1–2 (concurring opinion).<sup>8</sup> There is nothing to any of these arguments.

Consider the States’ standing to seek relief from the IRS reporting obligations. The States identified these costs in their complaint, see App. 58–60, Amended Complaint ¶41(i); offered extensive evidence of these costs on summary judgment, see supra, at 2128 – 2129; and argued that these provisions cannot be severed from the individual mandate, see, e.g., App. 63, Amended Complaint ¶57 (“The remainder of the ACA is non-severable from the individual mandate, meaning that the Act must be invalidated as a whole”). They expressly advanced that argument in the Court of Appeals, see Brief for State Appellees in Texas v. United States, No. 19–10011 (C.A.5), pp. 23–24, 36–50, and the Court of Appeals accepted it for standing purposes, see 945 F.3d at 384–387. In this Court, the States argued that they have standing based on these reporting obligations in their brief opposing the petition filed by California and the other parties that intervened to defend the ACA, see Brief in Opposition 17, and in their merits brief, see Brief for Respondent/Cross-Petitioner States 20–22. They specifically identified the consequences of noncompliance to which these injuries are traceable, id., at 22 (“Employers can be sanctioned by the IRS for failing to submit adequate information.... In other words, state respondents are compelled under threat of government sanction to produce [the] forms”). And they argued that these obligations are not enforceable because they are inseverable from the individual mandate, id., at 36–46, 96 S.Ct. 1917; see also id., at 26–27, 96 S.Ct. 1917 (discussing Alaska Airlines, 480 U.S. 678, 107 S.Ct. 1476, 94 L.Ed.2d 661).

For these reasons, it is clear that the States did not forfeit the arguments discussed *2135 in this dissent.<sup>9</sup>

* * *

I would hold that the States have demonstrated standing to seek relief from the ACA provisions that burden them and that they claim are inseparable from the individual mandate.

III

Because the state plaintiffs have standing, I proceed to consider the merits of this lawsuit. That requires assessing whether the individual mandate is unlawful and whether it is inseverable from the provisions that burden the States.

I begin with the question whether the individual mandate falls within a power granted to Congress under Article I of the Constitution. The Constitution's text and our precedent compel the conclusion that it does not.

The Federal Government “is acknowledged by all to be one of enumerated powers.” McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. 316, 405, 17 U.S. 316, 4 L.Ed. 579 (1819) (Marshall, C. J., for the Court). Article I of the Constitution does not give Congress “plenary legislative power.” Murphy v. National Collegiate Athletic Assn., 584 U. S. —, —, 138 S.Ct. 1461, 1476, 200 L.Ed.2d 854 (2018). Instead, it enumerates certain legislative powers that, while “sizeable,” are not “unlimited.” Ibid.

When the constitutionality of the individual mandate was first challenged in NFIB, the Government's primary defense was that it represented a valid exercise of Congress's power to regulate interstate commerce, but a majority of the Court squarely rejected that argument. See 567 U.S., at 572, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (opinion of the Court) (“The Court today holds that our Constitution protects us from federal regulation under the Commerce Clause so long as we abstain from the regulated activity”); see also id., at 561, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (opinion of ROBERTS, C. J.) (“The commerce power thus does not authorize the mandate”); id., at 648, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (joint dissent) (“The Act before us here exceeds federal power ... in mandating the purchase of health insurance”). Likewise, a majority of the Court rejected the Government's resort to the Necessary and Proper Clause. See id., at 560, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (opinion of ROBERTS, C. J.); id., at 655, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (joint dissent). I agreed with those holdings at the time, and that is still my view. The mandate cannot be sustained under the Commerce Clause or the Necessary and Proper Clause, and in this suit, no party urges us to uphold it on those grounds.

While the NFIB Court rejected the Government's Commerce Clause argument, a majority held that the mandate represented a lawful exercise of Congress's taxing power, see id., at 575, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (opinion of ROBERTS, C. J.); see also id., at 574, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (opinion of the Court), and the House and state intervenors now argue that the mandate can still be sustained on this ground despite the fact that *2136 the “tax” it supposedly imposes is now set at zero. In NFIB, I did not see how the mandate's penalty could be understood as a tax, see id., at 661–669, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (joint dissent), but assuming for the sake of argument that the majority's understanding was correct at the time, it is now indefensible.

The Constitution grants Congress the power to “lay and collect Taxes” “to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States.” Art. I, § 8, cl. 1. In NFIB, the Court made clear that “the essential feature of any tax” is that it “produces at least some revenue for the Government.” 567 U.S., at 564, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (opinion of the Court). That limitation follows from the text of the provision. A tax cannot assist in paying debts or providing for the general welfare or defense if it raises no money. Moreover, the concept of laying and collecting taxes plainly entails the collection of revenue. At the founding, to “lay” in the relevant sense meant to “assess; to charge; to impose.” 2 N. Webster, An American Dictionary of the English Language (1828) (Webster); see also S. Johnson, A Dictionary of the English Language (10th ed. 1792) (Johnson) (“To charge as a payment”). To “collect” meant to “gather money or revenue from debtors; to demand and receive.” 1 Webster; see also Johnson (“To gather together”). And a “tax” was a “rate or sum of money” assessed on certain persons or property. 2 Webster. Read together, this language means that Congress is empowered to pass laws that raise revenue.

In recognizing that raising revenue is an “essential feature” of any exercise of the taxing power, NFIB built on a substantial line of precedent. See Department of Revenue of Mont. v. Kurth Ranch, 511 U.S. 767, 778, 114 S.Ct. 1937, 128 L.Ed.2d 767 (1994); United States v. Kahriger, 345 U.S. 22, 28, and n. 4, 73 S.Ct. 510, 97 L.Ed. 754 (1953); United States v. Sanchez, 340 U.S. 42, 44, 71 S.Ct. 108, 95 L.Ed. 47 (1950); Sonzinsky v. United States, 300 U.S. 506, 513–514, 57 S.Ct. 554, 81 L.Ed. 772 (1937); A. Magnano Co. v. Hamilton, 292 U.S. 40, 46, 54 S.Ct. 599, 78 L.Ed. 1109 (1934). Indeed, the state intervenors and the House have not identified any statute ever passed under the taxing power that did not raise revenue. Virginia Office for Protection and Advocacy v. Stewart, 563 U.S. 247, 260, 131 S.Ct. 1632, 179 L.Ed.2d 675 (2011) (“Lack of historical precedent can indicate a constitutional infirmity ... ”); see Seila Law, 591 U. S., at — — —, 140 S.Ct., at 2200–2203; Free Enterprise Fund, 561 U.S., at 505, 130 S.Ct. 3138. Given this text, history, and precedent, it is no longer defensible to argue that the individual mandate can be construed as a lawful exercise of Congress's taxing power, for as it now stands, the mandate will never “produc[e] at least some revenue for the Government.” NFIB, 567 U.S., at 564, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (opinion of the Court). The penalty for noncompliance is set at 0% and $0. It cannot raise a cent.

The state intervenors and the House offer several other arguments to sustain the mandate, but each fails. First, they suggest that we should interpret the individual mandate as an exercise of the taxing power based solely on the precedential effect of the Court's decision in NFIB. But THE CHIEF JUSTICE's opinion for the Court in NFIB construed the mandate as a tax only because the individual mandate “produce[d] at least some revenue for the Government.” Ibid. With that “essential feature” removed, this construction is foreclosed.

Second, the state intervenors and the House argue that the Taxing Clause permits Congress to pass a tax and subsequently reduce it to zero. But Congress *2137 cannot supplement its powers through the two-step process of passing a tax and then removing the tax but leaving in place a provision that is otherwise beyond its enumerated powers.

Third, they analogize the mandate to a delayed or suspended tax—one that raises no revenue now but could do so in the future. But § 5000A, as it currently stands, does not delay or suspend the collection of revenue. Unless Congress amends that provision and provides for it to begin raising revenue at some future date, the “tax” is permanently set at zero.

The state intervenors offer one final defense of the individual mandate: Even if it cannot be sustained under the Commerce Clause, Taxing Clause, or Necessary and Proper Clause, they argue that we should interpret the mandate as a mere precatory statement. In their view, Congress is free to urge Americans to take actions that it could not constitutionally require, and that is all it has done here.

This argument fails because the individual mandate is not a precatory statement. The text of the provision is clear. It states that every covered individual “shall ... ensure that the individual, and any dependent of the individual ..., is covered under minimum essential coverage ....” 26 U.S.C. § 5000A(a). “Shall” typically means must, not should. See Kingdomware Technologies, Inc. v. United States, 579 U.S. 162, 171–172, 136 S.Ct. 1969, 195 L.Ed.2d 334 (2016). And the text confirms that “shall” means “must” by terming the individual mandate a “[r]equirement to maintain minimum essential coverage.” § 5000A(a); see also NFIB, 567 U.S., at 663, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (joint dissent) (providing other statutory references to the individual mandate as a requirement).

Mere precatory provisions, by contrast, typically use the word “should” to signify that they are not mandatory, e.g., 4 U.S.C. § 8(c) (“The flag should never be carried flat or horizontally, but always aloft and free”), or make clear that they convey only the “sense of Congress,” e.g., 15 U.S.C. § 7807 (“It is the sense of Congress that States should enact the Uniform Athlete Agents Act of 2000”). Congress adopted those very formulations elsewhere in the ACA, see, e.g., 42 U.S.C. § 292s(d) (“It is the sense of Congress that funds repaid under the loan program ... should not be transferred to the Treasury”), but chose markedly different language when crafting the individual mandate. Because the individual mandate is, in fact, a mandate, it cannot be considered a mere suggestion to purchase insurance.

For these reasons, I conclude that the individual mandate exceeds the scope of Congress's enumerated legislative powers.

IV

This brings me to the next question: whether the state plaintiffs have shown that the provisions of the ACA imposing burdens on them are inseparable from the unconstitutional individual mandate. I conclude that those provisions are inextricably linked to the individual mandate and that the States have therefore demonstrated on the merits that those other provisions cannot be enforced against them. Accordingly, the States are entitled to a judgment providing that they are not obligated to comply with the ACA provisions that burden them.

All the opinions in NFIB acknowledged the central role of the individual mandate's tax or penalty. In brief, the ACA aimed to achieve “near-universal” health-care coverage. 42 U.S.C. § 18091(2)(D). A major obstacle was the inability of many individuals to obtain adequate insurance due to the expensive medical care they were likely to require. To address that problem, the ACA *2138 included “guaranteed issue” and “community rating” provisions. These key provisions prohibit insurance companies from denying coverage or charging higher premiums to the individuals described above. And to compensate for the financial impact of these provisions on insurers, the individual mandate required the purchase of insurance by persons whose predicted medical expenses were substantially lower than the premiums they would pay. See NFIB, 567 U.S., at 547–548, 132 S.Ct. 2566

(opinion of ROBERTS, C. J.); id., at 595–599, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (opinion of Ginsburg, J.); id., at 648–651, 691–696, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (joint dissent); see also King, 576 U.S., at 482, 135 S.Ct. 2480 (“Congress found that the guaranteed issue and community rating requirements would not work without the” individual mandate).

Thus, the guaranteed-issue and community-rating provisions were crucial to the success of the ACA scheme, and a tax or penalty for noncompliance with the individual mandate was essential to the ACA’s distribution of risks and burdens. The ACA contains an express finding on exactly that point:

“The requirement [i.e., the individual mandate] is essential to creating effective health insurance markets in which improved health insurance products that are guaranteed issue and do not exclude coverage of pre-existing conditions can be sold.” 42 U.S.C. § 18091(2)(I) (emphasis added).

See also NFIB, 567 U.S., at 694–696, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (joint dissent) (describing other statutory provisions declaring that the individual mandate works “together” with the rest of the ACA).

In NFIB, the Government agreed that the individual mandate was inextricably related to those crucial provisions. See id., at 650, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (citing Brief for Petitioners, O. T. 2011, No. 11–398, p. 24). And so did Justice Ginsburg’s opinion. See 567 U.S., at 597, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (“[T]hese two provisions [i.e., the guaranteed-issue and community-rating provisions], Congress comprehended, could not work effectively unless individuals were given a powerful incentive to obtain insurance”); see also ibid. (quoting congressional testimony that the insurance market would be “‘drive[n] ... into extinction’” without “‘a mandate on individual[s] to be insured’”).

Recognizing this relationship, the joint dissent, after finding that the individual mandate and Medicaid expansion provision were unconstitutional, concluded that other provisions of the ACA could not be enforced. We analyzed this question under what we described as the Court’s “‘well established’” two-part test. Id., at 692, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (joint dissent) (quoting Alaska Airlines, 480 U.S., at 684, 107 S.Ct. 1476).

Under this test, the first question was whether the remainder of the ACA would “operate in the manner Congress intended” without the unconstitutional provisions. NFIB, 567 U.S., at 692, 132 S.Ct. 2566. And to satisfy this requirement, we explained, it was not enough that the remaining provisions could operate by themselves “in some coherent way.” Ibid. The question, instead, was whether those provisions would operate as Congress wrote them. Ibid. If this requirement was met, the second part of the test asked whether “Congress would have enacted [the other provisions] standing alone and without the unconstitutional portion.” Id., at 693, 132 S.Ct. 2566; see id., at 692–694, 132 S.Ct. 2566.

Applying this test, we concluded that, without the unconstitutional provisions, neither the other ACA provisions we labeled “major” nor many of those we described as “minor” could operate as Congress intended. Id., at 697–705, 132 S.Ct. 2566. And we opined that Congress would *2139 not have enacted the remaining minor provisions by themselves. Id., at 704–705, 132 S.Ct. 2566. We noted that they had been adopted as part of a complex package deal and that “[t]here [was] no reason to believe that Congress would have enacted them independently.” Id., at 705, 132 S.Ct. 2566.

Nothing that has happened since that decision calls for a different conclusion now. It is certainly true that the repeal of the tax or penalty has not caused the collapse of the entire ACA apparatus, but the critical question under the framework applied in the NFIB dissent is not whether the ACA could operate in some way without the individual mandate but whether it could operate in anything like the manner Congress designed. The answer to that question is clear. When the tax or penalty was collected, costs were shifted from individuals previously denied coverage due to their medical conditions and placed on others who purchased insurance only because the failure to do so was taxed or penalized. The repeal of the tax or penalty has not made the costs of the guaranteed-issue and community-rating requirements disappear. Those costs have obviously been shifted to others—in all likelihood to individuals who now pay higher premiums or face higher deductibles or to the taxpayers. This shift fundamentally changed the operation of the scheme Congress adopted.

The repeal of the tax or penalty also provides no reason to doubt our previous conclusion about Congress’s intent. While the 2017 Act repealed the tax or penalty, it did not alter the statutory finding noted above, and the 2017 Act cannot plausibly be viewed as the manifestation of a congressional intent to preserve the ACA in altered form. The 2017 Act would not have passed the House without the votes of the Members who had voted to scrap the ACA just a few months earlier,<sup>10</sup> and the repeal of the tax or penalty, which they obviously found particularly offensive, was their fallback option. They eliminated the tax or penalty and left the chips to fall as they might. Thus, under the reasoning of the NFIB dissent, the provisions burdening the States are inseverable from the individual mandate.

The same result follows under the new approach to questions of partial unconstitutionality that some Members of the Court have adopted in the years since NFIB. They have suggested the severability analysis should track ordinary rules of statutory interpretation. Seila Law, 591 U. S., at —, — — —, 140 S.Ct., at 2199-2200 (THOMAS, J., concurring in part and dissenting in part). In their view, Congress decides whether the provisions it enacts are linked to one another or not, and the answer lies in the ordinary tools of statutory construction. And everything the NFIB dissenters said points to the same conclusion as a matter of the ACA's text, history, and structure. The relevant provisions were passed as a comprehensive exercise of Congress's Commerce Clause and (arguably) Taxing Clause powers. Those powers cannot justify the individual mandate. The statutory text says the individual mandate is "essential" to the overall scheme, 42 U.S.C. § 18091(2)(I), and it repeatedly states that the various provisions work "together," NFIB, 567 U.S., at 694–696, 132 S.Ct. 2566 (joint dissent). It does not matter that this language appears in a section entitled "findings" as opposed to a section entitled "severability." Congress can link distinct provisions in any number of ways, on this view, so long as it does so *2140 in the text. The broader statutory history and structure, moreover, reinforce that conclusion. The NFIB dissent explained how the ACA's provisions work in tandem to alter the insurance market. 567 U.S., at 691–706, 132 S.Ct. 2566. Here, the individual mandate requires individuals to obtain "minimum essential coverage." 26 U.S.C. § 5000A(f). The reporting requirements, in turn, implement the mandate—indeed, they explicitly cross-reference § 5000A—by requiring employers to provide information about such coverage. §§ 6055(e), 6056(b)(2)(B). And the adult-children coverage requirement works as part of a cohesive set of insurance reforms central to the ACA's overall structure, which turns on healthy persons' entry into the market via the individual mandate. See 42 U.S.C. § 300gg–14(a). The individual mandate is thus inseverable from the provisions burdening the States under either approach to severability.

Having determined that the individual mandate is (1) unlawful and (2) inseverable from the provisions burdening the state plaintiffs, the final question is what to do about it. The answer largely flows from everything I have already said above. Relief in a case runs against parties, not against statutes. Supra, at 2127 – 2128. And provisions that are inseverable from unconstitutional features of a statute cannot be enforced. Supra, at 2130 – 2134. No matter how one approaches the question, then, the answer is clear: Because the mandate is unlawful and because the injury-causing provisions are inextricably linked to the mandate, the federal defendants cannot enforce those provisions against the state plaintiffs. And the state plaintiffs are entitled to a judgment providing as much. That answer comports with the reasoning of the NFIB joint dissent, which made clear that the state plaintiffs should not be required to comply with the provisions of the ACA that burden them. See 567 U.S., at 697–707, 132 S.Ct. 2566. And it comports with the remedial approach others have advocated in recent years. See Murphy, 584 U. S., at —, 138 S.Ct., at 1469-1470 (THOMAS, J., concurring); Seila Law, 591 U. S., at —, 140 S.Ct., at 2204 (opinion of THOMAS, J.); Barr v. American Assn. of Political Consultants, Inc., 591 U. S. —, —, 140 S.Ct. 2335, 2345, 207 L.Ed.2d 784 (2020) (GORSUCH, J., concurring in judgment in part and dissenting in part). Thus, under either the framework used in the NFIB joint dissent or the alternative framework advocated in subsequent cases, the state plaintiffs are entitled to relief freeing them from compliance with the ACA provisions that burden them.

* * *

No one can fail to be impressed by the lengths to which this Court has been willing to go to defend the ACA against all threats. A penalty is a tax. The United States is a State. And 18 States who bear costly burdens under the ACA cannot even get a foot in the door to raise a constitutional challenge. So a tax that does not tax is allowed to stand and support one of the biggest Government programs in our Nation's history. Fans of judicial inventiveness will applaud once again.

But I must respectfully dissent.

All Citations

141 S.Ct. 2104, 210 L.Ed.2d 230, 127 A.F.T.R.2d 2021-2327, 2021-1 USTC P 50,165, 21 Cal. Daily Op. Serv. 5831, 2021 Daily Journal D.A.R. 5958, 28 Fla. L. Weekly Fed. S 869

Footnotes

- 1 Together with No. 19–1019, Texas et al. v. California et al., also on certiorari to the same court.
- * The syllabus constitutes no part of the opinion of the Court but has been prepared by the Reporter of Decisions for the convenience of the reader. See United States v. Detroit Timber & Lumber Co., 200 U.S. 321, 337, 26 S.Ct. 282, 50 L.Ed. 499.
- 1 The States instead raised the two pocketbook injury theories discussed by the Court, ante, at 2116 – 2117; Brief for Respondent/Cross-Petitioner States 19–28, along with another irrelevant theory. Both theories focused only on the mandate’s unlawfulness. The dissent points to certain language arguably touching on standing-through-inseverability, post, at 2129 – 2130, but I respectfully disagree. That language addresses a different theory—the argument that the unlawful mandate harms the States by increasing the cost of complying with other Act provisions, such as reporting requirements relating to the mandate. Ante, at 2118 – 2120; Brief for Respondent/Cross-Petitioner States 20–25 (discussing how “the individual mandate itself increased the costs to state respondents in at least six ways” (brackets and internal quotation marks omitted)). As the Court notes, “[n]o one claims these other provisions violate the Constitution.” Ante, at 2120. And, the Court does not address the argument that these provisions are otherwise unlawful. Ante, at 2116 – 2117 (“declin[ing] to consider” the standing-through-inseverability theory raised by the dissent “on behalf of the state plaintiffs”).
- 2 This lack of legal development is particularly significant because standing-through-inseverability—assuming it is a legitimate theory of standing—is fundamentally a merits-like exercise that requires courts to apply ordinary principles of statutory interpretation to determine if it is at least “arguable” that a statute links the lawfulness of one provision to the lawfulness of another. See Steel Co. v. Citizens for Better Environment, 523 U.S. 83, 89, 118 S.Ct. 1003, 140 L.Ed.2d 210 (1998). Thus, a failure to develop a standing-through-inseverability argument poses a significant obstacle to review.
- 1 See Dept. of Commerce, Bureau of Census, 2020 Annual Survey of Public Employment & Payroll Datasets, State Government Employment & Payroll Data (May 2021), www.census.gov/data/datasets/2020/econ/apes/annual-apes.html.
- 2 See Pennsylvania v. President of United States, 930 F.3d 543, 561–565 (C.A.3 2019). Although our opinion did not address the issue, we are required to consider Article III standing in every case that comes before us. See Steel Co. v. Citizens for Better Environment, 523 U.S. 83, 95, 118 S.Ct. 1003, 140 L.Ed.2d 210 (1998).
- 3 These States were Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi (via its Governor), Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, and West Virginia. The State of Wisconsin was also a plaintiff in District Court but has since been voluntarily dismissed from the suit. Former Maine Governor Paul LePage attempted to represent Maine as a plaintiff in the District Court, but was subsequently dismissed from the lawsuit.
- 4 The state intervenors are California, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Illinois, Kentucky (via its Governor), Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, and Washington. Colorado, Iowa, Michigan, and Nevada also joined as additional state intervenors while this suit was on appeal.
- 5 There are dozens upon dozens of examples. Some recent cases include Uzuegbunam v. Preczewski, 592 U. S. —, —, 141 S.Ct. 792, 797, 209 L.Ed.2d 94 (2021); Carney v. Adams, 592 U. S. —, —, 141 S.Ct. 493, 498, 208 L.Ed.2d 305 (2020); Department of Commerce v. New York, 588 U. S. —, —, 139 S.Ct. 2551, 2565, 204 L.Ed.2d 978 (2019); Virginia House of Delegates v. Bethune-Hill, 587 U. S. —, —, 139 S.Ct. 1945, 1950-1951, 204 L.Ed.2d 305 (2019); Gill v. Whitford, 585 U. S. —, —, 138 S.Ct. 1916, 1929, 201 L.Ed.2d 313 (2018); Town of Chester v. Laroe Estates, Inc., 581 U. S. —, —, 137 S.Ct. 1645, 1650-1651, 198 L.Ed.2d 64 (2017); Bank of America Corp. v. Miami, 581 U. S. —, —, 137 S.Ct. 1296, 1302-1303, 197 L.Ed.2d 678 (2017); and Czyzewski v. Jevic Holding Corp., 580 U. S. —, —, 137 S.Ct. 973, 982, 197 L.Ed.2d 398 (2017).
- 6 Willful failure to comply with the reporting requirements in §§ 6055 and 6056 can also result in criminal penalties. See 26 U.S.C. § 7203.
- 7 Allen repeated that point seven more times, see 468 U. S., at 752, 753, n. 19, 757–759, 104 S.Ct. 3315, and that is precisely what countless other cases require, see supra, at 2127 – 2128, and n. 5. But the majority’s rejection of the relevant theory of standing depends on this erroneous description of the law.
- 8 In addition to claiming that the States forfeited the standing theory set out in this dissent, Justice THOMAS’s concurrence lists several additional reasons why we should not address that theory. None is persuasive. The concurrence invokes the rule that merits decisions that do not discuss jurisdiction are not of precedential value on jurisdictional issues. Ante, at 2122. This argument is apparently a response to the many cases (141 years’ worth) in which this Court reached the merits of claims structured like those of the state plaintiffs in the suit at hand. See supra, at 2131

– 2134. The suggestion, I take it, is that the plaintiffs in those cases may have lacked standing and that therefore this Court erred in reaching the merits. To put the point lightly, that seems unlikely, and even if our prior decisions have not expressly embraced a standing theory like the States', there is no reason why a conceptually sound theory should be rejected just because we never previously saw fit to register express approval.

Justice THOMAS states that “this Court has been inconsistent in describing whether inseverability is a remedy or merits question.” Ante, at 2122. But all that matters for present purposes is that inseverability is not a standing question. And in all events, the concurrence elsewhere recognizes that severability is a merits question. See ante, at 2122 (“[S]tanding-through-inseverability could only be a valid theory of standing to the extent it treats inseverability as a merits exercise of statutory interpretation”); ante, at 2122, n. 2 (treating severability as a merits question under the framework set forth in Steel Co., 523 U.S., at 89, 118 S.Ct. 1003).

Finally, Justice THOMAS suggests that a lack of argument on severability “poses a significant obstacle to review,” ante, at 2122, n. 2, but that flatly ignores that each party—not to mention many amici—extensively briefed the severability question in this Court.

- 9 If the effect of the Court's decision is dismissal of this action for lack of Article III jurisdiction, the States may file a new action. See 18A C. Wright & A. Miller, Federal Practice and Procedure § 4436 (3d ed. 2020) (“The basic rule that dismissal for lack of subject-matter jurisdiction does not preclude a second action ... is well settled”); Hughes v. United States, 4 Wall. 232, 237, 71 U.S. 232, 18 L.Ed. 303 (1866) (“If the first suit was dismissed for ... want of jurisdiction ... the judgment rendered will prove no bar to another suit”); Lopez v. Pompeo, 923 F.3d 444, 447 (C.A.5 2019). And in any event, many other parties will have standing to bring such a claim based on a variety of the ACA's substantive provisions that are arguably inseverable from the mandate. Our Affordable Care Act epic may go on.
- 10 Compare 163 Cong. Rec. H4171 (May 4, 2017) (passage of the American Health Care Act, H. R. 1628), with id., at H10312 (Dec. 20, 2017) (passage of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act, H. R. 1).

Filings (100)

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
1. Reply Brief for Respondents-Cross Petitioners Neill Hurley and John Nantz  CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents, TEXAS, et al., Petitioners, v. CALIFORNIA, et al., Respondents.  2020 WL 4939185		U.S.	Aug. 18, 2020	Brief
2. Reply Brief for State Cross-Petitioners  CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners / Cross-Respondents, v. State of Texas, et al.  2020 WL 4917943		U.S.	Aug. 01, 2020	Brief
3. Response and Reply Brief for the United States House of Representatives as Respondent Supporting Petitioners  CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents; Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. California, et al., Respondents.  2020 WL 4450447		U.S.	July 29, 2020	Brief
4. Response and Reply Brief for the Petitioners-Cross-Respondents  The STATES of California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Illinois, Iowa, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, and Washington, Andy Beshear, the Governor of Kentucky, and the District of Columbia, Petitioners, v. The STATE of Texas, et al., Respondents; The State of Texas, et al., Cross-Petitioners, v. The State of California, et al.,  2020 WL 4450448		U.S.	July 29, 2020	Brief
5. Amicus Brief of the American Center for Law and Justice in Support of Respondents in No. 19-840 and in Support of Petitioners in No. 19-1019  CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents, TEXAS, et al., Petitioners, v. CALIFORNIA, et al., Respondents.  2020 WL 3841271		U.S.	July 02, 2020	Brief
6. Brief of Association of American Physicians &amp; Surgeons as Amicus Curiae in Support of the State of Texas, et al.  State of California, et al., Petitioners, v. State of Texas, et al., Respondents.  2020 WL 3841294		U.S.	July 02, 2020	Brief
7. Brief for the Cato Institute as Amicus Curiae in Support of Respondents Hurley and Nantz  STATE of California, et al., Petitioners, v. STATES of Texas, Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, and West Virginia; Neill Hurley and John Nantz, Respondents.  2020 WL 3876082		U.S.	July 02, 2020	Brief

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
8. Brief of Amicus Curiae Landmark Legal Foundation in Support of Federal Respondents in 19-840 and Petitioners in 19-1019 STATE of California, et al., Petitioners, v. STATE of Texas, et al., Respondents; State of Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. State of California, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 3964379		U.S.	July 02, 2020	Brief
9. Motion of the Federal Respondents for Divided Argument and Response to Motions for Expanded Argument STATE of California, et al., Petitioners, v. STATE of Texas, et al. 2020 WL 3876083		U.S.	July 01, 2020	Brief
10. Brief for Respondents-Cross Petitioners Neill Hurley and John Nantz CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents; Texas, Et al., Petitioners, v. California, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 3577476		U.S.	June 25, 2020	Brief
11. Brief for Respondent/cross-Petitioner States CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners / Cross-Respondents, v. STATE OF TEXAS, et al. 2020 WL 3579860		U.S.	June 25, 2020	Brief
12. Brief for the Federal Respondents State of California, et al., Petitioner, v. State of Texas, et al; State of Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. State of California, et al. 2020 WL 3577478		U.S.	June 01, 2020	Brief
13. Amici Curiae Brief in Support of Petitioners and Reversal by the American Cancer Society et al. CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2542091		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
14. Brief Amici Curiae for Bipartisan Economic Scholars in Support of Petitioners CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2542671		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
15. Brief for Professors Michael C. Dorf and Martin S. Lederman as Amici Curiae in Support of Petitioners on Question Two CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al. 2020 WL 2542672		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
16. Brief of 47 Members of the United States Senate as Amici Curiae in Support of Petitioners CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners / Cross-Respondents, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents / Cross-Petitioners. 2020 WL 2557984		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
17. Brief for the States of Maryland, Maine, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin as Amici Curiae in Support of Petitioners CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2557985		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
18. Brief of Patient-Centered Outcomes Research Institute as Amicus Curiae in Support of Petitioners CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents, TEXAS, et al., Petitioners, v. CALIFORNIA, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2557987		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
19. Brief for First Focus On Children and the Children's Partnership as Amici Curiae in Support of Petitioners THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. THE STATE OF TEXAS, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2557988		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
20. Brief of America's Health Insurance Plans as Amicus Curiae in Support of California, et al., and U.S. House of Representatives CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents, TEXAS, et al., Petitioners, v. CALIFORNIA, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2557989		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
21. Brief of Amici Curiae Service Employees International Union, Marilyn Ralat-Abernas, R.N., Marcus Sandling, M.D., et al., in Support of Petitioners in No. 19-840 and Cross-Respondents in No. 19-1019 CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents, TEXAS, et al., Cross-Petitioners, v. CALIFORNIA, et al., Cross-Respondents. 2020 WL 2557990		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
22. Brief for Jonathan H. Adler, Nicholas Bagley, Abbe R. Gluck, and Ilya Somin as Amici Curiae Supporting Petitioners STATE OF CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. STATE OF TEXAS, et al, STATE OF TEXAS, et al., Cross-Petitioners, v. STATE OF CALIFORNIA, et al. 2020 WL 2557991		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
23. Brief of Amici Curiae Walter Dellinger, Douglas Laycock, and Christopher Schroeder in Support of Petitioners CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners., v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents, TEXAS, et al., Cross-Petitioners, v. CALIFORNIA, et al., Cross-Respondents. 2020 WL 2557992		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
24. Brief of Amicus Curiae National Association of Community Health Centers in Support of Petitioners and Cross-Respondents State of California, et al., Petitioners, v. State of Texas, et al., Respondents; State of Texas, et al., Cross-Petitioners, v. State of California, et al., Cross-Respondents. 2020 WL 2558278		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
25. Brief of Health Care Policy Scholars as Amici Curiae Supporting Petitioners CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners/Cross-Respondents, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents/Cross-Petitioners. 2020 WL 2558280		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
26. Brief of Tribes and Tribal Organizations as Amici Curiae in Support of Petitioners State of California, et al. CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents; Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. California, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2558281		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
27. Brief of the Association for Accessible Medicines as Amicus Curiae Supporting Petitioners in No. 19-840 on Severability State of California, et al., Petitioners, v. State of Texas, et al., Respondents; State of Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. State of California, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2558287		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
28. Brief of Amici Curiae Samuel L. Bray, Michael W. McConnell And Kevin C. Walsh in Support of Petitioners in No. 19-840 CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents; Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. California, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2558288		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
29. Brief of Amici Curiae American Medical Association, American Academy of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology, Aerospace Medical Association, American Academy of Family Physicians, American Academy of Pediatrics, American College of Cardiology, American College of Emergency Physicians, American College of Medical Genetics and Genomics, American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, American College of Physicians, American College of Radiation Oncology, American College of Radiology, American Psyc CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2558289		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
30. Brief of Amici Curiae 44 Counties, Cities, and Towns and California State Association of Counties in Support of Petitioners CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2558290		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
31. Brief for the National Women's Law Center, National Partnership for Women &amp; Families, Black Women's Health Imperative, American Medical Women's Association, and 77 Additional Organizations as Amici Curiae Supporting Petitioners in No. 19-840 State of California, et al., Petitioners, v. State of Texas, et al., Respondents; State of Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. State of California, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2558291		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
32. Brief Amicus Curiae of the Catholic Health Association of the United States in Support of Petitioners STATE of California, et al., Petitioners, v. STATE of Texas, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2621241		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
33. Amici Curiae Brief of 36 State Hospital Associations in Support of Petitioners CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2840338		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
34. Brief of the American Association of People With Disabilities, Paralyzed Veterans of America, Judge David L. Bazelon Center for Mental Health Law, Disability Rights Education and Defense Fund, and 15 Other Leading National Disability Rights Organizations as Amici Curiae in Support of Petitioners CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2840340		U.S.	May 13, 2020	Brief
35. Opening Brief for the United States House of Representatives as Respondent Supporting Petitioners CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2475939		U.S.	May 06, 2020	Brief
36. Opening Brief for the Petitioners THE STATES OF CALIFORNIA, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Illinois, Iowa, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, and Washington, Andy Beshear, the Governor of Kentucky, and the District of Columbia, Petitioners, v. The State of Texas, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2475940		U.S.	May 06, 2020	Brief

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
37. Brief of Small Business Majority Foundation as Amicus Curiae Supporting Petitioners in No. 19-840 and the U.S. House of Representatives CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents, TEXAS, et al., Petitioners, v. CALIFORNIA, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2557981		U.S.	May 01, 2020	Brief
38. Brief of Amicus Curiae Jeremy C. Doerre Suggesting Reversal STATE OF CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. STATE OF TEXAS, et al., Respondents, STATE OF TEXAS, et al., Petitioners, v. STATE OF CALIFORNIA, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2557982		U.S.	May 01, 2020	Brief
39. Brief of Amicus Curiae Public Citizen in Support of Petitioners in No. 19-840 and Non-Executive-Branch Respondents in No. 19-1019 CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents, TEXAS, et al., Petitioners, v. CALIFORNIA, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2557983		U.S.	May 01, 2020	Brief
40. Brief of Amici Curiae States of Ohio and Montana in Support of Neither Party THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. THE STATE OF TEXAS, et al., Respondents, THE STATE OF TEXAS, et al., Cross-Petitioners, v. THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, et al., Cross-Respondents. 2020 WL 2557986		U.S.	May 01, 2020	Brief
41. Brief of HCA Healthcare, Inc. as Amicus Curiae in Support of Petitioners The State of California, et al., Petitioners, v. The State of Texas, et al., Respondents; The State of Texas, et al., Cross-Petitioners, v. The State of California, et al., Cross-Respondents. 2020 WL 2558279		U.S.	May 01, 2020	Brief
42. Brief of National Hospital Associations as Amici Curiae in Support of the California State Coalition and House of Representatives State of California, et al., Petitioners, v. State of Texas, et al., Respondents; State of Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. State of California, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2558282		U.S.	May 01, 2020	Brief
43. Brief of Amici Curiae Families Usa et al. Supporting Petitioner the State of California et al. The State of California, et al., Petitioners, v. The State of Texas, et al.; The State of Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. The State of California, et al. 2020 WL 2558284		U.S.	May 01, 2020	Brief

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
44. Brief of National Health Law Program, American Medical Student Association, American Physical Therapy Association, Asian and Pacific Islander Health Forum, Association of Asian Pacific Community Health Organizations (Aapcho), California Pan-Ethnic Health Network, Law Foundation of Silicon Valley, National LGBTQ Task Force, National Women's Health Network, Reproductive Health Access Project, and We Testify, as Amici Curiae in Support of Petitioners Suggesting Reversal            CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents. Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. California, et al., Respondents.            2020 WL 2558285		U.S.	May 01, 2020	Brief
45. Brief for Lambda Legal Defense &amp; Education Fund, Inc., et al. as Amici Curiae in Support of Petitioners            The State of California, et al., Petitioners, v. The State of Texas, et al. The State of Texas, et al., Cross-petitioners, v. The State of California, et al.            2020 WL 2558286		U.S.	May 01, 2020	Brief
46. Brief of HCA Healthcare, Inc. as Amicus Curiae in Support of Petitioners            The STATE of California, et al., Petitioners, v. The STATE of Texas, et al., Respondents; The State of Texas, et al., Cross-Petitioners, v. The State of California, et al., Cross-Respondents.            2020 WL 2736056		U.S.	May 01, 2020	Brief
47. Brief for Amicus Curiae Blue Cross Blue Shield Association In Support of Petitioners In No. 19-840 and Respondents In No. 19-1019            The State of California, et al., Petitioners, v. The State of Texas, et al., Respondents; The State of Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. The State of California, et al., Respondents.            2020 WL 2840339		U.S.	May 01, 2020	Brief
48. Brief of Amicus Curiae David Boyle in Support of Petitioners            CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents.            2020 WL 2475938		U.S.	Apr. 30, 2020	Brief
49. Brief of Amicus Curiae American Thoracic Society in Support of Petitioners            The State of California, et al., Petitioners, v. The State of Texas, et al., Respondents.            2020 WL 3078341		U.S.	Mar. 13, 2020	Brief

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
50. Brief of Amici Curiae Aarp, Aarp Foundation, Center for Medicare Advocacy, and Justice in Aging in Support of Petitioners in No. 19-840 and Non-Executive Branch Respondents in No. 19-1019 CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents; Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. California, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 2558283		U.S.	2020	Brief
51. Brief of Amicus Curiae the Washington and Lee University School of Law Black Lung Clinic in Support of Petitioners CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 3050341		U.S.	2020	Brief
52. Brief of Amicus Curiae Foundation for Moral Law in Support of Respondents in No. 19-840 and in Support of Petitioners in No. 19-1019 CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents; Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. California, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 3577477		U.S.	2020	Brief
53. Brief of Public Health Experts, the American Public Health Association, and the American Academy of Nursing as Amici Curiae in Support of the California Parties and Severing the Individual Mandate CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents, TEXAS, et al., Petitioners, v. CALIFORNIA, et al., Respondents. 2019 WL 8810137		U.S.	2019	Brief
54. Brief of Amici Curiae Alliance of Community Health Plans and Association for Community Affiliated Plans in Support of Petitioners in 19-840 CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents, TEXAS, et al., Petitioners, v. CALIFORNIA, et al., Respondents. 2019 WL 8810138		U.S.	2019	Brief
55. Supplemental Letter Brief TEXAS, v. UNITED STATES. 2019 WL 2914018		C.A.5	July 05, 2019	Brief
56. Reply STATE OF TEXAS et al., v. UNITED STATES et al. 2019 WL 2912357		C.A.5	July 03, 2019	Brief

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
57. Brief of Amicus Curiae Foundation for Moral Law in Support of Plaintiffs-Appellees Supporting Affirmance of District Court Decision STATE OF TEXAS; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF 2019 WL 2317579		C.A.5	May 23, 2019	Brief
58. Reply Brief of Intervenor-Appellant the U.S. House of Representatives STATE OF TEXAS; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF 2019 WL 2252051		C.A.5	May 22, 2019	Brief
59. State Defendants' Reply Brief STATE OF TEXAS; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs - Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF 2019 WL 2252053		C.A.5	May 22, 2019	Brief
60. Reply Brief of Intervenor-Appellant the U.S. House of Representatives STATE OF TEXAS; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF 2019 WL 2317580		C.A.5	May 22, 2019	Brief

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
61. Amicus Curiae Brief of the American Center for Law and Justice, Supporting Appellees and Partial Affirmance STATE OF TEXAS; State of Wisconsin; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; Paul LePage, Governor of Maine; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, 2019 WL 2144964		C.A.5	May 08, 2019	Brief
62. Brief Amicus Curiae of Citizens United, Citizens United Foundation, Gun Owners Foundation, Gun Owners of America, Inc., Conservative Legal Defense and Education Fund, Eberle Communications Group, Inc., 60 Plus Association, 60 Plus Foundation, Fitzgerald Griffin Foundation, Downsize DC Foundation, DownsizeDC.org, American Business Defense Foundation, and Restoring Liberty Action Committee in Support of Plaintiffs-Appellees and Affirmance STATE OF TEXAS; State of Wisconsin; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF 2019 WL 2144965		C.A.5	May 08, 2019	Brief
63. Brief of Amici Curiae Association of American Physicians &amp; Surgeons and Citizens' Council for Health Freedom in Support of Plaintiffs-Appellees Texas et al., and in Support of Affirmance STATE OF TEXAS; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs - Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF 2019 WL 2144966		C.A.5	May 08, 2019	Brief

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
64. Amicus Curiae Brief of the American Center for Law and Justice, Supporting Appellees and Partial Affirmance STATE OF TEXAS; State of Wisconsin; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; Paul LePage, Governor of Maine; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, 2019 WL 2157264		C.A.5	May 08, 2019	Brief
65. Brief Amicus Curiae of Citizens United, Citizens United Foundation, Gun Owners Foundation, Gun Owners of America, Inc., Conservative Legal Defense and Education Fund, Eberle Communications Group, Inc., 60 Plus Association, 60 Plus Foundation, Fitzgerald Griffin Foundation, Downsize DC Foundation, DownsizeDC.org, American Business Defense Foundation, and Restoring Liberty Action Committee in Support of Plaintiffs-Appellees and Affirmance STATE OF TEXAS; State of Wisconsin; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF 2019 WL 2157265		C.A.5	May 08, 2019	Brief
66. Brief of Amicus Curiae Foundation for Moral Law in Support of Plaintiffs-Appellees STATE OF TEXAS; State of Wisconsin; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF 2019 WL 2108806		C.A.5	May 06, 2019	Brief

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
67. Brief of Amicus Curiae Foundation for Moral Law in Support of Plaintiffs-Appellees            STATE OF TEXAS; State of Wisconsin; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF            2019 WL 2252052		C.A.5	May 06, 2019	Brief
68. Brief for State Appellees            STATE OF TEXAS; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF            2019 WL 2029721		C.A.5	May 01, 2019	Brief
69. Brief for the Federal Defendants            STATE OF TEXAS; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF            2019 WL 2029722		C.A.5	May 01, 2019	Brief
70. Brief of Appellees Neill Hurley and John Nantz            STATE OF TEXAS; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF            2019 WL 2029723		C.A.5	May 01, 2019	Brief
71. Brief for State Appellees            STATE OF TEXAS; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF            2019 WL 2061280		C.A.5	May 01, 2019	Brief

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
72. Brief for Defendants-Appellants United States of America; United States Department of Health &amp; Human Services; Alex Azar, II, Secretary, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services; United States Department of Internal Revenue; and Charles P. Rettig, in his Official Capacity as Commissioner of Internal Revenue STATE OF TEXAS; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF 2019 WL 2061281		C.A.5	May 01, 2019	Brief
73. Brief of Appellees Neill Hurley and John Nantz STATE OF TEXAS; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF 2019 WL 2061282		C.A.5	May 01, 2019	Brief
74. Brief of Hca Healthcare, Inc. as Amicus Curiae in Support of Intervenor Defendants-Appellants and Reversal STATE OF TEXAS; State of Wisconsin; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF 2019 WL 1559338		C.A.5	Apr. 01, 2019	Brief
75. Brief of Amici Curiae for Bipartisan Economic Scholars in Support of Intervenor Defendant-Appellants STATE OF TEXAS, et al., Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, et al., Defendants-Appellants, State of California, et al., Intervenor Defendants-Appellants. 2019 WL 1559340		C.A.5	Apr. 01, 2019	Brief

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
76. Amicus Curiae Brief of American Association of People With Disabilities, American Civil Liberties Union, the Judge David L. Bazelon Center for Mental Health Law, Disability Rights Education and Defense Fund, and Eleven Other Leading National Disability Rights Organizations in Support of Defendant-Appellants and Intervenor-Defendant Appellants            STATE OF TEXAS, et al., Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, et al., Defendants-Appellants, State of California, et al., Intervenor Defendants-Appellants.            2019 WL 1559341		C.A.5	Apr. 01, 2019	Brief
77. Brief of Amici Curiae 483 Federally Recognized Tribal Nations, in Support of Intervenor Defendants-Appellants Seeking Reversal            STATE OF TEXAS; State of Wisconsin; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF            2019 WL 1559342		C.A.5	Apr. 01, 2019	Brief
78. State Defendants' Opening Brief            STATE OF TEXAS; State of Wisconsin; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana, State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF            2019 WL 1458854		C.A.5	Mar. 25, 2019	Brief
79. Opening Brief of Intervenor the U.S. House of Representatives            STATE OF TEXAS; State of Wisconsin; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, Plaintiffs-Appellees, v. UNITED STATES OF            2019 WL 1458855		C.A.5	Mar. 25, 2019	Brief

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
80. Defendants-Appellants' Opposition to Motion of the U.S. House of Representatives to Intervene STATE OF TEXAS; State of Wisconsin; State of Alabama; State of Arizona; State of Florida; State of Georgia; State of Indiana; State of Kansas; State of Louisiana; Paul LePage, Governor of Maine; State of Mississippi, by and through Governor Phil Bryant; State of Missouri; State of Nebraska; State of North Dakota; State of South Carolina; State of South Dakota; State of Tennessee; State of Utah; State of West Virginia; State of Arkansas; Neill Hurley; John Nantz, 2019 WL 509749		C.A.5	Feb. 08, 2019	Brief
81. Joint Appendix THE STATES OF CALIFORNIA, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Illinois, Iowa, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, and Washington, Andy Beshear, the Governor of Kentucky, and the District of Columbia, Petitioners, v. The State of Texas, et al., Respondents; The State of Texas, et al., Cross-Petitioners, v. The State of California, et al., 2019 WL 10783955		U.S.	Dec. 18, 2019	Joint Appendix
82. Oral Argument CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents; Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. California, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 6585939		U.S.	Nov. 10, 2020	Oral Argument
83. Oral Argument CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents; Texas, et al., Petitioners, v. California, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 6637194		U.S.	Nov. 10, 2020	Oral Argument
84. Conditional Cross-Petition for a Writ of Certiorari States of Texas v. State of California 2020 WL 814034		U.S.	Feb. 14, 2020	Petition
85. Reply Brief for the Petitioners States of California v. The State of Texas 2020 WL 730290		U.S.	Feb. 12, 2020	Petition
86. Reply Brief for Petitioner United States House of Representatives v. State of Texas 2020 WL 730291		U.S.	Feb. 12, 2020	Petition
87. Individual Respondents' Brief in Opposition CALIFORNIA, et al., Petitioners, v. TEXAS, et al., Respondents; United States House of Representatives, Petitioner, v. Texas, et al., Respondents. 2020 WL 1373159	—	U.S.	Feb. 03, 2020	Petition
88. Brief of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons as Amicus Curiae in Opposition to the Petitions State of California v. State of Texas 2020 WL 564726		U.S.	Feb. 03, 2020	Petition

Title	PDF	Court	Date	Type
89. Brief for the Federal Respondents in Opposition State of California v. State of Texas 2020 WL 564727	—	U.S.	Feb. 03, 2020	Petition
90. Brief in Opposition States of California v. The State of Texas 2020 WL 584338	—	U.S.	Feb. 03, 2020	Petition
91. Brief of Amicus Curiae Jeremy C. Doerre in Support of Petitioners State of California v. State of Texas 2020 WL 360450	—	U.S.	Jan. 17, 2020	Petition
92. Brief of Amici Curiae Alliance of Community Health Plans and Association for Community Affiliated Plans in Support of Petitioners California v. Texas 2020 WL 257703		U.S.	Jan. 16, 2020	Petition
93. Brief of America's Health Insurance Plans as Amicus Curiae in Support of Petitioners California v. Texas 2020 WL 249320		U.S.	Jan. 15, 2020	Petition
94. Brief Amici Curiae of National Hospital Associations in Support of Petitioners State of California v. State of Texas 2020 WL 249321		U.S.	Jan. 15, 2020	Petition
95. Brief Amici Curiae for Bipartisan Economic Scholars in Support of Petitioners California v. Texas 2020 WL 257701		U.S.	Jan. 15, 2020	Petition
96. Amici Curiae Brief in Support of Petitioners and Reversal by the American Cancer Society Et Al. California v. Texas 2020 WL 257702		U.S.	Jan. 15, 2020	Petition
97. Motion for Leave to File Amici Curiae Brief and Amici Curiae Brief of 33 State Hospital Associations in Support of Petitioners State of California v. State of Texas 2020 WL 257704		U.S.	Jan. 15, 2020	Petition
98. Brief of Small Business Majority Foundation as Amicus Curiae in Support of Petitioners California v. Texas 2020 WL 262886		U.S.	Jan. 15, 2020	Petition
99. Petition for a Writ of Certiorari States of California v. The State of Texas 2020 WL 58603		U.S.	Jan. 03, 2020	Petition
100. Petition for a Writ of Certiorari United States House of Representatives v. State of Texas 2020 WL 58604		U.S.	Jan. 03, 2020	Petition

Negative Treatment

Negative Citing References (3)

The KeyCited document has been negatively referenced by the following events or decisions in other litigation or proceedings:

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
Distinguished by	 1. Ohio v. Yellen ”  2021 WL 2712220 , S.D.Ohio GOVERNMENT — United States. American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) provision conditioning state's acceptance of COVID-19 funding on not reducing its taxes violated Spending Clause.	July 01, 2021	Case		1 2 4 S.Ct.
Distinguished by	 2. 303 Creative LLC v. Elenis MOST NEGATIVE  6 F.4th 1160 , 10th Cir.(Colo.) CIVIL RIGHTS — Free Speech. State anti-discrimination law did not impermissibly compel speech of wedding website designer who intended to refuse services for same-sex marriages.	July 26, 2021	Case		4 S.Ct.
Distinguished by	 3. Cook County v. Mayorkas ”  2021 WL 3633917 , N.D.Ill. Cook County and Illinois Coalition for Immigrant and Refugee Rights, Inc. (“ICIRR”) alleged in this suit that the Department of Homeland Security’s (“DHS”) final rule,...	Aug. 17, 2021	Case		14 S.Ct.

History (25)

Direct History (19)

 1. Texas v. United States
340 F.Supp.3d 579 , N.D.Tex. , Dec. 14, 2018

Stay Granted by

 2. Texas v. United States
352 F.Supp.3d 665 , N.D.Tex. , Dec. 30, 2018

Affirmed in Part, Vacated in Part, Remanded by

 3. Texas v. United States
945 F.3d 355 , 5th Cir.(Tex.) , Dec. 18, 2019 , as revised ( Dec 20, 2019 ) , as revised ( Jan 09, 2020 )

Rehearing en Banc Denied by

4. Texas v. United States
949 F.3d 182 , 5th Cir.(Tex.) , Jan. 29, 2020

AND Certiorari Granted by

5. California v. Texas
140 S.Ct. 1262 , U.S. , Mar. 02, 2020

AND Certiorari Granted by

6. Texas v. California
140 S.Ct. 1262 , U.S. , Mar. 02, 2020

AND Reversed and Remanded by

 7. California v. Texas
141 S.Ct. 2104 , U.S. , June 17, 2021

On Remand to

8. Texas v. United States

4 F.4th 372 , 5th Cir.(Tex.) , July 22, 2021

---

9. Texas v. United States

945 F.3d 355 , 5th Cir.(Tex.) , Dec. 18, 2019 , as revised ( Dec 20, 2019 ) , as revised ( Jan 09, 2020 )

Certiorari Denied by

10. United States House of Representatives v. Texas

141 S.Ct. 2849 , U.S. , June 28, 2021

---

11. Texas v. United States

340 F.Supp.3d 579 , N.D.Tex. , Dec. 14, 2018

Affirmed in Part, Vacated in Part, Remanded by

12. Texas v. United States

945 F.3d 355 , 5th Cir.(Tex.) , Dec. 18, 2019 , as revised ( Dec 20, 2019 ) , as revised ( Jan 09, 2020 )

Rehearing en Banc Denied by

13. Texas v. United States

949 F.3d 182 , 5th Cir.(Tex.) , Jan. 29, 2020

AND Certiorari Granted by

14. California v. Texas

140 S.Ct. 1262 , U.S. , Mar. 02, 2020

AND Certiorari Granted by

15. Texas v. California

140 S.Ct. 1262 , U.S. , Mar. 02, 2020

AND Reversed and Remanded by

 16. California v. Texas
141 S.Ct. 2104 , U.S. , June 17, 2021

On Remand to

17. Texas v. United States
4 F.4th 372 , 5th Cir.(Tex.) , July 22, 2021

---

 18. Texas v. United States
340 F.Supp.3d 579 , N.D.Tex. , Dec. 14, 2018

Vacated and Remanded by

19. Texas v. United States
4 F.4th 372 , 5th Cir.(Tex.) , July 22, 2021

Related References (6)

20. Texas v. United States
2018 WL 10562846 , N.D.Tex. , May 16, 2018

21. Texas v. United States
2018 WL 4076510 , N.D.Tex. , June 15, 2018

22. California v. Texas
140 S.Ct. 932 , U.S. , Jan. 21, 2020

23. United States House of Representatives v. Texas
140 S.Ct. 932 , U.S. , Jan. 21, 2020

24. California v. Texas
141 S.Ct. 209 , U.S. , Aug. 24, 2020

25. Texas v. California

141 S.Ct. 209 , U.S. , Aug. 24, 2020

Citing References (127)

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
Distinguished by NEGATIVE	 1. Ohio v. Yellen ¶ 2021 WL 2712220, *5+ , S.D.Ohio  GOVERNMENT — United States. American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) provision conditioning state's acceptance of COVID-19 funding on not reducing its taxes violated Spending Clause.	July 01, 2021	Case		1 2 4  S.Ct.
Distinguished by NEGATIVE	 2. Cook County v. Mayorkas ¶ 2021 WL 3633917, *5+ , N.D.Ill.  Cook County and Illinois Coalition for Immigrant and Refugee Rights, Inc. ("ICIRR") alleged in this suit that the Department of Homeland Security's ("DHS") final rule,...	Aug. 17, 2021	Case		14  S.Ct.
Discussed by	3. Association of American Physicians &amp; Surgeons v. United States Food and Drug Administration ¶ 13 F.4th 531, 540+ , 6th Cir.(Mich.)  HEALTH — Drugs. Nonprofit physician association lacked standing to challenge FDA's revocation of its emergency use authorization allowing use of hydroxychloroquine.	Sep. 09, 2021	Case		6 7  S.Ct.
Discussed by	4. Whitewater Draw Natural Resource Conservation District v. Mayorkas ¶ 5 F.4th 997, 1018+ , 9th Cir.(Cal.)  ENVIRONMENTAL LAW — Impact Statements. Instruction manual describing how DHS would implement NEPA was not "final agency action" because it was not consummation of decisionmaking...	July 19, 2021	Case		11  S.Ct.
Discussed by	5. Military-Veterans Advocacy v. Secretary of Veterans Affairs ¶ 7 F.4th 1110, 1121+ , Fed.Cir.(S.C.)  VETERANS — Attorney Fees. Department of Veterans Affairs' (VA) regulation governing attorneys' fees for representing veterans claiming benefits was invalid.	July 30, 2021	Case		2 4 6  S.Ct.
Discussed by	6. Pennsylvania National Mutual Casualty Insurance Company v. Zonko Builders, Inc. 2021 WL 4061564, *11+ , D.Del.  A builder purchasing insurance to defend and indemnify it against claims brought by homeowners is now defending claims in state court arising from its judicially admitted...	Sep. 07, 2021	Case		2 8  S.Ct.
Discussed by	7. Towet v. United States Department of Homeland Security, Immigration and Customs Enforcement ¶ 2021 WL 3722740, *4+ , D.Kan.  Plaintiff Erick Towet, proceeding pro se, filed a Petition for Emergency Admission to the United States, seemingly based on 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Doc. 1. Although the pleading details...	Aug. 23, 2021	Case		6 8  S.Ct.

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
Discussed by	8. PFIZER INC., Plaintiff, v. UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES, et al., Defendants. ” 2021 WL 4523676, *10+ , S.D.N.Y.  In this case, Plaintiff Pfizer Inc. seeks declarations that one or both of two potential co-pay assistance programs, if implemented, would not violate the federal Anti-Kickback...	Sep. 30, 2021	Case		2 S.Ct.
Discussed by	9. OpenPittsburgh.Org v. Voyer 2021 WL 4429638, *12+ , W.D.Pa.  Presently before the Court are Defendants' reaffirmed motions to dismiss Plaintiffs' Third Amended Complaint ("TAC") (ECF No. 86) seeking declaratory and injunctive relief...	Sep. 27, 2021	Case		6 S.Ct.
Discussed by	10. Savage v. United States Small Business Administration ” 2021 WL 3406387, *4+ , D.R.I.  This matter tests the boundaries of the Court's permissible reach into what has become for the plaintiffs an undoubtedly frustrating and seemingly unnecessary affair with a...	Aug. 04, 2021	Case		1 4 8 S.Ct.
Distinguished by NEGATIVE	11. 303 Creative LLC v. Elenis 6 F.4th 1160, 1175+ , 10th Cir.(Colo.)  CIVIL RIGHTS — Free Speech. State anti-discrimination law did not impermissibly compel speech of wedding website designer who intended to refuse services for same-sex marriages.	July 26, 2021	Case		4 S.Ct.
Cited by	12. Whole Woman's Health v. Jackson 141 S.Ct. 2494, 2495+ , U.S.  FAMILY LAW — Abortion. State's abortion restriction legislation, which would be enforced by private individuals, could take effect.	Sep. 01, 2021	Case		—
Cited by	13. Equal Means Equal v. Ferrero ” 3 F.4th 24, 28 , 1st Cir.(Mass.)  GOVERNMENT — Parties. Advocacy groups lacked standing to bring action to compel Archivist of the United States to publish Equal Rights Amendment (ERA).	June 29, 2021	Case		2 6 S.Ct.
Cited by	14. Whole Woman's Health v. Jackson ” 13 F.4th 434, 448 , 5th Cir.(Tex.)  FAMILY LAW — Abortion. Standing issue was kind of subject-matter jurisdiction issue that Court of Appeals properly could consider in collateral-order appeal.	Sep. 10, 2021	Case		9 S.Ct.
Cited by	15. Maxim Crane Works, L.P. v. Zurich American Insurance Company 11 F.4th 345, 351 , 5th Cir.(Tex.)  INSURANCE — Liability. Crane lessee had contractual standing to seek declaratory judgment that it was additional insured under lessor's CGL policy.	Aug. 25, 2021	Case		—

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
Cited by	 16. Maxim Crane Works, L.P. v. Zurich American Insurance Company  2021 WL 3700934, *3 , 5th Cir.(Tex.) This is an insurance coverage dispute involving an intricate web of insurance contracts arising out of a construction project involving multiple different businesses. But the legal...	Aug. 20, 2021	Case		13 S.Ct.
Cited by	17. Idaho Conservation League v. United States Forest Service  2021 WL 3758320, *3+ , 9th Cir.(Idaho) Salmon Headwaters Conservation Association ("SHWCA"), on behalf of its members, claims entitlement to Ditch Bill Easements ("DBEs") for diversions in the Sawtooth Valley of Idaho....	Aug. 25, 2021	Case		10 S.Ct.
Cited by	18. Farrell v. Blinken  4 F.4th 124, 143+ , D.C.Cir. IMMIGRATION — Citizenship. State Department's refusal to consider request for Certificate of Loss of Nationality was arbitrary and capricious in violation of APA.	July 13, 2021	Case		4 S.Ct.
Cited by	 19. Arizona v. Yellen  2021 WL 3089103, *5+ , D.Ariz. Pending before the Court is the State of Arizona's ("Arizona" or the "State") Motion for a Preliminary Injunction (Doc. 11). The Secretary of the Treasury (the "Secretary") filed a...	July 22, 2021	Case		4 S.Ct.
Cited by	20. Boston Alliance of Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual and Transgender Youth v. United States Department of Health and Human Services  2021 WL 3667760, *6+ , D.Mass. GLBT — Health. Complaint plausibly inferred that anti-transgender animus motivated decision to promulgate rule removing ACA protections for transgender individuals.	Aug. 18, 2021	Case		2 12 13 S.Ct.
Cited by	21. Chadbourne v. Longstaff  2021 WL 3285331, *4 , D.Me. Pro se plaintiff Herb Chadbourne sues Scarborough, Maine, Zoning Administrator Brian Longstaff, the Town of Scarborough, and unknown defendants Does 1-5, seeking to enjoin...	July 31, 2021	Case		1 S.Ct.
Cited by	22. Withrow v. FCA US LLC  2021 WL 2529847, *9+ , E.D.Mich. This case involves an allegedly defective vehicle part. A Bosch CP4 fuel-injection pump. Jeff Withrow owns a diesel-powered Dodge Ram 1500. Kevin Nestor owns a diesel-powered Jeep...	June 21, 2021	Case		2 S.Ct.
Cited by	 23. State v. Biden  2021 WL 3885590, *7+ , E.D.Mo. The State of Missouri and 12 other states brought this suit against President Joseph R. Biden, Jr. and several other executive branch departments and officials, challenging the...	Aug. 31, 2021	Case		6 12 S.Ct.

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
Cited by	24. North Carolina v. Raimondo ¶¶ 2021 WL 4270098, *6, E.D.N.C.  This case is before the court on defendants' motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction (DE 11), and plaintiff's motion to vacate agency decision (DE 17). The motions have been...	Sep. 20, 2021	Case		12 S.Ct.
Cited by	25. ROHIT BANSAL, Plaintiff, v. U.S. CITIZENSHIP AND IMMIGRATION SERVICES and UR JADDOU, DIRECTOR, Defendants. 2021 WL 4553017, *4, D.Neb.  The plaintiff, Rohit Bansal, applied for a green card, but that application hasn't yet been adjudicated. Filing 11 at 39. So, the plaintiff is suing the government—specifically,...	Oct. 05, 2021	Case		7 S.Ct.
Cited by	26. ANAHIT CHEEMA, Plaintiff, v. U.S. CITIZENSHIP AND IMMIGRATION SERVICES and UR JADDOU, DIRECTOR, Defendants. 2021 WL 4553039, *4, D.Neb.  The plaintiff, Anahit Cheema, applied for a green card, but that application hasn't yet been adjudicated. Filing 11 at 39. So, the plaintiff is suing the government—specifically,...	Oct. 05, 2021	Case		7 S.Ct.
Cited by	27. JEEVAN GAMBHIR, Plaintiff, v. U.S. CITIZENSHIP AND IMMIGRATION SERVICES and UR JADDOU, DIRECTOR, Defendants. 2021 WL 4553189, *4, D.Neb.  The plaintiff, Jeevan Gambhir, applied for a green card, but that application hasn't yet been adjudicated. Filing 11 at 39. So, the plaintiff is suing the government—specifically,...	Oct. 05, 2021	Case		7 S.Ct.
Cited by	28. VINEETHA KALVAKUNTA, Plaintiff, v. U.S. CITIZENSHIP AND IMMIGRATION SERVICES and UR JADDOU, DIRECTOR, Defendants. 2021 WL 4553221, *4, D.Neb.  The plaintiff, Vineetha Kalvakunta, applied for a green card, but that application hasn't yet been adjudicated. Filing 11 at 39. So, the plaintiff is suing the...	Oct. 05, 2021	Case		7 S.Ct.
Cited by	29. ANIRUDDHA ASHOKKUMAR LAUD, Plaintiff, v. U.S. CITIZENSHIP AND IMMIGRATION SERVICES and UR JADDOU, DIRECTOR, Defendants. 2021 WL 4553273, *4, D.Neb.  The plaintiff, Aniruddha Ashokkumar Laud, applied for a green card, but that application hasn't yet been adjudicated. Filing 11 at 39. So, the plaintiff is suing the...	Oct. 05, 2021	Case		7 S.Ct.
Cited by	30. AAYUSHMAN MISRA, Plaintiff, v. U.S. CITIZENSHIP AND IMMIGRATION SERVICES and UR JADDOU, DIRECTOR, Defendants. , D.Neb.	Oct. 05, 2021	Case		7 S.Ct.

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
Cited by	31. LAKSHMI SRI SAI SUDHESHNA PINDIPROLU, Plaintiff, v. U.S. CITIZENSHIP AND IMMIGRATION SERVICES and UR JADDOU, DIRECTOR, Defendants. 2021 WL 4553320, *4, D.Neb.  The plaintiff, Lakshmi Sri Sai Sudheshna Pindiprolu, applied for a green card, but that application hasn't yet been adjudicated. Filing 11 at 39. So, the plaintiff is suing the...	Oct. 05, 2021	Case		7 S.Ct.
Cited by	32. GAGAN KRISHANGOPAL SHARMA, Plaintiff, v. U.S. CITIZENSHIP AND IMMIGRATION SERVICES and UR JADDOU, DIRECTOR, Defendants. 2021 WL 4553321, *4, D.Neb.  The plaintiff, Gagan Krishangopal Sharma, applied for a green card, but that application hasn't yet been adjudicated. Filing 11 at 39. So, the plaintiff is suing the...	Oct. 05, 2021	Case		7 S.Ct.
Cited by	33. YASHWANTH VEMPATI, Plaintiff, v. U.S. CITIZENSHIP AND IMMIGRATION SERVICES and UR JADDOU, DIRECTOR, Defendants. 2021 WL 4553352, *4, D.Neb.  The plaintiff, Yashwanth Vempati, applied for a green card, but that application hasn't yet been adjudicated. Filing 11 at 39. So, the plaintiff is suing the...	Oct. 05, 2021	Case		7 S.Ct.
Cited by	34. MAYANK VERMA, Plaintiff, v. U.S. CITIZENSHIP AND IMMIGRATION SERVICES and UR JADDOU, DIRECTOR, Defendants. 2021 WL 4553427, *4, D.Neb.  The plaintiff, Mayank Verma, applied for a green card, but that application hasn't yet been adjudicated. Filing 11 at 39. So, the plaintiff is suing the government—specifically,...	Oct. 05, 2021	Case		7 S.Ct.
Cited by	35. Limtung v. Thomas ¶¶ 2021 WL 4443710, *9, E.D.N.Y.  This is the second federal case that pro se plaintiff Hin Limtung has brought alleging a conspiracy among financial institutions, real-estate companies, and law firms to deprive...	Sep. 28, 2021	Case		8 S.Ct.
Cited by	36. Brooklyn Union Gas Company v. Exxon Mobil Corporation 2021 WL 3565852, *13, E.D.N.Y.  ENVIRONMENTAL LAW — CERCLA. Utility company stated a claim for recovery of costs in connection with removal of hazardous substances under CERCLA.	Aug. 12, 2021	Case		8 S.Ct.
Cited by	37. Bechtel v. Fitness Equipment Services, LLC ¶¶ 2021 WL 4147766, *5, S.D. Ohio  This matter is before the Court on plaintiffs' Motion for Class Certification and to Appoint Class Representatives and Class Counsel (Doc. 37), defendant Fitness Equipment...	Sep. 12, 2021	Case		2 S.Ct.

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
Cited by	38. Pritchard v. LoanCare, LLC  2021 WL 3699867, *3, W.D.Tenn.  Plaintiff Tammy Pritchard filed this purported class action against American Financial Resources, Inc., the holder of her mortgage, and Loancare, LLC, the subservicer of the...	Aug. 19, 2021	Case		1 S.Ct.
Cited by	39. PLANNED PARENTHOOD OF GREATER TEXAS SURGICAL HEALTH SERVICES, on behalf of itself, its staff, physicians, and patients, et al., Plaintiffs, v. CITY OF LUBBOCK, TEXAS, Defendant.  2021 WL 4775135, *5, N.D.Tex.  After reviewing the plaintiffs' complaint, the Court ordered jurisdictional briefing. The parties, predictably, disagreed about which cases controlled the Court's conclusion. The...	Oct. 13, 2021	Case		8 S.Ct.
Cited by	40. Earl v. Boeing Company  2021 WL 4034514, *11+, E.D.Tex.  Pending before the Court is Plaintiffs' Motion for Class Certification (Dkt. #276). Having considered the Motion, the relevant pleadings, and the arguments of counsel, the Court...	Sep. 03, 2021	Case		2 13 S.Ct.
Cited by	 41. Bay Area Unitarian Universalist Church v. Paxton 2021 WL 3852174, *5+, S.D.Tex.  Pending before the Court are motions to dismiss filed by Kim Lemaux, Ken Paxton, Ed Gonzalez, Kim Ogg, Vince Ryan, Art Acevedo, and Pete Bacon. (Instruments No. 28; No. 38; No. 42;...	Aug. 27, 2021	Case		4 S.Ct.
Cited by	 42. Green v. Richardson  2021 WL 3713061, *3, S.D.Tex.  State inmate Prince Green has filed a Prisoner's Civil Rights Complaint ("Complaint") (Docket Entry No. 1) alleging that the defendant, Warden Jeffery Richardson, failed to...	Aug. 20, 2021	Case		1 S.Ct.
Cited by	 43. Texas v. United States  2021 WL 3683913, *11+, S.D.Tex.  IMMIGRATION — Deportation or Removal. States were likely to succeed on merits of their claim that DHS and ICE memoranda setting forth their immigration enforcement priorities...	Aug. 19, 2021	Case		3 S.Ct.
Cited by	 44. Texas v. United States  2021 WL 3025857, *17, S.D.Tex.  IMMIGRATION — Juveniles. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) lacked authority to adopt Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) program.	July 16, 2021	Case		6 S.Ct.
Cited by	 45. Yim v. City of Seattle 2021 WL 2805377, *4, W.D.Wash.  This matter comes before the Court on the parties' cross motions for summary judgment (Dkt. Nos. 23, 33). Having thoroughly considered the parties' briefing and the relevant...	July 06, 2021	Case		2 S.Ct.

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
Cited by	46. People v. Betts --- N.W.2d ----+ , Mich.  CRIMINAL JUSTICE — Sex Offenders. Retroactive imposition of 2011 amendments to Sex Offenders Registration Act (SORA) violated Ex Post Facto Clauses.	July 27, 2021	Case		—
Mentioned by	47. McGowen, Hurst, Clark &amp; Smith, P.C. v. Commerce Bank 11 F.4th 702, 709 , 8th Cir.(Iowa)  BUSINESS ORGANIZATIONS — Officers and Directors. Corporate president lacked actual authority to enter into agreement with lender, purportedly on behalf of corporation, to consent...	Aug. 27, 2021	Case		8 S.Ct.
Mentioned by	48. Kindred Hospitals East, LLC v. Local 464A United Food and Commercial Workers Union Welfare Service Benefit Fund 2021 WL 4452495, *4 , D.N.J.  This matter comes before the Court on Defendants Local 464A United Food and Commercial Workers Union Welfare Service Benefit Fund's ("the Welfare Fund") and the Maxon Company,...	Sep. 29, 2021	Case		8 S.Ct.
Mentioned by	49. Cano v. Assured Auto Group 2021 WL 3036933, *8 , N.D.Tex.  Before the court are the Rule 12(b)(1) motions to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction of all defendants, Rule 12(b)(6) motions to dismiss for failure to state a claim...	July 19, 2021	Case		—
Mentioned by	50. Patel v. University of Vermont and State Agricultural College 2021 WL 3109908, *3 , D.Vt.  In this putative class action, students at the University of Vermont ("UVM") seek to recover contract damages for "the difference in value of live in-person instruction versus...	July 22, 2021	Case		—
—	51. Supreme Court Jurisprudence on Article III Standing 41 A.L.R. Fed. 3d Art. 5  Federal courts are not courts of general jurisdiction; they have only the authority that is granted by Article III of the Constitution and the statutes enacted by Congress pursuant...	2019	ALR	—	6 S.Ct.
—	52. 2020 to 2021 A.L.R. United States Supreme Court Review 63 A.L.R. Fed. 3d Art. 1  This article notes the issues that were addressed, via opinions, certiorari, or other orders, by the United States Supreme Court in its 2020 to 2021 term, that are within the scope...	2021	ALR	—	—

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
—	53. Validity of the Minimum Essential Medical Insurance Coverage, or "Individual Mandate," Provision of s1501 of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act of 2010, Pub. L. No. 111-148, 124 Stat. 119 60 A.L.R. Fed. 2d 1  The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (the Act) was signed into law by President Barack Obama on March 23, 2010. The proponents of this Act identified its purposes as...	2011	ALR	—	—
—	54. 2020 to 2021 A.L.R. United States Supreme Court Review 63 A.L.R.7th Art. 1  This article notes the issues that were addressed, via opinions, certiorari, or other orders, by the United States Supreme Court in its 2020 to 2021 term, that are within the scope...	2021	ALR	—	—
—	55. Cyclopedia of Federal Procedure s 56:1, § 56:1. Jurisdiction confined to cases and controversies  Under the Constitution, the judicial power of the United States extends only to cases and controversies. The authority of federal courts to decide actual cases or controversies...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	56. Employer Health Care Plans After the Affordable Care Act s 1:3, § 1:3. Introduction  This section discusses notable litigation that has arisen as a result of the enactment of the ACA. On June 17, 2021, the Supreme Court issued a decision rejecting on the basis of...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	5 S.Ct.
—	57. Employment Coordinator Benefits s 5:307, § 5:307. Introduction Employment Coordinator Benefits  The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA) was signed into law on March 23, 2010, and the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act (HCERA) was signed one week...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	14 S.Ct.
—	58. Federal Practice &amp; Procedure Supplemental Service s 2757, § 2757. Existence of Actual Controversy Federal Practice & Procedure Supplemental Service  California v. Texas, 141 S.Ct. 2104 (2021), see § 3531.4. The Eleventh Circuit held that a plaintiff, unhappy with the method the defendant insurer used to calculate what it paid...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	59. Federal Practice &amp; Procedure Supplemental Service s 2763, § 2763. Public Law Federal Practice & Procedure Supplemental Service  California v. Texas, 141 S.Ct. 2104 (2021), see § 3531.4.	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	60. Federal Practice &amp; Procedure Supplemental Service s 3531.4, § 3531.4. Injury in Fact Federal Practice & Procedure Supplemental Service  In a class action under the Fair Credit Reporting Act arising from the defendant consumer reporting agency providing credit reports that included that the consumer's name was the...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	11 S.Ct.

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
—	61. Federal Practice &amp; Procedure Supplemental Service s 3531.8, § 3531.8. Illustrative Cases Federal Practice & Procedure Supplemental Service  Transunion LLC v. Ramirez, 141 S.Ct. 2190 (2021), see § 3531.4. California v. Texas, 141 S.Ct. 2104 (2021), see § 3531.4. The Supreme Court held that the chilling effect on census...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	62. Federal Procedure, Lawyers Edition s 1:19, § 1:19. Generally  Under Article III, a federal court may exercise jurisdiction only if the parties have presented a live case or controversy; a court does not have any power to offer an advisory...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	63. Firearms Law Deskbook s 8:2, § 8:2. Prosecutions under the NFA for post-1986 machine guns  The National Firearms Act was passed under Congress's power to raise revenue. The circuits are split on whether the prohibition on unregistered and untaxed machine guns, 26...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	64. Local Government Law s 23:31, § 23:31. Remedies on behalf of taxpayer—Scope of review  A plaintiff must have standing to challenge local government taxation. Particularly difficult questions arise when taxes of one jurisdiction are challenged by a person from another...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	2 S.Ct.
—	65. Medicare and Medicaid Fraud and Abuse s 6:1, § 6:1. Introduction  How health care providers and their legal counsel initially respond to investigations, by federal or state law enforcement agencies, of alleged Medicare, Medicaid or health care...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	66. Nonprofit Enterprises: Corps., Trusts, and Assoc. s 21:14, § 21:14. Nonprofit hospitals—Requirements of Section 501(r) of the Internal Revenue Code  The Patient Protection and Affordable Act added § 501(r) to the Internal Revenue Code to make nonprofit charitable hospitals more publicly oriented by requiring hospitals that are...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	3 11 15 S.Ct.
—	67. Nonprofit Enterprises: Corps., Trusts, and Assoc. HIGHLIGHTS,  The following is a summary of recent statutes, court decisions, IRS rulings, and other legal and/or reporting issues of current relevance that significantly impact nonprofit...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	15 S.Ct.
—	68. State and Local Government Employment Liability s 12:6, § 12:6. Federal regulation of public health plans  Unlike the public sector, however, private sector health benefit plans are governed by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act. In light of favorable tax treatment and...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
—	69. United States Tax Reporter P 50,00A5.01, MINIMUM ESSENTIAL HEALTH CARE COVERAGE RULES. United States Tax Reporter  Supreme Court, in suit brought by number of states and individual taxpayers seeking to challenge continuing constitutionality of IRC § 5000A's minimum essential health care...	—	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	70. United States Tax Reporter P 79,007.852, GROUNDS OF INVALIDITY. United States Tax Reporter  Solicitor General stated that every constitutional objection imaginable was raised by various corps. that challenged validity of the Corporation Excise Tax Act of 8-5-09. Reference...	—	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	71. Am. Jur. 2d Commerce s 78, § 78. Health care subject to regulation under commerce power Am. Jur. 2d Commerce  Congress' power under the Commerce Clause has been held to extend to the regulation of health care. However, the individual mandate in the Patient Protection and Affordable Care...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	3 5 15 S.Ct.
—	72. CJS Constitutional Law s 161, § 161. Necessity of injury CJS Constitutional Law  In order to have standing to contest the validity of legislation or governmental action, the claimant must show that he or she has been injured in fact and that he or she has been...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	73. CJS Constitutional Law s 390, § 390. Advisory opinions CJS Constitutional Law  The exercise of judicial power under Article III of the United States Constitution depends on the existence of a case or controversy, and the federal courts therefore lack the...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	74. CJS Federal Courts s 305, § 305. Questions not presented below CJS Federal Courts  It is the practice of the Supreme Court to decide cases on the grounds raised and considered in the court of appeals and included in the question on which certiorari was granted....	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	75. Ind. Law Encycl. Action s 12, § 12. Standing Ind. Law Encycl. Action  The jurisdictional element of standing addresses the question of whether the complainant is the proper party to invoke the power of the court. A party's standing to sue is...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
—	76. Ind. Law Encycl. Constitutional Law s 19, § 19. Standing as basis to raise constitutional question Ind. Law Encycl. Constitutional Law  Although a reviewing court may exercise its discretion to review a constitutional claim on its own accord, in general, a court will not decide constitutional questions unless the...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	77. Ind. Law Encycl. Constitutional Law s 59, § 59. Advisory opinions as judicial power Ind. Law Encycl. Constitutional Law  Generally, the courts will not render advisory opinions based on the possibility of similar cases in the future, nor will they assume the role of advisor, passing upon the validity...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	78. TX Jur. 3d Actions s 11, § 11. Standing, generally; time of determination TX Jur. 3d Actions  Standing deals with whether a litigant is the proper person to bring a lawsuit and is a constitutional prerequisite to maintaining a suit. Thus, standing is determined at the time...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	6 S.Ct.
—	79. TX Jur. 3d Actions s 21, § 21. Necessity for present controversy; advisory opinions TX Jur. 3d Actions  The distinct feature of an "advisory opinion" is that it decides an abstract question of law without binding the parties. Thus, an opinion is advisory when the judgment sought...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	80. TX Jur. 3d Declaratory Relief s 23, § 23. Standing for declaratory judgment action TX Jur. 3d Declaratory Relief  The standing requirement in actions for declaratory judgment limits subject-matter jurisdiction to cases involving a distinct injury to the plaintiff and a real controversy between...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	81. UNREVIEWABLE: THE FINAL INSTALLMENT OF THE "EPIC" OBAMACARE TRILOGY 2021 Cato Sup. Ct. Rev. 109 , 109+  By fate or design, my young career has tracked the trajectory of Obamacare. In September 2009, shortly after I graduated from law school, I launched a blog to focus on...	2021	Law Review	—	3 5 14 S.Ct.
—	82. MAKING AMERICA A BETTER PLACE FOR ALL: SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT RECOMMENDATIONS FOR THE BIDEN ADMINISTRATION 51 Env'tl. L. Rep. (ELI) 10,310 , 10313+	2021	Law Review	—	14 S.Ct.
—	83. WHERE'S THE MEAT? LOCHNER AND THE PRESIDENT'S EXECUTIVE ORDER 100 Neb. L. Rev. 210 , 269	2021	Law Review	—	14 S.Ct.

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
—	84. SUPREMEPLY DIVIDED: COURT'S CONSERVATIVE BENT INTENSIFIES 93-OCT N.Y. St. B.J. 6 , 6+ Note: This article is a follow-up to "Supreme Shift: What the 6-3 Conservative Majority Means Going Forward," which appeared in the Jan/Feb 2021 issue. Did the Supreme Court...	2021	Law Review	—	—
—	85. A VIRTUOUS CIRCLE: HOW HEALTH SOLIDARITY COULD PROMPT RECALIBRATION OF PRIVACY AND IMPROVE DATA AND RESEARCH 74 Okla. L. Rev. 51 , 77+ C1-2Table of Contents I. Introduction. 51 II. Relating Health Privacy to Health Care. 53 A. Privatized Health Care and Underregulated Health Privacy. 54 B. Original Sins...	2021	Law Review	—	—
—	86. United States Supreme Court Rejects Yet Another Challenge to the Affordable Care Act Plaintiffs Lacked Standing to Challenge Affordable Care Act's Unenforceable Individual Mandate California v. Texas, U.S. , , 141 S.Ct. 2104 (2021) The absence of a mechanism for enforcing the Affordable Care Act's requirement that individuals purchase health insurance precludes standing for both individual and state...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	5 S.Ct.
—	87. United States Supreme Court Rejects Yet Another Challenge to the Affordable Care Act Plaintiffs Lacked Standing to Challenge Affordable Care Act's Unenforceable Individual Mandate California v. Texas, U.S. , , 141 S.Ct. 2104 (2021) The absence of a mechanism for enforcing the Affordable Care Act's requirement that individuals purchase health insurance precludes standing for both individual and state...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	5 S.Ct.
—	88. Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate Corporate Counsel's Monitor NL For the second time, the U.S. Supreme Court has upheld the Affordable Care Act's requirement that most people have a minimum amount of health insurance coverage, saying the states...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	89. 2.1 Illegality In Pledge Executed By President, Which Purported To Give Lender A Security Interest In Stock As Collateral For Personal Loan, Rendered Void The Contemporaneous Acknowledgment Signed By President In Capacity As Corporation's President Under Iowa law, illegality in pledge executed by borrower on a personal loan, which purported to give lender a security interest in stock in the corporation of which borrower was...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	8 S.Ct.
—	90. Supreme Court Decisions of Note	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	3 5 S.Ct.

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
—	91. P 700,819 ASS'N OF AM. PHYSICIANS &amp; SURGEONS V. FDA, 20-1784, SEPTEMBER 9, 2021 - COURT AFFIRMED LOWER COURT DECISION THAT PHYSICIANS ASSOCIATION DID NOT HAVE STANDING TO CHALLENGE FDA LIMITATION ON ACCESS TO HYDROXYCHL Food Drug Cosmetic Law Reporter	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	6 S.Ct.
—	92. P 700,819 ASS'N OF AM. PHYSICIANS &amp; SURGEONS V. FDA Food Drug Cosmetic Law Reporter	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	6 S.Ct.
—	93. Table of Cases Adir International LLC v. Starr Indemnity and Liability Co., 994 F.3d 1032 (9th Cir. 2021), 254 Allstate Insurance Company v. Harbour, 491 P.3d 374 (Alaska July 23, 2021), 350...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	94. United States Supreme Court Rejects Yet Another Challenge to the Affordable Care Act Plaintiffs Lacked Standing to Challenge Affordable Care Act's Unenforceable Individual Mandate California v. Texas, U.S. , , 141 S.Ct. 2104 (2021) The absence of a mechanism for enforcing the Affordable Care Act's requirement that individuals purchase health insurance precludes standing for both individual and state...	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	5 S.Ct.
—	95. P 377,905 KINDRED HOSPITALS EAST, LLC, PLAINTIFF, V. LOCAL 464A UNITED FOOD AND COMMERCIAL WORKERS UNION WELFARE SERVICE BENEFIT FUND, AND THE MAXON COMPANY, INC., DEFENDANTS. Pension Plan Guide (CCH)	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	96. Supreme Court Rejects Latest Challenge to ACA	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	11 14 15 S.Ct.
—	97. Supreme Court Reverses Fifth Circuit; Finds no Standing to Challenge ACA s Minimum Essential Coverage Provision RIA Pension & Benefits Update	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	15 S.Ct.
—	98. Review of Cases Decided this Term United States Supreme Court Actions	2021	Other Secondary Source	—	3 5 S.Ct.
—	99. Lack of standing dooms challenge to ACA individual mandate at high court WESTLAW Health Daily Briefing	—	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	100. Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate WESTLAW Health Daily Briefing	—	Other Secondary Source	—	—
—	101. 29 Westlaw Journal Antitrust 08, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 29 Westlaw Journal Antitrust 08	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
—	102. 43 Westlaw Journal Asbestos 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 43 Westlaw Journal Asbestos 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	103. 41 Westlaw Journal Automotive 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 41 Westlaw Journal Automotive 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	104. 39 Westlaw Journal Aviation 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 39 Westlaw Journal Aviation 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	105. 27 Westlaw Journal Bank &amp; Lender Liability 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 27 Westlaw Journal Bank & Lender Liability 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	106. 18 Westlaw Journal Bankruptcy 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 18 Westlaw Journal Bankruptcy 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	107. 28 Westlaw Journal Class Action 08, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 28 Westlaw Journal Class Action 08	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	108. 39 Westlaw Journal Computer and Internet 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 39 Westlaw Journal Computer and Internet 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	109. 37 Westlaw Journal Corporate Officers &amp; Directors Liability 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 37 Westlaw Journal Corporate Officers & Directors Liability 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	110. 36 Westlaw Journal Delaware Corporate 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 36 Westlaw Journal Delaware Corporate 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	111. 27 Westlaw Journal Derivatives 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 27 Westlaw Journal Derivatives 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	112. 36 Westlaw Journal Employment 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 36 Westlaw Journal Employment 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	113. 42 Westlaw Journal Environmental 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 42 Westlaw Journal Environmental 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
—	114. 35 Westlaw Journal Government Contract 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 35 Westlaw Journal Government Contract 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	115. 27 Westlaw Journal Health Care Fraud 08, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 27 Westlaw Journal Health Care Fraud 08	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	116. 29 Westlaw Journal Health Law 08, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 29 Westlaw Journal Health Law 08	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	117. 29 Westlaw Journal Health Law 03, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 29 Westlaw Journal Health Law 03	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	118. 31 Westlaw Journal Insurance Coverage 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 31 Westlaw Journal Insurance Coverage 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	119. 31 Westlaw Journal Insurance Coverage 01, Lack of standing dooms challenge to ACA individual mandate at high court 31 Westlaw Journal Insurance Coverage 01	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	120. 28 Westlaw Journal Intellectual Property 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 28 Westlaw Journal Intellectual Property 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	121. 37 Westlaw Journal Pharmaceutical 08, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 37 Westlaw Journal Pharmaceutical 08	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	122. 32 Westlaw Journal Products Liability 08, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 32 Westlaw Journal Product Liability 08	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	123. 31 Westlaw Journal Professional Liability 08, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 31 Westlaw Journal Professional Liability 08	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	124. 27 Westlaw Journal Securities Litigation &amp; Regulation 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 27 Westlaw Journal Securities Litigation & Regulation 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	125. 39 Westlaw Journal Toxic Torts 02, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 39 Westlaw Journal Toxic Torts 02	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—

Treatment	Title	Date	Type	Depth	Headnote(s)
—	126. 35 Westlaw Journal White-Collar Crime 08, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 35 Westlaw Journal White-Collar Crime 08	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—
—	127. 32 Westlaw Journal Mergers &amp; Acquisitions 08, Lack of standing dooms high court challenge to ACA individual mandate 32 Westlaw Journal Mergers & Acquisitions 08	—	Westlaw Journal	—	—

Table of Authorities (71)

Treatment	Referenced Title	Type	Depth	Quoted	Page Number
Mentioned	 1. A. Magnano Co. v. Hamilton 54 S.Ct. 599, U.S.Wash., 1934 Suit by the A. Magnano Company against G. W. Hamilton, as Attorney General of the State of Washington, and others. From a decree (2 F.Supp. 417) dismissing the bill, plaintiff...	Case			2136
Cited	2. Adarand Constructors, Inc. v. Mineta 122 S.Ct. 511, U.S., 2001 LITIGATION - Writs. Supreme Court would not reach merits where Court of Appeals made uncontested finding of no standing.	Case			2116
Discussed	 3. Alaska Airlines, Inc. v. Brock 107 S.Ct. 1476, U.S.Dist.Col., 1987 Airlines brought action challenging employee protection program provisions of Airline Deregulation Act. The United States District Court for the District of Columbia, 594 F.Supp....	Case			2133+
Examined	 4. Allen v. Wright 104 S.Ct. 3315, U.S.Dist.Col., 1984 See 468 U.S. 1250, 105 S.Ct. 51, 52. Parents of black children attending public schools in districts undergoing desegregation brought nationwide class action alleging that Internal...	Case		”	2108+
Cited	 5. Arizona State Legislature v. Arizona Independent Redistricting Com'n 135 S.Ct. 2652, U.S.Ariz., 2015 GOVERNMENT - Redistricting. Ballot initiative creating independent state congressional redistricting commission did not violate Elections Clause.	Case			2130
Mentioned	 6. ASARCO Inc. v. Kadish 109 S.Ct. 2037, U.S.Ariz., 1989 Taxpayers brought action challenging Arizona statute permitting State Land Department to lease minerals and school trust lands at flat rate royalty. The Superior Court, Maricopa...	Case			2130
Cited	 7. Babbitt v. United Farm Workers Nat. Union 99 S.Ct. 2301, U.S.Ariz., 1979 Plaintiff, a farmworkers' union, a union agent, farmworkers, and a union supporter, brought action challenging constitutionality of Arizona Agricultural Employment Relations Act....	Case		”	2108+

Treatment	Referenced Title	Type	Depth	Quoted	Page Number
Mentioned	 8. Bank of America Corp. v. City of Miami, Fla. 137 S.Ct. 1296, U.S., 2017 REAL PROPERTY - Discrimination. City had statutory standing to sue home mortgage lenders for its financial harm from racially discriminatory lending.	Case			2128
Cited	 9. Barr v. American Association of Political Consultants, Inc. 140 S.Ct. 2335, U.S., 2020 CIVIL RIGHTS — Free Speech. Debt-collection exception to TCPA's "robocall" restriction violates the First Amendment but is severable from remainder of statute.	Case			2122+
Mentioned	 10. Bell v. Hood 66 S.Ct. 773, U.S.Cal., 1946 Action by Arthur L. Bell, individually, and as an associate of and division superintendent of Mankind United, a voluntary association, and others, against R. B. Hood and others for...	Case			2130
Cited	 11. Bennett v. Spear 117 S.Ct. 1154, U.S.Or., 1997 ENERGY AND UTILITIES - Endangered Species. Ranchers and irrigation districts had standing to seek judicial review of biological opinion proposing use of reservoir water to protect...	Case		”	2127
Cited	12. Brownback v. King 141 S.Ct. 740, U.S., 2021 GOVERNMENT — Tort Claims. District court order dismissing arrestee's FTCA claims against U.S. could trigger judgment bar blocking his Bivens claims against officers.	Case		”	2122
Cited	13. California v. Texas 140 S.Ct. 1262, U.S., 2020 Motion of 33 State Hospital Associations for leave to file a brief as amici curiae in No. 19–840 granted. Petition for writ of certiorari to the United States Court of Appeals for...	Case			2126
Discussed	 14. Carney v. Adams 141 S.Ct. 493, U.S., 2020 JUDICIAL ADMINISTRATION — Judges. Attorney did not satisfy injury-in-fact requirement for Article III standing to challenge Delaware's political affiliation requirements for...	Case			2108+

Treatment	Referenced Title	Type	Depth	Quoted	Page Number
Cited	 15. City of Los Angeles v. Lyons 103 S.Ct. 1660, U.S.Cal., 1983 Plaintiff brought civil rights action against city, seeking damages, injunctive relief and declaratory relief. On remand after an appeal, 615 F.2d 1243, the United States...	Case			2116
Discussed	 16. Clapper v. Amnesty Intern. USA 133 S.Ct. 1138, U.S., 2013 CIVIL RIGHTS - Parties. Plaintiffs lacked standing to challenge FISA provision allowing surveillance of certain non-United States persons.	Case			2108+
Discussed	 17. Commonwealth of Massachusetts v. Mellon 43 S.Ct. 597, U.S.Dist.Col., 1923 Appeal from the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia. Original suit by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts against Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, and others,...	Case			2114+
Cited	 18. Czyzewski v. Jevic Holding Corp. 137 S.Ct. 973, U.S., 2017 BANKRUPTCY - Case Administration. Structured dismissals of Chapter 11 cases must follow Bankruptcy Code's priority rules absent consent of affected creditors.	Case			2127+
Discussed	 19. DaimlerChrysler Corp. v. Cuno 126 S.Ct. 1854, U.S., 2006 TAXATION - Jurisdiction. Ohio taxpayers did not have Article III standing to challenge award of state franchise tax credit to automobile manufacturer.	Case			2108+
Cited	 20. Davis v. U.S. 131 S.Ct. 2419, U.S., 2011 CRIMINAL JUSTICE - Searches and Seizures. Searches conducted in objectively reasonable reliance on binding appellate precedent are not subject to the exclusionary rule.	Case			2130
Distinguished	 21. Department of Commerce v. New York 139 S.Ct. 2551, U.S., 2019 GOVERNMENT — United States. Commerce Secretary's explanation for including citizenship question in census did not permit meaningful judicial review, warranting remand.	Case			2108+

Treatment	Referenced Title	Type	Depth	Quoted	Page Number
Cited	 22. Department of Revenue of Montana v. Kurth Ranch 114 S.Ct. 1937, U.S.Mont., 1994 Double Jeopardy. Tax imposed under Montana's Dangerous Drug Tax Act had to be characterized as "punishment" for purpose of double jeopardy analysis.	Case			2136
Cited	23. El Paso &amp; N.E. Ry. Co. v. Gutierrez 30 S.Ct. 21, U.S.Tex., 1909 IN ERROR to the Supreme Court of the State of Texas to review a judgment which, reversing a judgment of the Court of Civil Appeals of that state, affirmed a judgment of the...	Case			2133+
Distinguished	 24. Florida ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. U.S. Dept. of Health and Human Services 648 F.3d 1235, 11th Cir.(Fla.), 2011 HEALTH - Industry Regulations. Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act's individual mandate exceeded boundaries of Congress's enumerated power under Commerce Clause.	Case			2114
Discussed	 25. Free Enterprise Fund v. Public Co. Accounting Oversight Bd. 130 S.Ct. 3138, U.S.Dist.Col., 2010 SECURITIES REGULATION - Industry Regulation. Sarbanes-Oxley Act's dual for-cause limitations on removal of members of board contravened separation of powers.	Case		”	2132+
Mentioned	 26. Gill v. Whitford 138 S.Ct. 1916, U.S.Wis., 2018 GOVERNMENT - Elections. Allegations of statewide harm did not support Article III standing for partisan gerrymandering claims.	Case			2128
Cited	 27. Hein v. Freedom From Religion Foundation, Inc. 127 S.Ct. 2553, U.S., 2007 LITIGATION - Jurisdiction. Taxpayers lacked standing to challenge federal agency use of federal money to promote executive "faith-based initiatives."	Case			2127
Cited	 28. Hollingsworth v. Perry 133 S.Ct. 2652, U.S., 2013 GLBT - Marriage. Proponents of Proposition 8, amending California Constitution to remove right to same-sex marriage, did not have standing to appeal district court decision...	Case		”	2126+

Treatment	Referenced Title	Type	Depth	Quoted	Page Number
Cited	 29. Hughes v. U.S. 1866 WL 9485, U.S.La., 1866 APPEAL from the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Louisiana. The United States in 1848 filed an information in the nature of a bill in equity in the...	Case			2135
Discussed	 30. In re Trade-Mark Cases 1879 WL 16583, U.S.N.Y., 1879 THE first two cases were brought here on certificates of division in opinion between the judges of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York. The...	Case			2133+
Examined	 31. King v. Burwell 135 S.Ct. 2480, U.S., 2015 HEALTH - Health Care Reform. Affordable Care Act authorized federal tax credits for health insurance purchased from federally-established exchanges.	Case			2121+
Cited	 32. Kingdomware Technologies, Inc. v. U.S. 136 S.Ct. 1969, U.S., 2016 GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS - Preferences and Set-Asides. Rule of Two applies even if VA has met its goals for awarding contracts to veteran-owned small businesses.	Case			2137
Cited	 33. Little Sisters of the Poor Saints Peter and Paul Home v. Pennsylvania 140 S.Ct. 2367, U.S., 2020 CIVIL RIGHTS — Religion. Affordable Care Act authorized exemption from contraceptive mandate for employers with religious or moral objections.	Case			2124+
Distinguished	 34. Lujan v. Defenders of Wildlife 112 S.Ct. 2130, U.S.Minn., 1992 Environmental groups brought action challenging regulation of the Secretary of the Interior which required other agencies to confer with him under the Endangered Species Act only...	Case			2113+
Cited	 35. M'Culloch v. State 1819 WL 2135, U.S.Md., 1819 United States Bank.—Implied power.—Taxing power. Congress has power to incorporate a bank. The government of the Union is a government of the people; it emanates from them; its...	Case			2135
Discussed	 36. Marshall Field &amp; Co. v. Clark 12 S.Ct. 495, U.S.Ill., 1892 Appeal from the circuit court of the United States for the northern district of Illinois. Affirmed. Appeals from the circuit court of the United States for the southern district of...	Case			2133+

Treatment	Referenced Title	Type	Depth	Quoted	Page Number
Cited	 37. Massachusetts v. E.P.A. 127 S.Ct. 1438, U.S., 2007 ENVIRONMENTAL LAW - Clean Air. Clean Air Act authorizes EPA to regulate greenhouse gas emissions from new motor vehicles.	Case			2124
Discussed	 38. MedImmune, Inc. v. Genentech, Inc.  127 S.Ct. 764, U.S., 2007 PATENTS - Declaratory Judgment. Patent licensee was not required to breach agreement before seeking declaratory judgment of patent invalidity.	Case		”	2108+
Cited	 39. Medtronic, Inc. v. Mirowski Family Ventures, LLC  134 S.Ct. 843, U.S., 2014 PATENTS - Burden of Proof. Patentee had burden of persuasion in licensee's action seeking declaration of noninfringement.	Case		”	2116
Discussed	 40. Minnesota v. Mille Lacs Band of Chippewa Indians 119 S.Ct. 1187, U.S.Minn., 1999 NATIVE AMERICANS - Hunting. Mille Lacs Band of Chippewa Indians retained hunting rights guaranteed in 1837 Treaty.	Case		”	2132+
Discussed	 41. Murphy v. National Collegiate Athletic Ass'n 138 S.Ct. 1461, U.S., 2018 GOVERNMENT - Gambling. Federal law making it unlawful for States to authorize sports gambling violates anticommandeering doctrine.	Case		”	2115+
Cited	 42. Nashville, C. &amp; St. L. Ry. v. Wallace 53 S.Ct. 345, U.S.Tenn., 1933 Suit by the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway against Roy C. Wallace, Comptroller of the Treasury of the State of Tennessee, and others. From a decree of the Supreme...	Case		”	2116
Distinguished	 43. National Federation of Independent Business v. Sebelius 132 S.Ct. 2566, U.S., 2012 HEALTH - Health Care Reform. Individual mandate in health care reform law was a constitutionally permissible tax.	Case		”	2114+
Discussed	 44. New York v. U.S. 112 S.Ct. 2408, U.S.N.Y., 1992 State brought action challenging provisions of Low-Level Radioactive Waste Policy Act. The United States District Court, Northern District of New York, Con. G. Cholakis, J., 757...	Case			2132+

Treatment	Referenced Title	Type	Depth	Quoted	Page Number
Cited	 45. Pennsylvania v. President United States 930 F.3d 543, 3rd Cir.(Pa.), 2019 HEALTH — Contraception. Final Rules allowing employers to opt out of providing no-cost contraceptive coverage under Affordable Care Act violated Administrative Procedure Act.	Case			2124
Cited	 46. Poe v. Ullman 81 S.Ct. 1752, U.S.Conn., 1961 Actions for judgments declaring invalidity of Connecticut statutes prohibiting the use of contraceptives. The Superior Court, New Haven County, Connecticut, sustained demurrers...	Case		”	2115
Cited	 47. Printz v. U.S. 117 S.Ct. 2365, U.S.Mont., 1997 GOVERNMENT - States. Provisions of Brady Handgun Violence Prevention Act requiring state chief law enforcement officers to conduct background checks of prospective handgun...	Case		”	2132
Mentioned	 48. Rumsfeld v. Forum for Academic and Institutional Rights, Inc. 126 S.Ct. 1297, U.S., 2006 EDUCATION - Federal Funding. Congress can require universities to allow equal access for military recruiters as condition for receipt of federal funds.	Case			2126
Discussed	 49. Seila Law LLC v. Consumer Financial Protection Bureau 140 S.Ct. 2183, U.S., 2020 GOVERNMENT — United States. For-cause removal restriction for Consumer Financial Protection Bureau's single Director violates separation of powers but it is severable.	Case		”	2131+
Cited	 50. Simon v. Eastern Kentucky Welfare Rights Organization 96 S.Ct. 1917, U.S.Dist.Col., 1976 Several indigents and organizations composed of indigents brought suit against Secretary of Treasury and Commissioner of Internal Revenue asserting that the IRS violated the...	Case			2127+
Cited	 51. Skelly Oil Co. v. Phillips Petroleum Co. 70 S.Ct. 876, U.S.Okla., 1950 Suit by the Phillips Petroleum Company against the Skelly Oil Company, the Stanolind Oil & Gas Company and the Magnolia Petroleum Company under the Declaratory Judgment Act for a...	Case			2115

Treatment	Referenced Title	Type	Depth	Quoted	Page Number
Mentioned	 52. Sonzinsky v. U.S. 57 S.Ct. 554, U.S.III., 1937 On Writ of Certiorari to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit. Max Sonzinsky was convicted on two counts of an indictment charging violation of the...	Case			2136
Discussed	 53. Spokeo, Inc. v. Robins 136 S.Ct. 1540, U.S., 2016 COMMERCIAL LAW - Consumer Credit. Ninth Circuit's failure to consider whether consumer suffered concrete injury-in-fact from website operator's alleged FCRA violation warranted...	Case		”	2126+
Discussed	 54. Steel Co. v. Citizens for a Better Environment 118 S.Ct. 1003, U.S.III., 1998 LITIGATION - Jurisdiction. Court may not decide cause of action before resolving whether court has Article III jurisdiction.	Case		”	2116+
Cited	 55. Susan B. Anthony List v. Driehaus 134 S.Ct. 2334, U.S., 2014 CIVIL RIGHTS - Free Speech. Advocacy groups had Article III standing to challenge Ohio statute prohibiting false political speech.	Case			2114
Reversed and Remanded	 56. Texas v. United States 945 F.3d 355, 5th Cir.(Tex.), 2019 INSURANCE — Health. Affordable Care Act, as amended, was no longer a valid exercise of Congress' taxing power.	Case			2108+
Discussed	 57. Texas v. United States 340 F.Supp.3d 579, N.D.Tex., 2018 TAXATION — Additions to Tax. Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act's individual mandate could not be read as exercise of Congress's tax power.	Case			2113+
Cited	58. Texas v. United States 949 F.3d 182, 5th Cir.(Tex.), 2020 The court having been polled at the request of one of the members of the court and a majority of the judges who are in regular active service and not disqualified not having voted...	Case			2134
Cited	 59. Texas v. United States 352 F.Supp.3d 665, N.D.Tex., 2018 INSURANCE — Health. Equities favored stay pending appeal of order granting partial final judgment holding ACA's individual mandate unconstitutional and not severable.	Case			2113+

Treatment	Referenced Title	Type	Depth	Quoted	Page Number
Distinguished	 60. Thomas More Law Center v. Obama 651 F.3d 529, 6th Cir.(Mich.), 2011 INSURANCE - Health. Minimum coverage provision of Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act was facially constitutional under Commerce Clause.	Case			2114
Mentioned	 61. Town of Chester, N.Y. v. Laroe Estates, Inc. 137 S.Ct. 1645, U.S., 2017 LITIGATION - Parties. Intervenor of right must have Article III standing to pursue relief different from that which is sought by party with standing.	Case			2128
Cited	 62. U. S. v. Detroit Timber &amp; Lumber Co. 26 S.Ct. 282, U.S.Ark., 1906 CROSS APPEALS from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit to review a decree of that court which, on appeal from a decree of the Circuit Court for the...	Case			2108
Cited	 63. U. S. v. Richardson 94 S.Ct. 2940, U.S.Pa., 1974 A taxpayer brought action in mandamus to compel the Secretary of the Treasury to publish an accounting of the receipts and expenditures of the Central Intelligence Agency and to...	Case			2116
Mentioned	 64. U.S. v. Kahriger 73 S.Ct. 510, U.S.Pa., 1953 Defendant was indicted for failure to register in accordance with provisions of the Gamblers' Occupational Tax Act and for failure to pay the tax. The United States District Court...	Case			2136
Mentioned	 65. U.S. v. Sanchez 71 S.Ct. 108, U.S.Ill., 1950 The United States brought action against Mrs. Maria Melitona Sanchez and another for recovery of $8,701.65 in taxes and interest alleged to be due under section 7(a)(2) of the...	Case			2136
Cited	 66. Uzuegbunam v. Preczewski 141 S.Ct. 792, U.S., 2021 CIVIL RIGHTS — Jurisdiction. Award of nominal damages, by itself, may redress a past injury, as necessary for Article III standing.	Case			2128
Distinguished	 67. Virginia ex rel. Cuccinelli v. Sebelius 656 F.3d 253, 4th Cir.(Va.), 2011 HEALTH - Parties. Virginia could not challenge "individual mandate" provision in PPACA for lack of Article III standing.	Case			2114

Treatment	Referenced Title	Type	Depth	Quoted	Page Number
Mentioned	 68. Virginia House of Delegates v. Bethune-Hill 139 S.Ct. 1945, U.S.Va., 2019 GOVERNMENT — Elections. Virginia's House of Delegates did not have standing to appeal from redistricting order in racial gerrymandering case.	Case			2128
Cited	 69. Virginia Office for Protection and Advocacy v. Stewart 131 S.Ct. 1632, U.S., 2011 GOVERNMENT - States. Ex parte Young exception to sovereign immunity permitted federal court suit against State officials brought by state agency.	Case		”	2136
Cited	 70. Virginia v. American Booksellers Ass'n, Inc. 108 S.Ct. 636, U.S.Va., 1988 Suit was brought challenging the constitutionality, under the First Amendment, of statute making it unlawful to knowingly display sexually explicit material accessible to...	Case		”	2114
Cited	 71. Whitmore v. Arkansas 110 S.Ct. 1717, U.S.Ark., 1990 Defendant who was sentenced to death for murder by the Circuit Court, Polk County, John S. Patterson, J., filed petition requesting expedited review of his waiver of direct appeal....	Case		”	2114+