Mailbox Overview - Among the many features included in your IPitomy Voicemail system are:

- Three different types of greetings
- Voicemails forwarded to your e-mail address in .mp3 format
- Organizational System called “Folders” to help arrange saved messages
- Password protected mailbox access
- Audible recording menus to create and re-record greetings
- Voice-to-Text

Default Greeting: If you do not record any greetings your IPitomy system will automatically play a set of default greetings depending upon the status of your extension.

Voicemail

Greeting Type: There are three types of greetings available:

- Standard Greeting – Played when your phone is unanswered
- Busy Greeting – Played when your extensions is busy or DND is enabled.
- Temporary Greeting – Played whenever it is recorded and enabled.

Voicemail Folders: Your IPitomy IP PBX allows you to save and organize your messages into folders. These 5 folders have convenient names for organizing messages:

1. New
2. Old
3. Work
4. Family
5. Friends

When a message is left for you, IPitomy will place the message into the “New” folder. Once you listen to the message and do not delete or save it, IPitomy will automatically move the message to the “Old” folder.

Logging in to your Voicemail:

- From your Local Extension: press the “Message” key on your telephone. This will bring you to a voice menu that will ask you to enter in your password. Enter your password (default password is your extension number) and follow prompts.
- Outside Using Auto-attendant: When dialing in from outside the office, call into the auto-attendant. Dial # from the menu, you will then be prompted to enter in your mailbox number
- From Another Office Phone: Dial 924, you will then be prompted to enter your mailbox number and then your password.
