

To receive the CLB, simply open a no-cost RESP at a bank, credit union, or RESP provider of your choice and request to apply for the CLB.

You do not need to put any money into an RESP to receive the Canada Learning Bond, and it will not impact any other government or tuition assistance you receive.

The Canada Learning Bond will stay in the RESP for 35 years, so youth do not need to decide on a program after high school right away.

All eligible years get back paid once the CLB is claimed, so find out how much money you or your child has waiting today.

Canada Learning Bond Program.

Canada

WHAT IS THE CANADA LEARNING BOND?

Up to $2000 of free money deposited into a Registered Education Savings Plan (RESP), that is available for use once enrolled in full-time or part-time education after high school. This includes trades and apprenticeships, not just college or university.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE?

To be eligible for the Canada Learning Bond, you must be from a low to moderate-income family that has filed taxes (in order to assess income). The CLB is available for children and youth who were born in 2004 or later.

Number of children

Adjusted net family income

Less than $50,197
Less than $56,636
Less than $63,101
Less than $69,567

WHO CAN APPLY?

Primary care givers can apply for the Canada Learning Bond for their children, public care givers can apply for children in care, and youth 18+ (born 2004 & later) can apply for themselves (adult beneficiaries).

To access your/your child's Canada Learning Bond through an RESP, you will need:

1. Social Insurance Number (SIN)
2. Your child's SIN (if applying for a child)
3. Valid photo ID
