Minute on Police Violence
Albuquerque Monthly Meeting of Friends

Albuquerque Monthly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends (Quakers) unites in urging our elected officials to be responsible and accountable for the current situation involving the Albuquerque Police Department and those they encounter. We seek a society that honors the human dignity of every person, including those in power and the victims of police violence.

We seek: --meaningful and appropriate police education, training, selection criteria, and department organization; and --mechanisms for effective citizen oversight, communication, and involvement.

Our concerns reflect deeper systemic issues including racism, classism, homophobia, and militarism.
