About The Author
Mark Michelson

Mark Michelson was born on March 27, 2007, in Scottsdale, Arizona, the son of Brenda Michelson (née Durmann), Montreal, Québec, and Mike Michelson, Kenosha, Wisconsin.
At the age of three, Mark lost his father to glioblastoma, an aggressive brain tumor.
Growing up with a single mother, he learned quickly how to cope and adapt.
He was provided with stability and opportunity and, in return, delivered respect and hard work.
A great childhood one could only wish for.
After being introduced to a variety of sports, music, and the arts, Mark found his true passion in hockey. Being the netminder was what he loved most. "I always felt that I was the protector of my mother and our home, and no one was going to upset our world."
Growing up without siblings, Mark always had a special place for kids. He is passionate about teaching children valuable social and emotional life lessons through his fictional characters.
He wants to be the mentor many kids need. A world of joy, hope, and ownership.
Where kids can be kids. Love, laugh, and live

A HAPPY LIFE.

This book was written for all children who just need and want to smile.

A special thanks to CDA's Hockey Academy Director, Jeremy Mylymok. If it wasn't for you reaching out that day and asking for a moniker, this never would have happened.
Mashers' Books came to life that very day, and I haven't stopped writing books since.

Thank you
