INFORMATION FOR MARRIED CLIENTS

Married clients have the option of hiring separate attorneys for their estate planning needs. When married couples elect to have this firm represent them, both spouses must be present for the initial office consultation and all future consultations.

Although most married persons have the same objectives when it comes to estate planning, there are times when married clients have differing views on distribution of the proceeds of their estates, executors, trustees, etc. Some married individuals have private, confidential, or embarrassing information that they do not wish to share with their spouse, but that information may be essential to the estate planning process and will therefore have to be disclosed to the attorney. Additionally, sometimes married individuals have questions that they desire to ask the attorney separately because it makes them feel uncomfortable when their spouse is present. By having us represent you jointly, you will be losing the ability to address these issues without your spouse realizing them.

If you are married and decide you would like this firm to represent both of you, please initial below and then complete this form jointly:

By initialing below, we acknowledge that we have read and understood the above Information for Married Clients and we have elected to have this firm represent both of us in our estate planning. _____ / _____
