Jerald C. Carter, Jr. began his studies in 1984 at the Jacksonville Police Athletic League under the direction of Master Jerry Williamson in Shotokan Karate-Do receiving his Shodan in 1989. During a tournament 1991 he was introduced to Soke Jack Hogan along with him was Prof. Wally Jay who proceeded to do a quick demonstration to promote his upcoming Small Circle Jujitsu seminar in Jacksonville. During that demonstration Soke Hogan was demonstrating to a small group of Yudansha, Kyusho Jitsu of which Mr. Carter was one. After being used in the demo, it was shortly after Mr. Carter began his studies in Ryukyu Kempo and Kyusho-Jitsu under the guidance of Hogan. In 1993 while at a martial arts seminar he met Renshi Michael P. Andrews, whom he started a lifelong friendship with, and began intensely training in the study of Kata breakdown and movement. He is a constant student of the martial arts with a keen fondness for Kata and the hidden movements with.

Mr. Carter has been a featured instructor at the annual HKI martial arts camps, and can be seen on multiple training videos that have been viewed all over the world. He has taught self defense classes and seminars within the united states, and was a featured instructor while in the UK, and Ireland on a martial arts tour with Grandmaster Hogan. He has worked with law enforcement teaching defensive tactics with the Kingsland PD, and various security personnel. Mr. Carter is the head Instructor of Carters Martial Arts Institute in Jacksonville, FL where he continues to teach classes weekly.
