SPACE RAIL

1964 Miami Seaquarium Monorail

The MIAMI SEAQUARIUM SPACE RAIL! (aka, the SEAQUARIUM MONORAIL!) Founded in 1955, it is the oldest oceanarium in the United States. From 1963 through 1967, eighty-eight episodes of the 1960s TV show "FLIPPER" - and two movies starring Flipper - were filmed at the Miami Seaquarium.

Constructed in 1963, the Miami Seaquarium Monorail was billed as the first of its kind on the East Coast. Suspended on a 2385 foot long guideway, five cars (with one in reserve) carried guests on a 6 mph trip past show and exhibit buildings. The original cars were each named for a fish and had operating headlights and air conditioning.

THE FIRST MONORAIL RIDE IN THE EASTERN U.S.

Just 15 minutes from downtown Miami on Rickenbacker Causeway

In 1978, the cars reskinned with boxier, less unique bodies. Anti-collision systems were automatic with block zones, controlled by an operator at the central console.

The Miami Seaquarium is easily Mold-A-Rama's best, and longest, continuous customer as even today, 49 years after this moldset was first introduced, the Miami Seaquarium STILL operates Mold-A-Matic machines!

Seen from Monorail, the Seaquarium is a wonderland of tropical flowers.

Where is the Seaquarium Monorail today you might ask? Well, it met its demise in 1991, when track demolition was started to make way for a park expansion that did not include the monorail. Rumor has it that the old monorail cars are today being used as sheds.

The Miami Seaquarium SPACE RAIL moldset, numbered 1113, was a custom moldset made in 1964 for use at the Miami Seaquarium.
