

CHAPTER XXV

UNDER DIVINE ORDERS

I, James T. Webb, was given of God the “Spirit of Prophecy” whereby the mysteries of the seven seals of the “Little Book” is made known to the Church and all of those that love his appearing. And blessed is he who is not offended in me, for these things were not revealed by the will of Men, neither have I any wisdom of my own above any other man, but it is God, himself, that make known the secret of his will that the Church may know the finishing event of destruction hidden by seven seals within the “Little Book”.

I heard a voice speaking, saying, “THE HOLY SPIRIT WILL LEAD YOU INTO ALL TRUTHS.” But before this, I was shown the “Little Book” of which I made known to us at this time. I saw as was our house had become partly a church and a house. I saw as my wife in worship with the children and a light was beaming upon them from the window. I was standing upon a rostrum in the house and there was a glass, enclosed chest before me. I saw three bibles open; the large one was at the bottom and the smaller one on top of the second one...all opened. I saw laying upon the top bible a little book, closed.

Again, when I began my writing, I saw as I was walking to a little building the size of our bedroom, in which I have done this writing. A large sheet of paper was placed in my hand, such paper that I used for stenciling. There were names of booklets on it and some had marking on them, showing that all that I had laid out will not be finished. Even at the beginning when I was a youth, I saw this work as a lamp falling from heaven by which the whole world was lighted up, expelling all of the dense darkness.

Now in the first dream of the “Little Book”, I saw when it was placed in my hands and it opened on its own accord. On the pages, there were two colors mingled together of red and green. Then a measuring rule was placed in my hands and after that a golden letter was given to me with golden letters raised so that they may be felt with the hands. Upon entering the little building, I found a work bench around the wall of it. I laid the golden letter on the bench saying that I would read all of it when I finished my work, but I did not understand the content of the letter yet; I knew it was for me at the end of my work in all of these things. I saw no man until I entered the room. I saw through a large window an angel standing as though he was waiting for me. His face was like gold in brightness and his clothes were as beryl. Thus, the knowledge of the “Little Book” is pure and the contents thereof will come to pass, thereby ending all things on earth this side of life.

May the sweet peace of Christ, God the Most Holy, be with you and the sweet communion of the Holy Spirit daily guide and keep you to the end, when Christ shall come on the clouds of heaven to gather both quick and dead; giving eternal life to all who love him and have this hope alive in him by the faith of Jesus, his testimonies and the commandments of God Almighty. AMEN!
