

Dear Family and Friends,

August 23, 2005

Well, the progress is slow, but steady. We have sold our truck and more items are selling every week. We are still parked at Green Acres RV Park in Redding and getting around on our motorcycle. Grocery shopping is challenging, but doable. We can put 18 cans of beer in one saddle bag and 20 pounds of crushed ice in the other. What more could we ask for? That leaves plenty of room in the top trunk for chips and salsa.

August 27, we are heading back up to Oregon for some factory warranty work on the coach and then over to see our solar friends to replace our eight deep cycle house batteries with totally sealed AGM batteries. That will mean no more corrosion and no more adding water. We expect to be back at Green Acres in Redding September 2.

With most of the money from the truck, we were able to pay off the motorhome. Wow, what a great feeling. We actually own a home free and clear. Never thought we'd see that day.

Our long range goal is to tour around the Country giving seminars on the use and production of biodiesel. As some of you know, we market the "Fuelmeister" biodiesel processor. You might enjoy taking a look at this equipment on our website at www.doctordiesel.com. While you're there, sign up for our free biodiesel newsletter.

Running diesel cars and trucks with homemade biodiesel has become very exciting. It costs about 50 cents a gallon to make your own fuel from used French fry oil. But wait, it gets better. For every gallon of biodiesel you make, you can take 50 cents a gallon off of your income tax. Yep, you got it right. You can run your vehicle with no fuel cost! Yes, and you can make up to 40 gallons a day. How about them apples, foreign oil? Please tell your friends with diesel rigs to take a look at our DoctorDiesel website. Thanks.

Come on over for a visit and take home some stuff. Whatever you need, we may have it cheap. Power tools, bar-b-ques, office equipment, bookcases, wheels and tires, art work, treadmill, books, etc., etc. Give us a call, 530-524-5020.

'Till next time, home is where you park it.

Chuck & Donna
