

THE MONOPOLY TIMES

5th & 6th Weekly Newsletter

MATH

Mrs. Pascoe & Mr. Newton

5th Math: We will spend the week reviewing what we have learned about customary units of measurement. The students will have time to work on any assignments in class and will not have homework this week.

6th Math: Because of testing Tuesday-Friday, we will only meet for math on Monday. The students should make sure their assignment from lesson 104 is complete. There will not be any math homework this week.

SCIENCE

Mrs. Pascoe

We will wrap up and review our chapter about weather, and introduce the next chapter on biomes of the world. The students will receive a study guide for the weather test. This test will take place after iLEARN testing is completed next week and will be open-book.

BIBLE

Mr. McOwen

This week we will begin investigating how Scripture tells us we should relate to one another. Over the next two weeks, we will discuss God's creative purpose for men in the creation mandate and the character qualities God desires for men. Following that discussion, we'll also look at Biblical womanhood.

Memory verse: 1 Corinthians 16:13

SPELLING/ LATIN & GREEK

No tests this week due to iLearn testing. There are also no new words to study.

READING & ENGLISH

Mrs. Baker

Reading Journals: No Reading Journals due. The students may read for double the Explorer Bucks.

5th Reading: When the students aren't taking their iLearn tests this week, they will create their own allegory for their first-grade buddies.

5th English: No English due to iLearn testing

6th English: The students will work on their Argumentative essays this week.

6th Reading: We will continue reading our novel this week as we focus on writing good questions for our end-of-unit board game.

HISTORY

Mrs. Newton

The students are celebrating Jackie Robinson Day on Monday, April 15. We begin in earnest to examine the interesting and somewhat conflicting life and presidency of Andrew Jackson this week.

A review of the midwestern states is planned for Friday.
