

SYNOPSIS

ONCE MORE, LIKE RAIN MAN tracks Zoe, a 13-year-old autistic actor, as she frustratingly bounces from audition to audition in attempts to be cast as autistic characters - only to be told she's "not what we're looking for".

Based on the real-life experiences of Bella Zoe Martinez, the film shares a timely, authentic, and often painful window into the world of how people with autism and other disabilities are depicted in the studio system and Hollywood.
