

WINDOW FILM

Depending on the type of film, and the weather conditions, the drying process can take up to three days. This is because window films are installed using a special soapy water solution and, while most of this liquid is removed during installation, some will inevitably be left between the glass and the film. The liquid then needs to evaporate through the film and then disappears completely- as the film dries.

After the film is completely dry, you can clean the film using normal household glass cleaning solutions and a soft, lint-free cloth or towel.(Abrasive cleaners or towels that could scratch or damage the film should not be used.)

Because the films are applied onto the inside of the glass, you can wash the outside of your car in the normal way.
