We have been discussing quality of life for Domino and Nancy.

Dr. Beth will be starting them on some anxiety meds. Lets give it a week to see how that helps.

With Domino, let's avoid the catch pole for now. Although we would have to use it if Domino doesn't react to the medication, Dr. Beth has offered a bit of her time with tricks that she has to help ease Domino out. My concern is that this a stressful and strong method that may work against the common goal of getting him out.

Nancy is showing signs of disassociation and constant over stimulation. Meds may help bring her down so that she maybe able to start connecting again.

I look forward to meeting with you and discussing our progress.
