“Growing up in the 70s my parents turned me on to many different styles of music. While other kids my age were listening to the flavor of the day pop stuff, I went beyond that listening to the likes of Carlos Jobim, Dave Brubeck, George Duke, Joe Sample, Brazil 66, Al Jarreau, George Benson, Chick Corea, and many others. It was this eclectic taste this continues to this day. Some- time around 2016 driving home on a summer’s day I had Al Jarreau’s Glow kicking in the car. I thought, “Man, I’d like to do a jazz CD with my dad, and my buddies.” Since I had been doing pop/rock for so long, I felt I needed a change, a challenge to stretch my limits. So, for the next couple of years, I rummaged through many standards to see what worked, and assembled a bunch of jazz, and some not-so jazzy, but soul/blues influenced material that would be suitable for me. I can remember the intense jam sessions and musicians my dad had at our Sterling Heights home during the 70s. Many of the names that either jammed there, or my dad had played with included, the late Larry Nozero, the late Dave Van de Pitte, the late Skip Kalich, Don Lewandowski, Dan Yessian, and notably, my cousin, the legendary Gene Bertoncini, known for his work with the Rat Pack, The Tonight Show, and many others.

In June of 2019, I started laying down the songs on my computer. In a little less than two years later, in May of 2021, the tracks were complete.

While the result of this CD is maybe Jazz-ish, as not all the songs can be labelled as hard- core jazz songs, it was the closest I got to the style, for now. I was fortunate to be blessed with many top- notch musicians and engineers to bring this project to fruition. Working in my own studio, allowed me unlimited time to work these songs to my liking.

I hope you have as much fun listening to this as I had making it.”

-Jeff
