THE WORLD SERIES COMES TO HOUSTON

Did you know:

Only 6 of the 30 MLB teams have a retractable roof? That's why Houston doesn't ever have to worry about rain delays. (MLB teams with retractable roofs/domes include: Astros, Blue Jays, Diamondbacks, Mariners, Brewers, and Marlins.)

Speaking of retractable roof, it takes 12-20 minutes to close the roof, and moves back and forth an estimated 160 times a year for a distance of 14.6 miles.

The Houston Astros are estimated to be worth $1.65 billion, according to Forbes (which ranks them as the 11th most valuable MLB team)

The Houston franchise debuted back in 1962 when they were the Colt .45s.

After three seasons as the Houston Colt 45s and playing home games at Colt Stadium, the team changed their name to the Astros and began the 1965 season in the newly built Astrodome.

The one millionth run in Major League Baseball history was hit by a Houston Astro. Bob Watson pulled off this feat in May of 1975. Nevertheless, the Astros lost the game.

BEWARE SPAWN OF BLACK NINJA DOG

As most of us knew but didn't want to talk about, The Black Ninja Dog did have a few offspring. We didn't want to talk about it because The Black Ninja Dog caused so much mayhem all over San Leon. For those of you that don't know the story behind The Black Ninja Dog, he showed up a year or so before Hurricane Ike and terrorized the good folk of San Leon till his untimely death in March of 2015. The town folk knew that he got hit by a drunk driver. There was a lot of speculation on who it was that took The Black Ninja Dog out, but that damn dog caused thousands of dollars' worth of damage to people's property and vehicles.

This black dog would come out between midnight and 2:00 am and dart out in front of vehicles causing the drivers to run off the road. And that beast did not discriminate, although I think he had a favorite person to terrorize, and that was a long-time Mayor, Keith Heinze. Dear Steve had a lot of pull in the town and when Mayor Heinze got in a little trouble Dear Steve would get a call and he would go to the scene to try to help his buddy Mayor Heinze out of a jam. One time The Black Ninja Dog came out at about 8:00 pm and caught Mayor Heinze off guard and darted out in front of him in front of The San Leon Liquor Store and he plowed into the tree that was on the property across from the liquor store. Another favorite of The Black Ninja Dog was a very good friend of Dear Steve's, and his initials are Robbie Akes. That dog would terrorize him on his golf cart. That dog did get a lot of women into wrecks also. He did not hold back! He got Canal Mom and her neighbor Charlotte on two separate occasions.

San Leon had a proper burial for The Black Ninja Dog on March 22, 2015. There were about 180 people that showed up for the funeral, but all did not go smoothly. One of the sweet ladies that had followed The Black Ninja Dog in The Seabreeze News was so upset by his passing that she had a little medical issue and they had to dispatch an ambulance to check on her. The San Leon Volunteer Fire Department was there to assist Rhonda to take photos of the large crowd. They allowed her to get on top of one of their trucks to get a photo of the many mourners that attended. Dear Steve invited the good folks at the Guinness Book of World Records to attend and record the world record for world's largest dog funeral. However, as of this date, no mention had been made of it in any of the editions of said book.

Dear Steve was pretty bummed about the passing of The Black Ninja Dog, after all, his readers loved a good Black Ninja Dog story, which brings us to the reason for this story. Actually, it's a warning! The Seabreeze News has done extensive research regarding two possible Black Ninja Dog offspring. We think one is running up and down 517 in San Leon and we think someone in Bacliff had taken one in about eight years ago. He has been spotted running between Jack In The Box and the Circle K at Grand Avenue and Highway 146. We can't reveal our sources, but the experts that we talked to said 9 out of 10 people that have taken a nosedive in that ditch (that is clearly marked) said it was a black lab looking dog that ran out in front of them.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Driving,
 What started out several years ago as one single bench built and installed by some wonderful local guys, turned into a cluttered mess. One by one more structures were added by citizens. During COVID, Mooner Beach was one of the very few that were open without restrictions. Large numbers of people suddenly found our little hidden gem. More people came, more structures were built, more trash, more destruction of the beach, etc. Benches and tables encouraged loitering and even the beginnings of folks living on the beach. It is now the goal to restore the beach back to its natural state as well as making some other kinds of improvements, including better parking and reseeded and replanting some native plants up in the rocks to allow the beach ecosystem to thrive.

Dear Editor,
 All month long my Mother-In-Law has been wanting me to bring the kids to San Leon for a golf cart parade. Her son and I are separated. I did not want to go hang out with my soon-to-be-ex-Mother-In-Law. After a lot of thought, I figured it would be good for the kids to go see their Grandmother.

She wanted them to dress up in their Halloween costumes. My thoughts were ok, my kids are going to look like idiots watching golf carts. San Leon, I was so impressed with your Halloween golf cart parade! Most of the golf carts were decorated and might I add, some were very creative! Our favorite was the Willy Wonka golf cart.

This gave me and my Mother-In-Law time to talk and discuss her grandkids. We decided I would bring the kids down to San Leon for these fabulous golf cart parades. They got so much candy, I will have to limit their consumption.

Signed,
Impressed From Spring

Dear Impressed,
 The good people of San Leon have been doing the holiday golf cart parades for years. If there is a holiday coming up, you can expect a golf cart parade. When the kids hear the fire truck sirens they come running. It puts a smile on our faces to see the children lined up along the parade route. I am surprised they didn't end up with koozies from the Mayor Election that will be held next month.

Dear Editor,
 I moved to a small RV Park that has all retired people living there. Heck, I bet we are all in bed by 8:00 pm. Jefferson County noise law is a no loud noise between 10:00 pm and 7:00 am. Well, this new person moved in and plays the bass guitar and jams out for about three hours a day. The floors in my RV vibrate. The little old man that owns the place struggles to pay the bills. We all work together to do things around the park as a family, but it is starting to become a problem for everyone at the park and the other neighbors. This man retired about five years ago and picked up where he left off before he got married and had kids, pursuing a music dream. The guy has moved here from New Jersey. Maybe they don't have the etiquette that us Texans have, who knows. The owner has told him that his music is too loud and he said, "I never play music after 10:00 pm."

We are trying to figure out a way to be nice but firm about the window shaking at 3:00 pm (some of us old farts take naps.) Most nights we hear him come in at about 3:00 am.

Signed,
Losing it at the Retirement Park

Dear Losing It,
 Wow! What you all need to do as an RV Park retirement family is have a meeting at 7:00 am and get your strategy together. Make sure you have a good plan! At 7:00 am the owner needs to get ready to start the mower and move it next to his RV bedroom. You other guys need to have the sound system (CD player) queued up at 6:55 and ready to go at 7:00 am. Get ready to take your peaceful time back! At 7:00 am sharp, start the CD player with Lyle Lovett blasting the song That's right, you ain't from Texas. Then when he goes to take a nap at 5:00 pm, sit outside his RV and chant. "We refuse to live out your ROCK-N-ROLL FANTASY!!" Do that till 9:45 pm and he will want to move with people like him. In doing so, he may get the hint.

Dear Editor,
 I was out for my weekly drive and I passed by Mooner Beach. I am not sure what happened but the beach looks great! I don't know who gave permission for all those structures to be built there but it was starting to look so cluttered.

San Leon Don's FISHING TIPS

Don is on a first name basis with most of the local fish...

I'll start this report with bad news to us flounder fishermen. Texas Parks and Wildlife has closed flounder limits to 0 from November 1st to December 14th. That means no gigging or any way of catching flounder. I don't like it but it will let the flounder rebound. So maybe next year will be different on limits. We all know if overfishing is the problem, they will most likely reduce the limits so our grandkids will be able to catch flounder in their time.

That being said, take a kid fishing next time you go out.

DEAR STEVE'S WIFE TRAINING SCHOOL TIPS FROM A GRADUATE

Hunter Wife Blues

Welcome back to another tip from a graduate of Dear Steve's Wife Training School. November brings many things with its arrival. It brings Thanksgiving. It brings the San Leon race for Mayor, and it brings the opening of gun season for hunters. In fact, one of these great hunters is running for Mayor in our beloved community. So ladies, if your man is like our potential new mayor, Guy Crenshaw, listen up because the tips you are about to receive are crucial to get through this season.

It is not easy dealing with a hunting-obsessed man. As a good wife you will need to learn to weigh the pros and cons of both sides of the obsession. Once you learn the balance, you will come out ahead and have a happier husband. Acquire the coping skills needed, follow these suggestions, and you will soon learn how to deal with an obsessed hunter. First, let me reassure you: you are not alone. Many women face the same dilemma year after year. But then, again, it is not always a bad thing. It could be much worse. He could be an alcoholic, drug addict or abuser. He could chase women, cheat on his taxes, or blow his money. But he does not do those things. He just hunts in all his spare time during deer season, hog season, duck season, and whatever-other-critters-are-left season. Now that is not so bad, is it? Mainly, hunting is a healthy sport. He gets plenty of exercise hauling a deer stand around on his back for endless miles in the wilderness. He gets to wade water, climb trees, and drag dead carcasses for miles through the woods. Best of all, he can stay awake for long hours with minimal sleep without falling out of the tree stand. There is no need to nag him with questions like, "How can you climb a tree but you cannot get on the roof to fix a leak?" "Why can you do all of that but cannot seem to fix the kitchen sink?" "Why won't you snuggle with me, but you will sleep in a deer blind with your buddy?" Just be thankful your husband is getting exercise. It really is that simple ladies.

A FEW TIPS FOR A SUCCESSFUL SEASON

One: Do not take it personally that he finds deer more appealing than you for four months out of the year. This, too, shall pass. Perhaps you could fill that void by getting yourself a membership to a gym and trying to make yourself more attractive.

Two: Do not complain about how much money your husband spends on much needed hunting equipment. This could be at your advantage next time you want that $50.00 pair of shoes.

Three: Do not gripe because he is away most of the time. Instead use this time to catch up on some house cleaning and deer cleaning skills.

Four: Act interested in everything he says about deer. Do not ask stupid questions like, "Did the deer run when it saw you?" Of course not! Your husband is an experienced hunter, and the deer would never see him in time to run.

Five: Spend some time finding recipes to prepare the harvest your husband will be bringing home to feed the family.

Six: Do not complain about the bloody carcass filled coolers he brings home and places in the kitchen. Instead, have your best knife sharpened and ready to start showing off the deer cleaning skills you learned at Wife Training School while he was away.

Again, I hope you find these tips helpful in your mission to become better wives. I hope you all have a Blessed hunting season. And be on the watch out for new Dear Steve Wife Training shirts that will be arriving to The San Leon Liquor Store mid November!

Funny Bones

SHE IS SO BLONDE:

She thinks she can't listen to her AM radio at night. She heard that 80% of accidents happen at home, so she moved. When she missed Bus 44, she took Bus 22 twice. She tried to put the M&Ms in alphabetical order. At the bottom of her job application where it says "Sign Here," she wrote "Virgo." She told her friend to meet her at the corner of WALK and DON'T WALK. She thinks the TGIF on her t-shirt stands for "This Goes In Front."

A Captain notices a light in the distance on a collision course with his ship. He turns on his signal lamp and sends, "Change your course, 10 degrees west." The light signals back, "Change yours, 10 degrees east." The Captain gets a little annoyed. He signals, "I'm a US Navy Captain. You must change your course, sir." The light signals back, "I'm a Seaman First Class. You must change your course, sir." Now the Captain is mad. He signals, "I'm an aircraft carrier. I'm not changing my course." The light signals back a final message: "I'm a lighthouse. Your call."

A little boy comes running into the room and says, "Grandpa! Grandpa! Can you make a sound like a frog? The Grandpa says, "I don't know. Why?" The little boy says, "Because Grandma says as soon as you croak, we can go to Disneyland."

A traveling salesman, caught in a torrential rainstorm, stopped overnight at a farmhouse.

In the morning, he looked out on the flood coursing through the front yard. He watched pieces of fence, chicken coops, branches, and an old straw hat floating past with the current. Then he saw the straw hat come back, upstream past the house. Then he saw it go down again. Pretty soon it came back upstream and by now the salesman wondered if he had gone crazy. Finally, he called out to the farmer's daughter. She glanced out of the window and said, "Oh, that must be Grandpa. He said yesterday that come hell or high water he was going to mow the yard today."

A storm descends on a small town, and the downpour soon turns into a flood. As the waters rise, the local preacher kneels in prayer on the church porch, surrounded by water. By and by, one of the townsfolk comes up the street in a canoe. "Better get in, Preacher. The waters are rising fast." "No," says the preacher. "I have faith in the Lord. He will save me." Still the waters rise. Now the preacher is up on the balcony, wringing his hands in supplication, when another guy zips up in a motorboat. "Come on, Preacher. We need to get you out of here. The levee's gonna break any minute." Once again, the preacher is unmoved. "I shall remain. The Lord will see me through." After a while the levee breaks, and the flood rushes over the church until only the steeple remains above water. The preacher is up there, clinging to the cross, when a helicopter descends out of the clouds, and a state trooper calls down to him through a megaphone. "Grab the ladder, Preacher. This is your last chance." Once again, the preacher insists the Lord will deliver him and, predictably, he drowns.

A pious man, the preacher goes to heaven. After a while he gets an interview with God, and he asks the Almighty, "Lord, I had unwavering faith in you. Why didn't you deliver me from that flood?" God shakes his head. "What did you want from me? I sent you two boats and a helicopter."

A young woman from New York was so depressed that she decided to end her life by throwing herself into the ocean, but just before she could throw herself from the docks, a handsome young man stopped her. "You have so much to live for," said the man. "I'm a sailor, and we are off to Italy tomorrow. I can stow you away on my ship. I'll take care of you, bring you food every day, and keep you happy." With nothing to lose, combined with the fact that she had always wanted to go to Italy, the woman accepted. That night, the sailor brought her aboard and hid her in a small but comfortable compartment in the hold. From then on, every night he would bring her sandwiches, a bottle of red wine, and make love to her until dawn. Three weeks later she was discovered by the Captain during a routine inspection.

"What are you doing here?" asked the Captain. "I have an arrangement with one of the sailors," she replied. "He brings me food and I get a free trip to Italy." "I see," the Captain said. "Anything else?" Her conscience got the best of her and she added, with some embarrassment, "Plus, he's screwing me." "He certainly is," replied the Captain. "This is the Staten Island Ferry."

San Leon MUD Update

Galveston County Mosquito Control

Galveston County has a fleet of vehicles that are deployed throughout the county to spray for mosquitos. If you have any questions regarding spraying schedule or want to request spraying in your area, you can call them at 800.842.5622 or visit their website to see maps of the locations they've recently sprayed as well as where they intend to spray next.

Property Address Reminder

Part of San Leon's rate order requires that all residential and commercial buildings in the district have the property address posted on the building. The letters and numbers used to mark addresses should be at least three inches high and should be placed on the building so they are visible from the street. This is to the residents' benefit as well since any EMS responders will be better able to locate your property with the address visible.

The San Leon Cemetery Committee would like to thank you all for once again showing your generosity and large hearts at the annual fundraiser. The event was a great success. Thank you to all that attended, donated, and supported. The cemetery is maintained completely through donations. The main goal of the fundraisers is to ensure that should there be a disaster, such as a hurricane or tornado, the Committee is able to make any repairs or restoration needed. With such great participation by the community, they are able to do some improvement projects as well. It was great to see everyone and can't wait till the next event in the spring. Stay tuned!

49TH ANNUAL DICKENS ON THE STRAND

Brush off your bowlers and prepare your petticoats as Galveston Historical Foundation presents the 49th annual Dickens on The Strand. Held the first weekend in December, the annual festival is a holiday tradition with great family programming, live entertainment, special events and more.

Dickens on The Strand, based on 19th-century Victorian London, features parades, non-stop entertainment on four stages, new additions like Tiny Tim's Play Land, Shopkeeper Skills Village, and roaming characters throughout the festival. Costumed vendors peddle their wares from street stalls and rolling carts laden with holiday food and drink, Victorian-inspired crafts, clothing, jewelry, holiday decorations, and gift items.
