

Mouthsoaping: How It Happened To Me

I have not even had one done to me since i was a kid. But I wanted to see if there was anyone else had this done to them as a kid. Through a long search one long night I found pics & groups that talk about it. I have never given one either. I would be more on the receiving end. Since I guess that's how it was implanted in me from an early age. I did not like it then when "mom" did it.

One day a girl who was my friend at the time gave me one. She was really cute. I guess that's what started it all as an attraction thing. A beautiful girl "punishing me for being so bad". Ever since she did that to me, all the time after she threatened the treatment a lot when I was being rude or just to make me stop being annoying..

Too bad I lost touch with her growing up. It was like our own secrete thing. I remember when we were with friends and I was acting up, she used to rub her hands together just to let me know what she was thinking of doing to me...

I sometimes acted up just to get it from her. She used Ivory on me lots of times. A Used bar, and she told me that she would clean it first so there was no germs on it for when she punished me...

Heheh, I guess for her, she was acting like a grown up doing grown up mommy things. I don't think it's ever been done to her though.

Now that I'm older I always wanted to ask the girl I was with, but I thought she would think I was crazy or do it and tell everyone about it. Some times to this day I dream about it how they (past girlfriends) would do it.

Single now though, so I have a lot of time on my hands to facinate. I don't know why this turns me on... There was nothing sexual about it from the way beginning. I hated it. As I was younger I hated soap so much that I would just get wet in the shower and not use it. Then I grew out of that and realized that there is nothing to hate about it. There are much more crazy sick things out there that turn people on.

After finding these groups and reading other people's stories I don't feel so weird about it.

Spankyou For reading!