power and healing word.

“My greatest honor is to point others to Jesus through a life well lived by preaching, worship, music, serving and building the kingdom of God.”

My word to you

Every moment we have can often be a defining moment. Our moments are not to be just mere seconds to live by, but an opportunity to cultivate change and support growth. Trusting the process means cutting things off when seasons change.

You won't see a fresh harvest holding onto seeds or the harvest of the past.

To everything there is a season. At times those seasons change and things must be cut off for new growth to ever occur. Until things are severed; the old, dead growth will always overtake any that is new and has life.

Today is ur day!! Nothing can take the amazing moments you will have away! Tilt your head back, breath 10 times and say today is my day.

The start of greatness is in my mouth and my hands. When God speaks it may sound like everything you feel you can't do. In reality you may not be able to achieve what He has spoken to you for that moment.

When I think of the voice as rushing waters, I hear such refreshing glory that reveals my destiny and purpose. My life is forever changed by one word spoken from Him. What He says I can do has already been done and I must accept it because he started with my end in mind. He knows the process for me to take to reach the destiny he desires, I must know He has gone before me and I will not fail.

There is no future without a test.

“As a leader we must cultivate the presence of God within believers allowing His glory to be revealed through solid biblical teachings. The government of the kingdom is different than ours. Once we start taking steps moving in a certain direction, God takes notice and suddenly more favor, blessings, and opportunities come our way.”

Chris started a new Facebook Live called Doing Life With Chris. These have been viewed thousands of times.
