Bard

I think the lyrics to "Green Eyes" are very emotional and moving. They capture the feeling of being in love with someone who is unavailable.

The song begins with the singer repeating the phrase "I love you." This simple statement is both powerful and heartbreaking, because it is clear that the singer's love is unrequited.

The singer then goes on to describe the situation in more detail. They say that their love interest is taking a bus out of town at 10:30 AM, and that it is a rainy day without a cloud in the sky. This imagery suggests that the singer is feeling lost and alone, even though the world around them is still beautiful.

The singer then reflects on their relationship with their love interest. They say that they were just friends at first, but that something happened and now they can't stand to see them with another guy. This suggests that the singer's feelings have grown stronger over time, and that they are now struggling to cope with the reality of their situation.

The chorus of the song is a simple but powerful declaration of love. The singer sings, "Green eyes green eyes / My green green eyes." This repetition emphasizes the intensity of the singer's love, and it also suggests that the singer's green eyes are a symbol of their love.

The second verse of the song describes the singer's empty heart and the lack of color in their life. They say that they have heard the songs before, but that they now mean so much more. This suggests that the singer is finally understanding the true meaning of love and loss.

The song ends with the singer repeating the chorus, followed by the line "I love you / So why the ten thirty bus out of here?" This is a final plea to the singer's love interest to stay, but it is also a reminder that love is not always enough.

Overall, I think "Green Eyes" is a beautifully written and performed song. It is a song about love, loss, and the power of music. I would definitely recommend it to others.
