TABLE OF CONTENTS

MARKET POTENTIAL

Market Potential is the most significant indicator in your report of the likely commercial success of your track. It combines both your Track Rating and your Passion Rating to provide you with a single aggregate score that predicts how commercially successful your track might be within your market. Your track's Market Potential score is calculated as a percentage between 0% and 85%. For the best odds of chart success, an artist should shoot for a score of 65% or better.

The Market Potential classification indicates where the track is positioned among over 100,00 other tracks.

Chart success assumes a reasonable promotional budget. It should also be noted that the relative success of a single is also directly related to the existing profile of an artist.

I do not like how at first I could not hear anything to the drastic opening of this song. This artist should have no yelled as much on this track and took his time in pronouncing his words so that I could know what he was saying.

The song has a classic 1950's vibe to it. I like the lyrics they sound very witty. The instrumentals are very well composed and the whole song is very easy to dance to. The guitar really adds to the old school rock n roll sound.

The song is so peaceful in the starting. Then the song start with a guy and then the background people join him to sing the song and the lyrics are good. You can feel the song. The song is about sunshine. The instrumental music is good. The singer is best.

Sounds like something that would play on a car radio in a high school movie. Instrumentals are kind of meh and the vocals don't seem very catchy but if played at the right moment it doesn't sound very bad. Lyrics is decent but could've been better the mixing is not good. it is very thin and empty. it sounds self-recorded, which isn't the bad part. the bad part is how it doesn't embrace its DIY nature. it is trying to sound high end when it's impossible to with this budget. his voice is good, but the melody and the song is just odd. i don't see any mainstream or commercial appeal whatsoever. the drums sound horrible.

I enjoyed the introductory notes and bass drops because they added a whole different level the track. The artist transitions nicely from the chorus into the verses. The lyrics were really relatable and exemplified. The dynamics in the song were a bit hard to hear but all around not bad

Takes a little long for the into to kick in. It sounds like it should be the intro to a film, it would make a good intro. It has good use of instruments, especially the guitar being able to have a solo so soon into the song, but still being able to keep you interested. It has very good use of timing and good production.

An enjoyable song to listen to as it gives a very nostalgic vibe. The artist could improve his lyrics as they sound pointless yet the beat is ver well created and sounds good. The flow of the artist is also decent as it matches that of the beat nicely.

When you hear a song, You have to reel people in right away and this song took a few seconds too long to start as it was just silent. That being said, I dig the beat of this song. This is defenitily someone I would go see in concert. Also the guitar playing is crazy good!

The artist singing sounds as if he is standing a bit far from the microphone so his voice is not as clear as it could have been. Some off the lyrics also sound off key compared to the beat of the music making the whole song sound off key.

Rock style song, drums, electric guitar, soft rock style, enjoyable, excellent electric guitar moments through out the song esp around the 1.18 mark, impressive playing. The chorus of the song is easy to pick up and sing to, which makes the song memorable. The backup singers singing "tension" fits in relaly well.

The beginning of the song was similar to East Asian songs. This singer has a beautiful style and raises his voice well and has a good rhythm and composition. The electric guitar is beautifully played. The voice of this singer is very exciting. Maybe it would have been more interesting if it had a fast rhythm.

Very suspenseful beat at the start of this track. Then a male artist comes in with old school vocals almost sounds like its being sang through a tube. It is a very cool vibe provided and i like the style of singing this artist chose for this track.

Track has interesting bounce feel that almost feels like a waltz in some way. The whole track provides a cool jazz/rock experience for a listener. The mixture of the piano and guitar solos in between kept interested especially towards that first minute. Captures a bit of rock there.

I think quiet a few people would enjoy this song. It is definitely different then most of the songs you hear on the radio but singer has a good voice and the band seems to be super tight. Everything flowed together and I liked the electric guitar in the song.

A comical set to the lyrical procession adds an exciting element within this alternative rock ballad. There is a stimulating vibe to the instruments, playing out in a fun raucous and engaging sway of sounds. A dramatic perk to the singing vocals further enhance the lively effects of the music.

The music was slow out of the gate, but was quite different in terms of originality, both for words and the melody - I thought it was creative and had a lot of individuality. Not a fan of the style of music, but think the artist has a lot of talent and imagination.

This is a totally fresh and uplifting piece of music with amusing lyrics. I liked the general overall sound of the song which is quite different and stands out from the rest that are around today. Great backing instruments, full of surprise and depth, a rare addition to any song nowadays.

This one reminds me of a Pixies song, it's very abnormal, is it jazz, is it rock ? is it punk ? it sounds like a blend of all 3, I do like how crazy it is, the drumming really jumps out at me and I'm loving the lead vocals, what a great production overall, I just didn't like the back up vocals, to high !

A very strange opening and definitely not something that makes any sense to me. The style, tone and performance of the male vocalist singing was quite flippant and didn't sound very well controlled really. I felt the song was a little too edgy for me, and just a little outspoken and made little to no sense for me personally emotionally.

A song with low sound and background singing. The singing is with the music and has nice instruments. The background gains attention with the song. I like the guitar playing for the music. Nice song with nice held notes and music blending with the song.

This song reminded me of early Patti Smith, a mixture of singing and poetry reading sounded wild and powerful, but musically not so strong in the beginning. The song became more melodious in the chorus, I liked the guitar solo in the middle 8. Very retro sounding stuff.

I would consider listening to this song a lot because the artist has that charisma on his voice. It feels like the whole song is riding on how he presents the lyrics with that wonderful voice. There is also the wicked guitar solo that really gets you hooked.

What a wonderful intro that quickly builds up to the rest of the track. The drums crash like waves on the ocean's shore and the bass line is very driving. I really appreciate the way the guitar wails away and accentuates this song so well.

The lyrics are okay, but have a lot of familiar sounding lines. The guitar solo is well done and has a nice style. The singing is not bad. It has a good arrangement. The musician ship is good, but the track is on familiar musical ground.

So this is a soulful swing/blues song sung by someone who sounds a little bit like Bruno Mars, although I couldn't imagine him singing something so retro. What's immediately noticeable is how quiet this is, like it hasn't been mastered. The instruments such as the piano, drums, guitars and bass guitar are all well performed, and they're placed in various places in the stereo spectrum but there doesn't seem to be any more effort gone into that as far as mixing's concerned. It really just sounds like a competent demo from a technical point of view. Musically I do find it a bit irritating, it's really not my cup of tea at all, and I can't see it doing well commercially.

A lively R&B track. It features a lead vocalist with a favorable tone, pitch and character. He is accompanied by an aptly composed score, accented with notable electric guitar leads and fills throughout. The arrangement is well layered with piano, bass drums and background harmonies.

I like the instrumental and the excitement in the singers voice. I believe they are called inflections. The voice and the background music goes together with the singer and the message. Its hard to understand the main word hes saying, either that or i dont know what word hes using. Nice jazz beat.

DEFINITIONS

Weightings

The better a Reviewer is at judging the broader consensus rating of the track, the higher weighting their opinion receives. When calculating the Overall Market Potential, each Reviewer's track rating is weighted in accordance with their influence. For example a track rating from a highly respected Reviewer, who has proven to be accurate at identifying strong or weak tracks in that genre, can carry a much heavier influence than a track rating from a newer Reviewer.

Reviewers/Sample Group

This is the group of music consumers who have listened to the track online and left their track rating and written review. They are sourced from our sister site, Slicethepie and they do not know they are conducting market research when they hear the track, which helps to achieve honest and objective responses. The sample group is selected at random and screened by their age, gender, location and genre preferences. A diverse sample group of reviewers is required to form a "smart crowd" which ensures an accurate Market Potential. See "Wisdom of Crowds" below.

Wisdom of Crowds

Wisdom of Crowds is a proven methodology that large groups of ordinary people organised under the right conditions (a "smart crowd"), outperform small groups of experts in making decisions and predictions. It is not new. It is the science behind Google and decision-making in some of the largest companies in the world. It has been proven time and again that collective wisdom consistently surpasses the experts. It also means that SoundOut can guarantee a high level of accuracy with results.

The 4 conditions required to form a "smart crowd" that delivers an accurate result are:

1. Diversity of opinion: A sample group of reviewers with many different points of view makes better decisions than one where everyone has the same information.
2. Independence: The reviewers' opinions are not influenced by others.
3. Decentralization: Answers are given by individual reviewers based on their own local and specific knowledge rather than by a central person.
4. Aggregation: There is a way of accurately measuring the sample group's collective answer.
