Providence Saturday Morning

Dear Wife,

I wrote you a few days ago and requested an answer although I sent you probably three full days since disappointed of not hearing from you I hope that Colburn has not again broke back. Mr. Galt has left Providence for Newport and those New York one has made arrangements with a friend to go into business therefore I have no control of time now.

I have at last succeeded in finding a friend who will advance $1000 dollars for me by paying interest of 5% per cent and you have the money as long as I wish by giving him security on the estate for such portion as will be satisfactory.

Now then I see my way clear for I can happily. You recollect I told you I had a man about fifty dollars which I ought not to pay so I thought before I received any funds of you I should discharge it. That is by borrowing at our usual rate the Franklin Hindu Sun says. Now expect in ordinary of paying discharges the debt so in a few days I shall be free from debt.

I shall be out probably next Saturday with a friend an attorney to draw the partition satisfactory so there shall be no error. And I want you to write me immediately. To keep back you must go with me to Boston to make a visit of convenience. Yours in haste J. B.
