Servant Leadership & Community Involvement

Servant Leadership is so desperately needed today. We need leaders who have a heart to be a servant and remember that the reason they lead is to serve others. Jesus was the ultimate example. He was among the people to serve and yet He was the ultimate example of what a servant looks, sounds, and acts like.

My life of service started at home. I began to work in our family business and learned quickly that dad would not be making any exceptions for me over the other employees.

In 1983 I snuck away and joined the USAF. My heart was determined to serve my country like my uncles had done in Vietnam. I was becoming a servant leader and did not know it.

After life in the USAF, I completed two bible school programs and served in churches for the next 35 years as a staff pastor & servant leader. I am a trained church planter. I really enjoy starting organizations and building teams who can run those organizations.

Now I serve in one of the most unique roles that I have ever been privileged to serve in. CAPA (Clergy And Police Alliance) is unique and has a real impact in Fort Worth. As a bridge we support both the community and the police department. I have over 1500 hours on active patrols.

Finally, I serve on my HOA Board and serve our homeowners in Stoneglenn.

"I live in my Community to Serve!"

"I have worked with Scott Graham since 2006 in various capacities from ministry to coaching. His integrity, work ethic and relational skills are among the best I have seen. Further, his leadership and influencing skills in business inspire action and growth. Scott is an asset to an organization who needs a thought leader who maneuvers strategy and tactics to get results."

David Barski
CEO – People Elevated

"I have been privileged to know Scott Graham for over 5 years. Until my recent relocation I was part of his leadership group connected with Eagle Mountain International Church. In the time I've known Scott, I have seen him demonstrate exceptional leadership skills and high personal integrity. Scott is a proven leader in both his professional and personal life."

Rodney Quickle
Retired Store Manager
Walmart

"In my years of experience with start-up and company expansions throughout the USA and Internationally, I've worked with and mentored a diverse group of individuals. Scott Graham's ability to assess, understand and solve issues along with his leadership skills are among the best and brightest I've worked with. These qualities are matched by his personal strength and compassion for others due to his resolute faith."

Jack L Ernest
Exc. Sr. Vice President

"I coach top level leaders from all areas of life and work. Scott is a top tier leader with high passion, clarity about his purpose, integrity, and drive for excellence. He is a creative and entrepreneurial leader who serves others first. Scott is grounded both in his faith and with key people he surrounds himself with. Scott is a difference maker."
