Boardman Arts Park: Keeping Delaware “Quirky” Since 2017!
Boardman Arts Park, Where Community and Creativity Meet

An article published on WorldAtlas.com on February 1, 2024 describes the 6 Quirkiest Towns in Ohio. “A deep history and a strong sense of belonging create a cultural playground for the state's past and current residents to indulge in some strange and noteworthy creative desires,” the article begins. It’s no wonder then that charming and eclectic Delaware made the list. What’s more, Boardman Arts Park was noted as a key component in Delaware’s inclusion!

In the article, Boardman Arts Park is described as a staple of Delaware, Ohio, alongside the historic architecture of Ohio Wesleyan and the Delaware County Fairgrounds Race Track, home of the Little Brown Jug. “The contemporary presence of the town is most evident in the Boardman Arts Park,” states the article, “Where interactive creations and new plus-sized artistic exhibitions are on display by local crafters and creatives.”

The team behind Boardman Arts Park is flattered for the mention, and pleased to announce their 2024 Events Schedule. Between events, and as winter turns to spring, visitors are encouraged to enjoy the Park’s walking paths and interactive art installations, including a large climbable owl, a piano fountain, and a village of gnome houses! Boardman Arts Park is open to the public sunup to sundown.
