

10th edition January 10, 2023, BBRS meeting

The 10th edition is scheduled to be on the next Building Code Coordinating Council meeting January 26, 2023 agenda linked here.

Once the BCCC process is completed the draft linked here, then goes the State Office of Accounting and Finance (A&F) for review and action. The period of time at A&F is unknown, with the change in Governor and Ms. Healey's appointments to various offices will affect the timeline. Once A&F release the document the BBRS then can set a date for public hearing on the proposed code consistent with the notice requirements for public hearings.

Following the BBRS public hearing, the custom had been to have a period for additional public comment, a review of that comment followed by adoption of changes, then a vote to promulgate. The code then needs to be sent to the Secretary of State's Office for publication. Included in the draft language is a concurrency period with date to be determined after the BBRS public hearing.
