49TH ST SOUTH BUSINESS ASSOCIATION NEWSLETTER

Message from the President

We are very excited as we transition from the Tangerine Blues Fest to the Trolley Market Square Blues & Brews. We love that we have the Trolley Market Square as opposed to the Tangerine Greenway.

We love that we have returning bands that contacted us to be a part of the first Blues & Brews! We love that we have top name bands and will be able to support some local charities! We would love to have you come out to enjoy the entertainment!

Our bands are as excited as we are! We still have some levels of sponsorship available and are in need of volunteers!

Find out more about attending, sponsoring, volunteering or joining as a vendor by visiting us on Facebook at:

www.facebook.com/TangerineBluesFest

Or email us at so49web@aol.com or call 727-439-0164.

Respectfully,

Jeri Reed

Jeri Reed, President SO49

COMMUNITY SPOTLIGHT

I THOUGHT IT WOULD BE NICE TO INTRODUCE YOU TO SOME OF THE PEOPLE WHO MAKE COMMUNITY PROGRAMS SO SUCCESSFUL.

This month I chose Mr. Michael Vigue the principal at Boca Ciega High school.

The Vision of Boca Ciega High School is 100% Student Success. Our Mission is to Open Doors to Success for Our Students!

When I approached Mr. Vigue about the idea of him being the first subject he right away said to me that “Thanks for offering this and yes I am open to a story. However, I would like it to come from an angle of the accomplishments of BCHS, not just me.” I knew then he was a great community leader and a great subject to start off the series.

How long have you been the principal at BCHS?

(Mr. Vigue): I am close to finishing my ninth full year (started in October 2010)

What makes the teaching model work so great at the school?

(Mr. Vigue): First and foremost, our focus on meeting the needs of ALL of our students. We categorize our annual objectives/goals into four domains; instruction, systems, leadership, and culture. All of these must work together to instill academic confidence in our students as they prepare for success after high school.

You do a weekly news release how important is that to your model of success?

(Mr. Vigue): Our weekly email updates, which are now distributed to about 1,800 recipients, are critical for helping our school community stakeholders know in advance what we are doing and how they can be involved.

Each morning you pull into the school what is the first thought that goes thru your mind?

(Mr. Vigue): I tend to arrive rather early. This early arrival affords me the opportunity to handle some of the smaller job related tasks before our staff and students arrive. By doing so, I am then able to maximize my visibility and interactions with students and staff throughout the day.

Boca Ciega High School (BCHS)

Do you have a favorite moment since you have been there at the school?

(Mr. Vigue): Any of the graduation ceremonies; watching the community come out to support our students and to share in their successes is a very rewarding experience for me.

How important is it to have the families involved in their child's future?

(Mr. Vigue): This is extremely important because it helps ensure we at the school establish a consistent support program for each student. While our daily support for students typically ends after they complete high school we want each family to know our support continues well after high school is completed.

How important is it to have the community involved in the school program?

(Mr. Vigue): Successful high schools often draw the community together, which is what I feel The BCHS has been able to do over the past several years.

The resurgence and re-engagement of alumni, our support at community activities, and our many students who volunteer in our local community are just a few examples.

Finally, what is in your future?

(Mr. Vigue): I hope to continue as principal at The BCHS for the immediate and (hopefully) long term future.

(Me): The down side to Mr. Vigue's success, if history repeats itself he is destined to be an area Superintendent. That is not a bad thing though, because we could see area wide successes in all of our schools.

IN MEMORIAM

Vince Naimoli was a great man that brought baseball to the whole area. Here is something many of you all may not know.

Mr. Naimoli used to come out to all games and sit in the crowd so he could get a handle on what he could do for baseball and the fan. The Fan is number one with me. Thank you Vince, you will be missed.

The original owner and CEO of the Tampa Bay Rays, Vincent J. Naimoli, passed away at the age of 81.

SAFETY CORNER

REACTING TO A POLICE CAR (MARKED OR UNMARKED)

by Officer Zack Mills

You may be signaled to pull over by a police car or an unmarked car with a flashing light. If you are concerned about the circumstances or suspect that the person pulling you over might not be a real police officer, there are some precautions that you can take.

When pulling over, try to do so in a well-lit area or public space. Signal to the officer your intent on pulling over so they are aware you are going to do so.

Most police officers, whether in uniform or plain-clothes, will insist on physically holding and inspecting your license and registration. You can safely respond to their request by partially lowering your window a couple of inches to pass the documents to them.

Ask to see the officer's credentials. If they show it to you briefly or refuse to show you, be suspicious and ask for another officer to come. There are many instances of criminals impersonating police officers where they abduct the person they pull over. You may aggravate the officer by insisting on these things, but it's better to be safe than sorry.

SAFETY CORNER

By Florida law, you must provide documents requested by an officer. If you refuse to even roll down your window or refuse to provide any documents, you run the risk of being arrested for obstruction of justice.

SOLICITORS

Before burglars attempt to break into your home, they have probably taken the time to determine whether you have anything worth stealing. One way for a total stranger to find out whether your home contains a laptop, television, gaming system, etc. is simply to knock on your door.

By posing as a door-to-door salesperson, a neighbor looking for a lost pet, or a person delivering flowers or packages, a complete stranger can appear at your home and have an excellent chance of you opening your door to look inside. Even if you don't invite this person inside, your door will probably be open wide enough to allow the person to make a quick inspection of your possessions from the doorway. It will also give them a chance to surmise who is or isn't home.

The obvious solution is to never open your door to a stranger. Wide-angle door viewers are an inexpensive way to identify people at your doorstep without letting them know you are home. If you allow children to open the door under certain circumstances, be sure to install a second viewer at the child's height so that he/she can easily identify the visitor.

If someone claims to be delivering a package, ask that it be left by the door. If a signature is required, be sure to evaluate your options before deciding whether to open the door - you can always arrange to pick up the package at the shipper's distribution center if possible.

Employees of utility companies or reputable repair services always carry identification, wear proper uniforms, and will be glad to wait outside while you call their employers to verify their identities.

Should a stranger knock on your door, it's best to indicate that you are home even if you don't open the door. You can say, "I'm not interested" or "I'm busy right now." Criminals commonly use this ploy to determine vacant homes to burglarize.

SAFETY CORNER

If a stranger asks to use your phone, offer to make the call while he/she waits outside. Do not let them enter your home under any circumstances! If you are a woman alone in the house or apartment and a stranger asks to speak to your husband or the man of the house, tell them he is working in the garage or office and cannot be disturbed. Never tell a stranger that you are home alone.

Always know who is outside your door and what they want before you open it! Many requests can be handled without opening the door. Children should also be instructed to ask "Who's there?" before opening the door. It's up to you whether you admit someone seeking entry.

Many smart home systems include a video doorbell where you can see who is at your door without even going up to it. Through the voice control, you can talk to the person outside your home to gather information before deciding to open your door. Most times, you will be alerted to someone approaching your home before they even get to the front step.

And as always, if you don't feel comfortable and think something is suspicious about those going around your neighborhood, please feel free to call dispatch at (727) 582-6177 and a police officer will be happy to come and make contact with that person to determine if they are properly permitted to be soliciting.
