

COMMUNITY

CHIW takes fall social to ‘Open Door’

Mike Ellis

More than a dozen ladies from the Clarendon Hills chapter of the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago auxiliary (CHIW) enjoyed a night out during their fall social at The Open Door Bottle Shop and Taproom in downtown Clarendon Hills on Oct. 27.

Members were asked to bring hats and gloves to contribute to CHIW’s annual coat drive, before catching up with each other at the downtown business district’s newest and most popular attraction.

The chapter unveiled the date of its annual benefit—April 22, 2022—which will incorporate a spring flair, and move from Saturday to Friday night.

Traditionally held in late January, the last time CHIW hosted an in-person benefit was in early 2020, prior to the Coronavirus pandemic.

For more information about the Clarendon Hills chapter of the Infant Welfare Society auxiliary, visit www.clarendonhillsinfantwelfare.org.

PHOTOS BY MIKE ELLIS

Clarendon Hills Infant Welfare member Danielle McNally, president Melissa Woodbury and benefit co-chair Jenny Pace attended the chapter’s fall social on Oct. 27.