2: "Creation of Adam" after Michelangelo. Silver-plated and colored. Attached to Fiberboard (MDF) on USD 7,000 - 10,000

This art piece has been created using Electroplating (Electrodeposition) Technique. The metal base is plated with 3 layers of 99.9% silver and colored. A reproduction of one of the greatest paintings by the outstanding Italian artist Michelangelo do Buonarroti "Creation of Adam", depicted on the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel in the Vatican. The painting depicts the biblical story from the Book of Genesis in which God breathes life into Adam, the first man. The central scene shows God reaching out with his hand, surrounded by angels, towards the outstretched hand of Adam. Their fingers are almost touching, creating a sense of tension and anticipation, symbolizing the moment of creation and the transmission of life from God to humanity symbolizing the moment of creation and the relationship between humanity and the divine. This work of art is of inestimable importance, both for religious art and for the Renaissance. The artwork's exquisite details and masterful execution showcase Michelangelo's unparalleled skill and artistic vision. This is not only a masterpiece of Renaissance art but also a profound meditation on the nature of humanity, spirituality, and the divine. It continues to inspire awe and wonder in viewers, making it one of the most iconic and enduring works of art in history. The painting's enduring popularity and significance lie in its ability to transcend time and culture, speaking to viewers across generations and beliefs. Its universal themes of creation, life, and the divine spark within each individual resonate with people from all walks of life. Michelangelo's "Creation of Adam" serves as a reminder of the power of art to inspire, uplift, and provoke thought. Delivery time: 1 month. Size: 100x50cm. 113: Steel Sculpture "Qivi-Bot" by Denis Kulikov, 2017. Dimensions 38x33x27cm

USD 11,000 - 13,000

In the sculpture "Qivi-bot" Denis Kulikov combined living nature with cybernetic achievements, creating a cyborg bird. The narrative of alternative evolution with the human technology interference in the living nature has long been apocalyptic, as it is associated with the final conquest of nature by man. The artist offers a reflection on the reasonability of such intervention.

114: Steel Sculpture "The Overseer" by Denis Kulikov, 2016. Dimensions 37x65x32cm

USD 21,000 - 23,000

"The Overseer" whose head reminds us of Ridley Scott's classic film the "Alien" Is a lifelike sculpture of a sinister humanoid cyborg, who has the power to bring real threat to earth. The sculptor's sci-fi plot reveals the vulnerability of earthly existence.

115: Steel Sculpture "Shrimp" by Denis Kulikov, 2018. Dimensions 75x160x65cm

USD 31,000 - 33,000

The brutality of this work is emphasized by the belligerent pose of the aquatic fauna species. Adopting the features of terrestrial insects, the "Shrimp" becomes similar to a scorpion. Its traditional helplessness before the forces of the elements and predatory fish is transformed into a fierce resistance to the laws of nature.

116: Steel Sculpture "Leviathan 3" by Denis Kulikov, 2021. Dimensions 47x180x55cm

USD 31,000 - 33,000

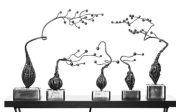

In mythology, Leviathan was considered a symbol of the sea—a mighty and magnificent creature, unmatched in its element. Later, the word "Leviathan" became a nickname for something striking by its size and strength. The modern Leviathan in Denis Kulikov's interpretation is still the king of the sea depths, but his real strength is not in his size, but in his intelligence, his ability to adapt to any living conditions and make right and useful decisions.

117: Steel Sculpture Series of sculptures "Garlic" by Denis Kulikov, 2021. Dimensions 41x40x22cm

USD 7,000 - 9,000

"Garlic" is part of Denis Kulikov's "Cosmoflora" series and is a cosmic plant that guides the way. Depending on the underlying intentions of the person following that path, it will lead the wanderer to where he or she really needs to go.

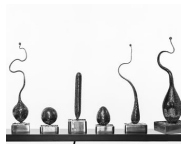

118: Steel Sculpture Series of sculptures "Bonsai" by Denis Kulikov, 2021. Dimensions 50x60x40cm

USD 7,000 - 9,000

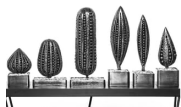

The "Bonsai" series is based on the Asian art of growing trees in miniature. Growing trees in Japan is a separate kind of leisure activity, associated with skill, that also requires the art of admiring these trees upon completion. In Denis Kulikov's space flora, the branches and leaves of the "Bonsai" tree take on a new form, that according to the artist, corresponds to the universe around them.

119: Steel Sculpture Series of sculptures "Metalozoid" by Denis Kulikov, 2021. Dimensions 70x55x22cm USD 7,000 - 9,000

Through the series of works "Cosmoflora" the artist immerses himself in the study of alternative worlds and their flora. Futuristic forms of space plants, taking the "earthy" form of metallic matter, are depicted in Kulikov's sculptures. Creating the world of flora, the artist invites the viewer to endow this world with fauna, to inhabit it with alien creatures, to imagine his own universe from the original points of reference. The viewer's imagination as a malleable matter merges with the heavyweight structure of metal and gives it life.

120: Steel Sculpture Series of sculptures "Corn" by Denis Kulikov, 2021. Dimensions 38x34x23cm USD 7,000 - 9,000

Through the series of works "Cosmoflora" the artist immerses himself in the study of alternative worlds and their flora. 121: Steel Sculpture "Self-Contemplation" by Alexander Dedov, 2021. Dimensions 187x55x50cm USD 37,000 - 40,000

Through an impersonal image of a child holding a small fish, Alexander Dedov interprets the relationship between man and nature. Observing a fragile creature, whose life can be interrupted by an awkward movement or intentionally, a person, observes and knows himself. By owning and disposing of someone else's life, he gets a false sense of divine power. Using the example of the dissected body of a dolphin, the sculptor shows the process of deformation of nature by a person who seeks to transform it in his interests. The dolphin is a symbolic representation of water, nature, and the surrounding world. The artist created an image of the feet submerged in water, hiding them outside the space of the sculpture. Through this image, Alexander Dedov compares a person to a tree that is rooted deep underground. Water is interpreted by Dedov as the source of life on earth and at the same time as one of the elements of destructive natural elements. It can create life natural elements. It can create life and regenerate it, but it can also destroy all living things. The sculpture symbolizes the hierarchy and cyclical relationship of man with nature, as well as their continuous mutual influence. An aggressive or childishly frivolous, irresponsible invasion of humanity into the realm of nature can cause a tragic and irreversible spontaneous reaction. Every person and, in particular, every child has a choice on which their future depends: to show an act of power and take the fish for themselves, playing with it until it runs out of life force, or to let it go back into the water, allowing nature to coexist harmoniously with us and in ourselves.

One such flag was seized by QX2240 Lance Corporal James Calvert of the 2/9 Battalion during a patrol in the Milne Bay area on September 29, 1942. The main Japanese force at Milne Bay had evacuated the area in the days before and Calvert's patrol was part of an exercise to clear the area of any enemy soldiers left behind. Coming upon a party of five Japanese soldiers in a native hut they opened fire. Calvert killed an officer and wounded another man. The others fled into the jungle, one hiding in a nearby bush which Calvert fired into, killing the man. When the area was secure the Australians souvenired items from the hut. Calvert picked up this flag along with a sword, some notes and other material. They then burnt the hut and returned to camp. Calvert was born in Manchester, United Kingdom, in 1910 and enlisted for service in Townsville, Queensland, in March 1940. He was discharged in December 1943.

184: Vintage Tin Field Gun Artillery Military Toy. Made in Japan

USD 40 - 80

Vintage tin field gun artillery military toys are fascinating relics from the mid-20th century, particularly popular in the years following World War II. In the photos there is one where you can see slightly inscribed "Made in Japan". These toys typically emulate the appearance of real artillery pieces used in warfare, such as cannons or howitzers, albeit in a scaled-down and often stylized fashion. Manufactured primarily in Japan, these toys were often made of tinplate and featured intricate detailing, including painted camouflage patterns, movable parts like wheels and gun barrels, and sometimes even simulated firing mechanisms. Some models were wind-up toys, while others might have been friction-powered or manually operated. These toys served as a form of imaginative play for children, allowing them to mimic scenes of battle or military operations. They were also popular collectibles and are sought after today by collectors of vintage toys and military memorabilia. However, it's important to note that these toys reflect a historical context where war and military imagery were more prevalent in popular culture. Today, they are appreciated more for their aesthetic and nostalgic value rather than for any glorification of conflict.
