Controlling Mosquitoes in Olde Oaks

Mosquitoes range from being a nuisance to being carriers of diseases. Our OOCIA Board has hired Cypress Creek Pest Control to spray for mosquitoes (frequency varies by season and is usually done from March through November), but you, the residents, can help. By combating mosquitoes you can improve your landscaping and make your community a nicer place to be! It's a win-win. Here are some suggestions:

Remove all standing or slow-moving water. This is the easiest thing for residents to do to maintain a safe environment. Stagnant and slow-moving water is a breeding ground for mosquitoes, as female mosquitoes lay their eggs in standing water, and that's where their larvae hatch. Eliminating these areas will help control the mosquito population on your property.

- Inspect your property for irrigation and grading issues. If you use sprinkler systems, check that all sprinkler heads are clearing the ground and not creating pools of standing water. Fill in low lying spots with topsoil.
- Change the water in birdbaths, flowerpots, pet bowls, or any other item containing water or food, weekly.

Use natural deterrents. Naturally controlling the mosquito population is the best plan. There are easy ways to accomplish this such as:

- Incorporate pest-repelling plants in your landscaping. Lemon balm, marigolds, and citronella grass are a few common plants that are easy to grow. Other plants include: tulsi, lavender, lemongrass, citronella, catnip, basil, garlic, peppermint, rosemary, pennyroyal, geraniums and sage.
- Use oil of lemon eucalyptus as a natural spray. It is as effective as low levels of DEET.
- Use Bacillus thuringiensis israelensis (or Bti) products in decorative ponds or other areas that cannot be drained or flushed out. Bti tablets are not harmful to other animals, humans, or aquatic life.
- Attract natural predators to your yard. Many birds are natural mosquito predators, including purple martins, waterfowl, swallows, and migratory songbirds. Setting up bird feeders is a solid step in attracting these birds. Installing a bat house can also help, as bats eat up mosquitoes. If you have a pond, you can benefit from predators like goldfish, koi, and red-eared slider turtles.
- Cedar mulch – Cedar mulch soaks up excess moisture, keeping it in the soil and deterring mosquitoes from settling in your vegetation.

Other suggestions include yellow LED lighting instead of white, mosquito traps, and citronella candles

Regular landscape maintenance. Mosquitoes and other pesky insects, such as flies, thrive in damp, shady areas. Keeping your lawn manicured and removing low-lying shrubbery helps to limit the areas for unwanted insects to live. In effect, this increases the sun and wind exposure, which is uninhabitable for mosquitoes. With a proactive plan to reduce the threat of mosquitoes, it will limit the number of pesky biters, and your property will look well maintained and beautiful.

Leaf It Alone!

© Eleese Lester, January 9, 2023

Well, I don't know about you, but temperatures in the teens left my yard looking haunted! My first instinct was to go out and prune everything and clear away the debris, but actually that is NOT recommended. What IS recommended goes contrary to my "clean up" mentality. The experts say to leave the dead alone and let nature take its course. By leaving the dead branches and leaves, we actually insulate what is still alive so that the viable lower branches and roots are protected till they can come back in spring. The only thing we "get" to clear away is the mushy stuff from succulents and those plants that store a lot of water so that we prevent an overgrowth of nasty fungus. This leaves us with extra time on our hands to read a good organic gardening book OR do some planning for spring and prune those roses! So here goes:

Soil Testing – It may seem like a hassle but testing your soil is easy and helps you understand exactly what your soil needs to provide the best medium for growing beautiful and healthy plants. Then you can add exactly what your plants need without guessing and spending money on soil additives until you know what your soil is lacking. Just go to the Texas A&M website through this link and follow the directions, soiltesting.tamu.edu. Scroll down to Urban Soli Analysis and follow the prompts.

Pruning Roses – Valentine's Day is a great target date for pruning roses. If roses are young, one to two years, prune back about 5 inches and prune off dead, diseased or damaged areas.

After the rose bush is firmly established prune branches back about one-third the size of the bush and again remove dead, damages or diseased branches. Decide before pruning exactly how large you want your rosebush to be as you may want to trim it back even more, up to one-half if firmly established, to fit the space you have chosen for it. Prune repeat-blooming climbing roses during dormancy.

Soil Prep – Leave those dried leaves to compost on their own in your beds and as part of your mulch when planting. If your yard is covered with leaves, you can mow over them to feed your yard or rake them up and bag them to create leaf mold. Just mow over your leaves to shred them, place them in a large garbage bag, spray them with water and tie off the bag. Slice a few slits in the bag and store till next fall or spring. Or you can pay top dollar at the garden store, your choice!

Plan Your Plants – If you are thinking of adding or replacing plants, now is the time to research what kinds of plants will grow best in the Houston area, especially considering our hot/cold climate. There are so many varieties of native plants and seed varieties now available at your local nurseries that you're going to have a grand time choosing what's right for your yard. Or consider joining a garden club in order to trade and learn from those who have gardened for years. Native plants need less watering and less maintenance, provide years of beauty and support flora and fauna!

Book Club “Footnotes”

Book Club this month will be on February 28 at the home of Linda Peduzzi. The book up for discussion is Lessons In Chemistry by Bonnie Garmus. Set in the United States in the 60s, Lessons tells the story of Elizabeth Zott, a chemist doing important research at a California research institute. She is fired for being pregnant although she is a highly-gifted chemist. Her career takes a detour as she now finds herself an unemployed, 30-year-old single woman. Now she turns the home front into a staging ground for a cooking show where she takes an unusual approach to cooking. I heard it on good authority that she doesn't refer to salt as salt in a recipe but to sodium chloride. Who has recipes like that? We'll find out all about her original way of cooking at book club in February.

The author is from Seattle and has worked as a copywriter and creative director in the United States, Switzerland, and Colombia. Lessons is a creative book of history, humor, and part mystery when Elizabeth's daughter sets out to find more information about her family. This is the author's first novel, and she has done well for herself as it was a #1 New York Times bestseller and has won a Goodreads Choice Award.

Architectural Control Committee Reminder

If you plan to make improvements on the exterior of your home or on your property, you must obtain written approval from the Architectural Control Committee (ACC) prior to beginning work on the modification. Completion of the work without prior approval could lead to you being required to remove and restore the property to its original condition. The goal of the ACC is to serve the community by determining that your finished improvement will comply with the deed restrictions that were established to enhance the value of properties in the subdivision.

ACC approval is required for any changes or additions, including but not limited to items such as:

- Swimming pools
- Fencing addition or modification
- Painting the exterior of the home, trim or front door (even if using the same colors)
- Window replacements
- Addition of a gazebo, fountain, whole house generator or large play equipment
- Addition of a garage, storage shed, garden house or outdoor kitchen
- Roof replacement, if a different type or color of shingle will be used

Architectural Control Guidelines and a link to submit applications online may be found at <https://oocia.org/architectural-control-1>.

Protect Your Pipes and Landscaping

Matthew Burrington, owner of Burrington's Outdoor Living

Following the most recent extreme cold weather conditions we unfortunately encountered in our area, I've had several folks ask me "what are some things I can do to prevent my pipes and plants from freezing?" So here are five basic things you can do to help protect your landscaping and plumbing:

YOUR PIPES

- Your irrigation backflow device is the main connection point for your irrigation system to the main water line, and must be protected. First, close both valves. There is one on either side of the backflow device. Next, with a flat head screw driver, turn the two test ports on the backflow open to drain the water. Finally, make sure any exposed pipes are thoroughly wrapped with pipe insulation, and wrap the backflow device.
- Hose spigots are an easy one to forget, but given the fact they are exposed pipes and connected to your home's water lines, they need to be protected. You can purchase an insulated jacket made specifically for spigots, but if that's not an option, cover the exposed pipes with pipe insulation, wrap the spigot with a towel, and secure firmly with tape. Also, any exposed pipes in the garage need to be wrapped with pipe insulation.
- Dripping the faucets inside your home is absolutely a must do. Especially if the power goes out for long periods of time. Just turning on all of the restroom and kitchen faucets to a slow drip will keep water circulating through the pipes, and in turn, will help to keep the water from freezing inside the pipes.

YOUR LANDSCAPING

- First, bring anything potted inside the home or the garage. Next, identify the plants most susceptible to freeze. Tropicals are typically the most fragile when it comes to extreme cold, and covering them with a freeze cloth is the best protection. If that's not an option, blankets usually work well. Next, any newer plants or shrubs that may not be fully established may also need to be covered with freeze cloth or blankets to ensure survival.
- Protecting your citrus and ornamental trees is essential. Covering them with freeze cloth is ideal, but sheets or blankets secured around the base of the leaves will help, especially if they are established.

DOWNTOWN RODEO PARADE | February 25 Since 1938, the nation's fourth largest city is transformed from a bustling metropolis to a down-home celebration of Western heritage. Decorative floats intermingle with thousands of men and women on horseback to fill the streets with hoof beats and marching bands. Enthusiastic Houstonians join out-of-town spectators to line the streets and sidewalks to be involved in one of Houston's most popular celebrations! For more information, visit www.rodeohouston.com/Visit-the-Rodeo/Pre-Rodeo-Events/Parade.

TRAIL RIDES In 1952, four men traveled on horseback from Brenham, Texas, to raise awareness of the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. Today, more than 2,000 trail riders partake in the Rodeo's signature tradition each year. Riders hit the trail in an attempt to recreate the Old West, and in doing so, find a common ground that links us all to the Rodeo. Be a part of history and support the 11 trail rides as they cross the great state of Texas toward their destination, the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo.
