Separation/Divorce Policy

For parents who are separated, pending separation, divorced or engaged in litigation, a current custody order needs to be provided to me during the initial appointment as well as both parents contact information.

In separated or divorced families, the person who initiates services is held financially responsible. I do not provide separate bills for each parent if there is a custody order that stipulates a splitting of medical bills. It will be the parent who initiates the services who will be responsible for supplying the other parent with receipts of payment to be reimbursed in accordance to the court order.
