- I will require a plan for my Alaskan Klee Kai in the event of my death. Which option would work best for you? (Highlight Answer)

Turn the Akk to the breeder for assessment and placement in a new home.

A family member or friend will be responsible for the care and or placement of this Akk.

Note: (The breeder will be afforded the opportunity to assess the new home environment and retain the right to veto the placement).

The Alaskan Klee Kai can be a long-lived animal if cared for properly. I require all my AKK owners to send me an update and picture monthly, so I can stay updated on the “pros and cons” of my breeding program so I can continue to work towards improving my breeding program.

Note: This questionnaire will become part of your legal contract, should you choose a Klee Kai from Utah's Own Klee Kai
