

My artistic practice is deeply rooted in the natural world, the human form, and the intersection of science and mathematics. Through my work in painting, sculpture, design, and photography, I aim to visually convey my emotional and experiential perspectives. My medium of choice is acrylic paint, but I also find joy in exploring the vast array of materials and techniques available to me through my experimentation with multi-media art forms in my ongoing quest to push boundaries and discover new realms within the world of art.
