

RICHARD JOHNSON

That's quite a rock from rocker Jagger

Mick Jagger might finally be gathering some moss.

The Rolling Stone has been faithful to Melanie Hamrick for two years and now he's given her what looks like a diamond engagement ring.

The former ballerina was wearing the 4-carat sparkler, surrounded by sapphires, on the proper finger last Saturday in Boca Raton, Fla. The dance she choreographed, "She's a Rainbow," was performed to a medley of Stones songs as part of "A Night at the Ballet."

Mick wasn't there, but his ring was, and Melanie showed it to friends.

One source claims she said, "I'm engaged."

But Jagger's publicist Fran Curtis denied it. "He's not engaged," she said.

Jagger, 78, and Hamrick, 35, were inseparable at his Caribbean estate in Mustique as he recovered from heart surgery and then sat out the COVID scare.

The couple has a son, Dev, 5, who is Jagger's eighth child.

The Russian invasion of Ukraine has inspired awesome acts of charity.

Philanthropist Andy Sabin learned there was a shortage of insulin to treat Ukraine's diabetic patients and quickly got Eli Lilly to

Mick Jagger and Melanie

ahead with dozens of other choices.

Robin Wilson, founder of Clean Design Home, is the first Black woman with a textile collection at Macy's. The wellness entrepreneur has just launched a group of hypoallergenic pillows, sheets, blankets, towels and bathrobes in all 165 Macy's stores across the country.

me-pain, I am looking

ic star Kenny Chesney

y be true as flowerpow-sadly discovered while or her upcoming pilot
ngs of Flowers?"
the poet cowboy, the
ving jock who has
n 20 albums has never ing flowers like every onders Brooke, a for-
nent reporter.
nfirmed that there isn't
n referencing a flower.
ecause he's my favorite singer. I was hoping it would be my good luck charm to start the show."

Like flowers, Brooke, founder of the floral news website, is resilient. She and producer Tim Sabeen are going to forge ahead with dozens of other choices.

ment. This week, for the first time, we were doing it in Ukraine," she said.

Though the event was canceled, Saveliev is now helping place the young dancers in foreign ballet schools.

"Some of the kids are sharing my phone number. Calls are coming in the middle of the night. Hopefully, they can get across the border," she said.

"I have not slept in a week for more than three hours. We have saved 50 kids who are already in ballet class across Europe."

Kaja Sokola has claimed in a now in Los Angeles, where Weinstein faces another rape trial, Sokola wrote, "I want Mr. Weinstein to know

Robin Wilson, founder of Clean Design Home, is the first Black woman with a textile collection at Macy's. The wellness entrepreneur has just launched a group of hypoallergenic pillows, sheets, blankets, towels and bathrobes in all 165 Macy's stores across the country.

Magic Johnson (above), Bitcoin billionaire Brock Pierce and businesswoman Carole Crist spoke at the Wall Street Conference in Palm Beach, Fla. Crist, the former first lady of Florida, moderated the panel on Women Leadership & Empowerment and advised on programs that provide opportunities for single mothers.