A Tribute To John Williams

- Adopted by Paul Lavender

John Williams is an American composer and conductor. In a career that has spanned seven decades, he has composed some of the most popular, recognizable and critically acclaimed film scores in cinema history. He has a very distinct sound that mixes romanticism, impressionism and atonal music with complex orchestration. He is most known for his collaborations with Steven Spielberg and George Lucas and has received 26 Grammy Awards, five Academy Awards, 3 Emmy Awards and 4 Golden Globe Awards. With 54 Academy Award nominations, he is the second-most nominated person, after Walt Disney, and is the oldest Oscar nominee in any category, at 91 years old.

Symphony No. 25

-W.A. Mozart

This Symphony, in G minor, was written by the then 17-year-old Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart in October 1773, shortly after the success of his opera seria Lucio Silla. It was supposedly completed in Salzburg on October 5, a mere two days after the completion of his Symphony No. 24, although this remains unsubstantiated. Its first movement was used as the opening music in Miloš Forman's film biographical Amadeus. This is one of two symphonies Mozart composed in G minor, sometimes referred to as the "little G minor symphony." The other is the Symphony No. 40. Mozart was a prolific composer during the Classical period, writing over 800 works of almost every genre of his time.

Wonderful Worlds – Mike Stapley, Soloist

-Arr. by Victor Lopez

"What a Wonderful World" is a song written by Bob Thiele and George David Weiss. It was first recorded by Louis Armstrong and released in 1967 as a single. It topped the Pop charts in the UK, but was slow in the U.S. until it was used in, "Good Morning Vietnam." "(What a) Wonderful World" was mainly composed by songwriting team Lou Adler and Herb Alpert, and first recorded by Sam Cooke. The theme is that neither knowledge nor education can dictate feelings, but that love "could make the world a wonderful place."

Orpheus and Eurydice

-Christoph Willibald Gluck

This piece is from the opera composed by Christoph Willibald Gluck, based on the myth of Orpheus. The opera is the most popular of Gluck's works, and was one of the most influential on subsequent German operas. The piece was first performed at the Burgtheater in Vienna, 1762, in the presence of Empress Maria Theresa. Orfeo ed Euridice is the first of Gluck's "reform" operas, in which he attempted to replace the abstruse plots and overly complex music of opera seria with a "noble simplicity" in both the music and the drama.

Aladdin

- Alan Menken & Tim Rice

Aladdin was a 1992 American animated musical, fantasy, comedy film produced by Walt Disney, loosely based on the Arabic folktale "Aladdin" from the One Thousand and One Nights. The movie won the Academy Award for Best Original Score in 1992. The song, "A Whole New World," won the Academy Award and the Golden Globe Award for the Best Original Song that same year.
