About

Marc Nudelberg is a coach, entrepreneur, author, and TEDx speaker. He leverages his experiences as a Division I football coach and President of On the Ball to help individuals and their teams adopt the 1% better mindset. He focuses on the two biggest factors to success, thoughts and actions. He delivers energy, passion and competitive drive while helping people focus on the details and develop repeatable processes.

Speaker

“ Marc is an excellent speaker, kept our team super engaged and delivered the information clearly and concisely. He really got our team fired up!!! ”

Ever notice that everyone wants to fast-track to higher positions, but not everyone wants to do the work?

“Just do the freakin’ work” is the philosophy I was raised on. It’s what I watched my father do to build his businesses and it’s how I was elevated in Florida State University’s football program from an equipment manager to the coaching staff – all within six years. It’s also how I won Rookie of the Year in my first job outside of athletics after leaving a sports career that I thought I’d have for life. And it’s how I live my life every day, even as the president of our family business.

No matter if you’re at the bottom of the totem pole – where we’ve all been – or at the helm, we all have to do the freakin’ work.

This book is about lessons and skills to help you achieve your personal and professional goals.

It's about the parallels between football coaching and the business world, because over the past few years I've learned that just about everything that drives success depends on excellent systems, processes and routines, and finding ways to accept the challenge of getting 1% better everyday.

Trainer

Marc and his team came and worked with our sales leadership team. The experience was fantastic! So many good ideas to implement, my challenge is just figuring out which ones to do first...

- How Champions Think:

- Cultivating an athlete's high performance mindset in business.

- Own the Clock:

- Time management tactics of the top 1% to optimize your day.

- Modern Business Development:

- A repeatable process focused on developing relationships with digital tools to create opportunity and a robust pipeline.

- LinkedIn Like A Pro:

- The rules of engagement for the biggest networking platform in the world.

- The Power of Video:

- Leveraging the most powerful communication tool to get peoples attention, build trust, and create action.

- Leadership is a Lifestyle

- The principles leaders live by and how they apply to your life and business
