

What is a Coffee Snob?

Coffee snobs get a bad rep. Scarf-wearing, glasses-donning, coffee-shop loving hipsters have made us all look like uppity jerks, but we're not all like that. Being a coffee snob is simply having a deep appreciation for coffee.

There is more than one type of coffee snob.

Some coffee snobs enjoy experimenting with different types of coffee grown in various regions of our beautiful planet.

Other snobs delight in perfecting how to brew the best cup possible.

And there are those snobs who enjoy experimenting with different varieties of coffee beans to roast different flavor combinations.

Some enjoy trying weird and crazy blends, while others are single origin purists.

No matter the type of snob you are, Running Bird Roasters has a select line of offerings. Even for those who might not be coffee snobs... yet.

Some coffee drinkers might not even be aware of the different flavor's coffee can have – fruity, earthy, nutty, chocolatey, caramel, spicy, and more.

It's all about experimenting and finding what you like best.
