

Lung Health Ambassador Program

The Lung Health Ambassador Program (LHAP) is an initiative to educate young students in Baltimore about the impact of the environment on lung health.

LHAP provides educational resources and leads sessions at local schools that teach students about the risk factors for lung disease. Lessons have been done on vaping, climate change, and more.

Email breathe@jhu.edu to learn more and find out how your school can participate.
