The believers in Jesus became a community who shared with each other.

No one said, "This is mine!"

When someone had a need...

... the community helped take care of that need.

People shared their money.

Some people sold what they owned...

... and gave the money to the community.

Believers Share

Acts 4:32-37

The believers in Jesus became a community who shared with each other.

No one said, "This is mine!"

When someone had a need, the community helped take care of that need.

People shared their money.

Some people who owned property sold what they owned.

They gave the money they received to the community.

When someone had a need, there was money available to help people with that need.

As the people shared what they had with each other, they continued to teach and learn about Jesus.
