President's Message

Wishing everyone a happy Purim and a healthy and enjoyable Pesach.

With Covid waning, I hope to see more of our regulars in shul in the near future, even if it is not every week. Hopefully we can get back to some normalcy. I would like to thank everyone who has helped us maintain our minyan through this pandemic.

Pesach is a time for families to get together and hopefully people will be able to get together with their families this year, and realize all that we have to be thankful for.

We have started to have some kiddushes, when there is a sponsor. If you would like to sponsor a kiddush, please let the Rebbetzin know so you can reserve a date.

Charles Miller
President

VIEW FROM THE BIMAH

BH

Someone once said, “Just when you think you know the answers, I change the questions.”

As we were winding down from a devastating pandemic that lasted two and half years, and all the troubles that it caused, we are now in the midst of a dangerous and frightening war, which has already claimed many lives, and has disrupted numerous communities, including dislocating countless Jewish families. Busloads of men, women and children from all over Ukraine were seen fleeing their country, as it was being attacked from land, sea and air. While everyone is hoping and praying for a swift end to this war, the prospects seem grim. Some political experts are predicting a long and drawn out conflict; let’s hope they are wrong. But in the mean time, so many people are fleeing their homes and communities, not knowing when they will return.

We cannot stand by idly. We must help those who need our support, and financially assist in the rescue effort. Additionally, as Jews and as believers, we know that everything that happens is by the hands of G-d, and we need to pray to Him to bring about a speedy and lasting peace to that part of the world.

By Divine Providence, this unexpected turn of events is occurring shortly before the holiday of Purim, a time when Jews all over the world were in grave danger. Logically, the predicament Jews were in at the time could have resulted, Heaven forbid, in the annihilation of the entire Jewish people. And yet, in a completely irrational way, the perpetrators of injustice found their untimely end, while the Jewish people are here today to tell the tale.

Having a special relationship with G-d means that we are not bound by the laws of nature. Of course, He expects us to work with nature to pursue what is needed. However, a Jew’s primary mode of resolving any problem is by tuning in to Hashem’s infinite powers. This is done, primarily, through prayer and by giving charity. These are the time-tested ways for meriting any miracle, especially one so desperately needed.

May G-d watch over the whole world, and especially over the Jewish people, wherever they may be, and quickly usher the era of Moshiach when peace will reign the world over.

Wishing you and yours a joyous Purim!

I (we*) _____ authorize Rabbi Yitzchak Goldenberg to dispose all chametz that may be in my (our) possession wherever it may be – at home, at my (our) place of business, or elsewhere – in accordance with the requirements of Jewish Law as incorporated in this special contract for sale of chametz.

About the Sale of Chametz

Since it is prohibited to possess chametz on Passover, any chametz left un-disposed must be sold to a non-Jew.

All such chametz, as well as all chametz utensils that were not thoroughly cleaned, should be stored away. The storage area should be locked or taped shut for the duration of the holiday.

Since there are many legal intricacies involved in this sale, a rabbi acts as our agent both to sell the chametz to the non-Jew on the morning before Passover and also to buy it back the evening after Passover ends.

SISTERS IN THE HOOD

I'm back and so is Purim. Purim comes once a year and it feels like I have been away from this news letter for the same amount of time. I apologize for my absence. I spent the last year and a half recovering from broken bones in my legs. I have been home from Rehab since the middle of October and plan on staying here.

I will whisper the next sentence...

One month after Purim comes Passover.

Don't worry, you still have plenty of time to use up your flour and to use the last of your matzah from last year for Matzah Brei. Maybe for Sunday breakfast..My family does not eat matzah between Purim and Passover.. When Samuel/Shlomo and Matthew were little, I allowed them to eat any open chametz a week before Passover. It really helped to empty my cabinets but gave them sugar highs. Maybe I should invite them to repeat that this year. The sugar highs would not be my problem, but their wives.

I want to thank the shopping crew and packing group for doing a great job with the Purim bags. It is like a birthday party when you get a "goody bag". Hope you enjoy all the wonderful treats inside.

I just called and found out that Shop-Rite has their Passover section setup. Take the stress out of last minute, shop early.

Condolences to our friend, Linda Levine and her son Ryan on the passing of her mother, Marylin Silbert. Linda's husband, Alan past away from Covid near the beginning of it. Ryan celebrated his Bar Mitzvah at Young Israel about 15 or 16 years ago. May the Levine family and all mourners find comfort in Zion.

A few months ago, I started having a weekly phone visit with my Mechutan, (Kit's mother). She lives in Pittsburgh and we have only met face-face 2 or 3 times. It is very interesting to find all about a person in a once a week , one hour phone conversation. It must be like getting to know a J-Date match before meeting in person.

Nechama Dina's women's Zoom class meets weekly except when we don't. Right now we are discussing the weekly Parsha. We are looking at the underlying meaning and relating it to our lives. This past week we also learned about Purim.

This article is very over due and, I do not want to upset Lynda any more, so I will end. Also for my first writing in over a year, I think it is enough.

Please be careful, stay safe and healthy. Enjoy the upcoming holidays.

Carol for Sisterhood

Dryer Vent Safety

Your clothes dryer vent should be inspected annually. Lint gradually builds up, and although you might regularly clean out the interior lint screen, it's important that the vent leading to the outside must also be cleaned.

Facts about Home Clothes Dryer Fires

"2,900 home clothes dryer fires are reported each year and cause an estimated 5 deaths, 100 injuries, and $35 million in property loss.

Failure to clean the dryer (34 percent) is the leading cause of home clothes dryer fires.

Ask The Rabbi....

Q: Can we mourn a pet?

On the Death of a Pet

ב"ה

Thursday, 9 February, 2017 - 3:08 pm

Posted by Mrs. Nechama Eilfort

Rabbis are asked a large variety of questions. We field questions as diverse as the proper way to observe Shabbos, to the Kosher status of food, to how best to educate children, to where to purchase a Mezuzah, and on and on. Over the years I have been asked on several occasions if there is a proper way to mourn a beloved family pet that has died. I remember the first time I was asked this question I was taken aback. In response I hemmed and hawed and asked for some time to check on the correct answer.

We, in Judaism, do not have specific prayers or mourning practices for pets. Why not? Those who have family pets can attest to the fact that a beloved dog or cat can seem like part of the family. The unbridled love and loyalty displayed by a tail-wagging dog or the comfort offered by a snuggling-purring cat can be downright therapeutic. In fact, animal therapy is a growing area of treatment of numerous human maladies. Pets have demonstrated incredible levels of what-can-only-be-described as heroism. So why don't we pray over a dead pet? Why is a mourning death ritual not described in our sources? Is there something affirmative that can be done?

Before answering it behooves us to try to better understand how Judaism views an animal. As we know from the story of Genesis animals are creations of G-d. In fact, animals were created before humankind. We are commanded in very strong terms not to be cruel to animals. One of the seven Noahide laws, which are considered universal in that they are commanded to all humanity, states that the children of Noah (all of humanity) may not eat the limb from a living animal, which many explain includes being cruel to animals. The Code of Jewish Law, based upon the Talmud even directs us to learn certain character traits from animals; for instance hard work, cleanliness, and discretion, all as modeled by different species.

We can go even further. In Lurianic Kabbalah we find the notion that everything that exists does so by virtue of a divine spark – a G-dly energy as it were - found within it. We typically call this divine spark a soul. If not for a particular vivifying energy, that being, whatever it may be (inanimate, plant, animal, or human) would simply not exist. It is somewhat analogous to electricity within a lightbulb. If the electrical current is cut off the light goes out instantaneously. If the divine spark is removed, existence - also known as life - ceases.

On the Death of a Pet

From this explanation we see that our beloved pets indeed have souls. However, it is of critical importance to understand that the soul is radically different than that of a human. It is of extreme importance that we do not fall into the trap of viewing an animal's life or death as tragic as significant as a human's life and death. We see today the consequences of this lack of understanding, whereas many people have stated that when given the choice between rescuing a beloved pet or stranger from drowning, they would choose the pet. That is a moral failure of epic proportions.

At the same time, however, denying or even ignoring the death of a loving pet is unpalatable to the millions of people who have had their quality of life enhanced by a pet.

In the best tradition of the Baal Shem Tov, who enjoined us to learn from everything that happens and employ it in our service of G-d, we can indeed find ways to appropriately react to the death of a pet. May I suggest that the 'mourner' can take a careful inventory of what the pet did that helped make life better, and then make an honest attempt to try and make life better for another human being in a similar way. If one's pet dog always greeted the owner with a wagging tail (eg. unbridled joy) try and emulate that when meeting with friends etc.

The best part about pets is that they were receptacles of love by their human owners, teaching their owners how to bestow love – even on lower beings. And that is a grand lesson that can always come in handy!
