100 Answers for $100

Professional Help for the Tiny House DIY Community

It's actually more like 201 answers for a hundred dollars because we're tossing in The Big Book of Tiny Houses which has 101 answers all by itself, but that didn't sound as catchy as 100 for $100 so we're going with that.

What do you get for your hundred bucks? Well, we'll send over the Big Book to start. Then we'll send you a digital copy of the plan set for our Original ThinHaus A2410 ~ Onyx. And then the fun really starts because we'll answer your next 100 engineering, marketing or general tiny house building questions to help you decide if this is right for you or if you're already building, we'll help you get it right somewhere near the first time.

LEGAL DISCLAIMER

These answers are just our opinions and are not meant to be complete, legal engineering consultations. After all, you're the one building the thing and we don't really have all the facts or control of anything ... but we'll try to give you as much info as we can based upon what you tell us and help you get to the right place on your build or decision. Take our input and add it to a local, professional expert and you will most likely have the best, reliable answers to your questions. If we tell you thing and you try to do as we say, but it all comes crashing down, don't get mad at us. It's all on you!

100 answers is a lot of help and there's no time limit to use it (and we're not really going to keep track). The idea here is to be there for you when you have questions. So, now you have a friend in the tiny house business. Go ahead and ask.
