A Grand National Show Pensacola, FL ...September 2-4

This 1994 MCA Grand National Show was hosted by the Gulf Coast Regional Mustang Club. Held at University Mall in Pensacola, Florida, the event attracted over 300 cars and numerous vendors.

Even though Friday was not perfect weather-wise, the rest of the weekend certainly was with blue skies and sunshine on Saturday, and a warm but cloudy Sunday.

There was a constant flow of spectators through the event, many of whom were mall shoppers side tracked by the collection of gorgeous Mustangs.

University Mall's parking lot was an ideal facility for the show. The Mall's air conditioning and handy food court were perfect companions for hot, hungry Mustangers.

When was the last time you saw a '66 Hertz car and a 500KR parked next to each other? Let's see now, would we drive the black car at night, or would the big block be more appropriate for after hours cruising?

A large crowd leisurely awaits Sunday's awards ceremony

Mustang fever can even infect small children.

A row of shiney, waxed Mustangs wait their turn with the MCA judges. Notice the depth of reflection in the Boss 302's paint.

Snake bites were common down this row. Virtually every year Shelby Mustang was on display for our viewing pleasure.

Check out the side pipes on this lowered '94 Cobra. These fiberglass sidepipe housings and their related component pieces are aftermarket units. We think they look like they belong on these cars.

The show brought cars in from at least five different states. The mix between early and late model Mustangs favored the early models in this particular instance. However, there were many very impressive Mustangs on hand regardless of the year. The Shelby badge was also well represented with most years on display. An original Cobra and a number of "other" high performance Fords were on hand just to sweeten the pot.

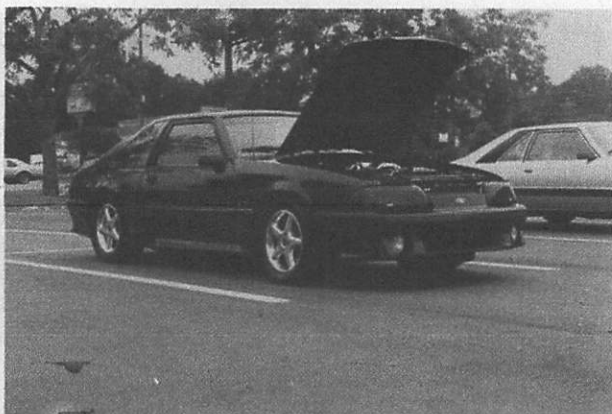

The Gulf Coast Regional Mustang Club has given us one more great reason to check out the beautiful state of Florida.

This yellow '66 is a real road car. It was driven to Pensacola from its home state Mississippi just to check out the show. With mom and dad in the front and youngsters in the back seat, the luggage rack became more than a decoration. This is not the first National event this Mustang family has been spotted cruising through.

This hot looking late model belongs to a locally stationed military man. He's being transferred to a base in Philly in time for the Nationals there in '95.

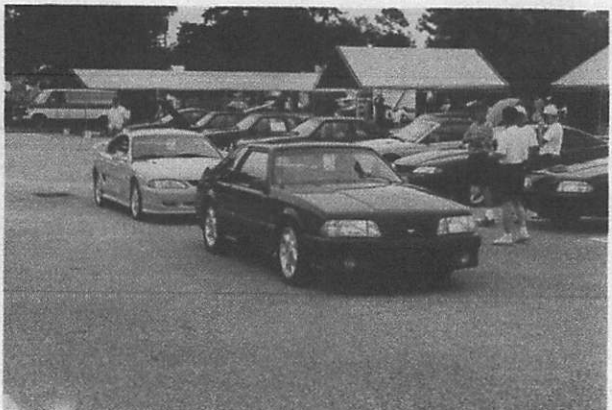

Mustang IIs are popping up at shows more and more these days. A gorgeous example was this '78 King Cobra with factory 302.

There's only one thing to say about this ruby red '67 fasback; "We want it".

This tunnel-rammed Shelby required a slightly 'notched' hood to clear the induction. Imagine this sight in your rearview mirror.

Here's a nice body style perspective on the late model vs. the '94. The '94 happens to be a Python, the '93 a Cobra.

A California Special from Massachusetts at the Nationals in Pensacola Florida! No wonder he has to drive it at "Warp II".

The weather was near perfect all weekend with an absolutely perfect day thrown in on Saturday. It made the browsing all the more enjoyable. There were over 300 "mostly Mustangs" to dream about. Notice the lone '57 T-bird among Ponies.

Pensacola had no shortage of interesting Late Models like this '83-5.0 convertible (one of 1001), and '84 turbocharged SVO.

This '92 coupe doesn't even exist. Note the Cobra badge. Its a nicely "tweaked" Mustang modified by someone besides its first official owner.

This GT convertible was just one of several impressive '67s that showed up for the event.

A good collection of vendors made the scene with new and old parts alike for sale. Check out the selection of intake manifolds in the foreground.

To the delight of some of their rivals, Norman and Faye Lawrence officially retired their immaculate '65 from competition. National Head Judge Ricky Simmons presents their award.

The Boss 302 of Wes Alford also retired from competition at Pensacola. Wes says the car was made to drive, so now he's going to enjoy some time with it on the streets!

The mood of the Pensacola show was festive for all including these two young Mustang enthusiasts seen here chatting with the designers for the new Camaro.

Sunday morning's awards ceremony was attended by over 200 people. It made for a relaxing and entertaining finish to a great National show.
