WHOH received the following thanks from Dr. Lovely N. Poitier, Manager of Chaplaincy Services–South Carolina Department of Juvenile Justice:

“These backpacks were compiled with love and we are eternally grateful to each donor. One of the youth had been released and a few weeks later was back. I was so shocked to see this familiar face. “Chaplain, I got in trouble for stealing a bar of soap,” the youth explained. From then, I made a commitment to always send our young people away with some type of “starter kit,” inclusive of hygiene products, a Bible, other enrichment literature and clothing if needed. That is exactly what these backpacks are—starter kits for kids who need a fresh start. These backpacks serve as such a rich testimony for staff members to see how volunteers extend constant expressions of love through gifts like this. Ultimately, we thank God for your generosity and your commitment to help us empower young lives for the future.”

UPCOMING EVENTS

Christmas luncheon at Columbia DJJ-Willow Lane on December 7th and Christmas morning breakfast at the Greenville County Juvenile Detention Center on December 25th.
